*HEAVY SQUALL. — The town of Montague was visited yesterday by an unusual squall which brought a terrific downpour of rain and hail, accompanied by high winds. In a band approximately two to three miles wide, the storm passed directly over the town about 1:40 p.m., and within twenty minutes it had passed on to the east. Drains which had been constructed to handle a considerable quantity of water were unable to cope with the heavy flood of water which soon overflowed the drains and ran down the main thoroughfare. Accompanied by thunder and lightning, the squall forced almost all business to halt for a short period. Following the storm, traffic resumed its normal heavy pace through the town and skies cleared to bring in a space of fine weather.

Elected President of King's County P. C. Association

Mr. Melvin McQuaid, Souris was elected president of the Kings County Progressive Conservative Association at the annual meeting held in Georgetown yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected were Mr. E. H. Stewart, Montague, vice-president, and Charles Richards, Murray Harbour secretary. Mr. McQuaid was appointed chairman of the meeting and after the reading of the minutes named a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers. On this committee were William White-way, Cameron Reid and John Sullivan.

The Chairman then called on Mr. R. R. Bell, Provincial Leader, to introduce Mr. Donald Fleming, M. P., the guest speaker. A., Federal Candidate.

Another Clue

Continued from page 1. The search ended in the bush 65 miles west of here, provincial police prepared to run down a lead made public Monday night when Wilbert Coffin, 39-year-old prospector from nearby York Centre, testified at the inquest. Coffin said that when he met the hunters June 10, the day after they entered the bush, he also met two other Americans travelling in a jeep. Coffin said the two men in the jeep were introduced to him by Eugene Lindsey as "friends from the States." He did not remember their names but they appeared to be between 35 and 40 years of age. The pair in the jeep was a different one from another pair of American hunters known to have travelled in the area earlier by the same type of vehicle, it was learned from police.

The first pair is known to have come out of the area June 3 two days before the Lindsey's and Clair left home to travel by truck to Gaspé, police said. Coffin said he met the hunters when their truck broke down with fuel pump trouble. He brought the youngest of the hunters—Richard Lindsey—to Gaspé where a new fuel pump was purchased and took him back to the hunting area.

Coffin vaguely remembered the licence plates on the jeep were dark, probably black, with orange-colored numerals. Pennsylvania licence plates this year are orange with dark blue numerals. Meanwhile, relatives of the slain hunters prepared to return home today with the remains.

Clarence Clair, father of the dead youth, will motor with the bodies packed in a welded container placed on top of his car. Clair is travelling with his wife, daughter and Clyde Sell, Lindsey's brother-in-law. Police have decided not to release immediately the hunters' truck, guns, hunting equipment and ragged pieces of clothing chewed or ravaged by bears.

Clair said he is thinking of arranging for a memorial to the hunters. The area where they died is crown land and permission from the provincial government would have to be obtained before the memorial — probably a simple stone with a plaque—could be erected.

Joint Meeting In Murray River

Another in the series of joint meetings was held in Murray River last evening with Hon. T. J. Kickham, M. P., for Kings, and Major John A. MacDonald, M. L. A., Progressive Conservative candidate, each presented his views on the election issues. Mr. Kickham was supported by Hon. Dougald MacKinnon, M. L. A., and Dr. Lorne Bonnell, M. L. A., and Mr. MacDonald was supported by Hon. Donald Fleming, M. P., Eglinton, and Mr. R. R. Bell, Provincial leader of the Progressive Conservatives.

Some Startling

Continued from page 1. The delegates risked arrest, but in fact the East German police appeared to turn a blind eye to the steady stream of train passengers who arrived empty-handed and went back with bags bulging. West Berlin officials said more than 4,000 East Germans who arrived here late Monday night to get the food stayed overnight in special camps set up by the Red Cross. The only known East German "counter-measure" against the food plan was a forged West Berlin newspaper distributed here by Communists with a headline "West Berlin unemployed to get free food parcels on Wednesday." This was immediately denied by West Berlin officials. West Berlin police said new confiscations of food by East Berlin on the borders had been reported. Here is what an elderly woman said about police confiscations: "They don't dare. I bet you East policemen after duty hours change and head for West Berlin to get the food themselves. If not, their wives are sure to stand amongst us right here in the queues."

On the central front, however, AP correspondent Robert Gibson found the Chinese not so friendly. He said the Chinese had replaced flagpoles and hoisted large Red flags on the sector of the last Communist victory of the war. In view of the tremendous number of chances for violations of incidents across the wide front, there was nothing to suggest that the truce in its early stages at last was not going well and that the Communists were not obeying its terms.

The 2½-mile-wide strip across the peninsula that separates the opposing armies during the truce was rapidly taking shape. Signs marking off the boundaries were being erected at regular intervals and military police were stationed along roads at points where the boundary intersected highways. The withdrawal was not without its tragedy. At the 9th Republic of Korea division area, three South Korean soldiers were killed and at least eight more injured in an explosion of an artillery shell which inadvertently had been placed in a heap of trash that was being burned.

NEW GLASGOW W. I.

July meeting of New Glasgow W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. M. Waterworth on July 7. Roll call was answered by 14 members with one visitor present. New committees were: school and lunch, Mrs. Harold Dickieson, Mrs. Earl Houston; sick committee, Mrs. M. Waterworth; Mrs. Vince Deveraux; program, Mrs. Melvin MacLeod; Mrs. R. B. Dickieson. Mrs. Melvin MacLeod read a paper on federated news.

Mrs. Earl Houston invited members to her home for the August meeting when roll call will be answered by "what I should do for school." It was left to the mothers to decide on a music teacher for another year. Lunch was served by committee assisted by the hostess.

5,000 Tons

Some of the 30,000 East Germans who came were from the Baltic Sea Island of Reugen, in the Northern part of East Germany, and others from near the Czech border in the south. Reugen is well over 200 miles away. Many said that the train fares and travel time were more than compensated by the quantity and quality of the food. A woman from Bautzen said, "my people back home need the food desperately."

Often today one East German woman would step forward and present six or seven identity cards — the representative of a whole neighborhood. The delegates risked arrest, but in fact the East German police appeared to turn a blind eye to the steady stream of train passengers who arrived empty-handed and went back with bags bulging. Potato Price Continued from page 5 own personal business, and from the statement which is being presented to you today you will see that my judgment has not been as you might have hoped it to be. However, I do take some consolation from the fact that very many growers, and dealers along with the Marketing Board who should have been our guide were unable to forecast the market and the fluctuation to come. "From the beginning of the season last year all reports indicated that potatoes would be in short supply. This was the outcome of the best thought in Canada, and United States. I was led to believe that their conclusions were correct; I also had the advice of Canadian National Railroad that supplies of refer cars would be at a minimum. I therefore as a matter of good business stored several cars of potatoes in Toronto while ordinary transportation was sufficient, and referers were not required. My judgment was correct in the turnip business, and I did not rely on any outside information. I formulated a contract for 40 cars of turnips which showed a profit of approximately $10,000. "I mentioned this because I do believe that my judgment was not entirely out of line, and should we have experienced a normal situation in the marketing of potatoes our losses would have been really at a minimum. However, we can only say that due to circumstances which we had the farmers who sold their potatoes last fall actually did receive the maximum for his crop, and any loss which we may show has been passed on to the farmer as a payment for his crop. This may be only a very poor explanation of our financial standing, however it does represent the cause of any loss which we may have shown, and the farmer has no doubt benefited by the extra price we have paid out. "It is not our intention to go into the merits or demerits of the potato Marketing Board. The situation has been so apparent, and so subject to discussion that we need not deal with it further. Prices were set above any return which we were at any time able to obtain. It must always be realized that we have a premium on Prince Edward Island potatoes up to possibly 10c or 15c per bag, but otherwise we must sell in world markets; with less than 2 per cent of potatoes grown we have no way to control world markets. Until such time as a market can be set up for the main bulk of potatoes grown in the North American Continent it would seem a hopeless situation for any control to be set up by a producing country such as our own. "We would further suggest that when a price is established by a board or otherwise, full consideration should be given to the payment of any differential between the market price, and that which is obtainable by the Board. Until such time as this situation is effective no interference with the price of supplies should be undertaken."
