

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD S. WAITE

Bedeque Is Setting For A Pretty Autumn Wedding

In the Central Bedeque Baptist Church a pretty wedding was solemnized on September 17 at 2:30 p.m. when Harriet Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Bigelow, became the bride of Harold Sim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Waite. Rev. Charles A. Britton performed the ceremony. Mrs. Fred Waite was in charge of the wedding music. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion with gladioli and dahlias. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor length wedding gown of lace and net over satin, with a matching headpiece and veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Miss Violet Compton, as brides-

MARY HAWORTH

Husband's In-Law Problem Increases Wife's Anger

Dear Mary Haworth—My husband's partisan tender solicitude for his cunning, shrewd, avicious kinfolk in Sicily has left me drained of any feelings or respect for him, I am sick of being second fiddle in his life, and am ready to give him his freedom to return to them and their vicious circle.

After the Second World War, we sent them food, clothes and money for about five years. In 1952, Victor went to see them, and found them getting along so well he sent no more parcels on his return. But money, yes, he hid my back, as they, being lazy, greedy and jealous, never get enough.

They are selfish, vulgar people, of filthy habits, who treated me cruelly and inhospitably last summer, when I visited them during a trip abroad.

PATRIOTISM FIRED HATE

As their guest, I was unobtrusive, helpful, paid my own way, gave them small gifts, etc.—but when they would verbally attack my country, I'd rise very proudly to her defense. This, and the fact that I didn't spend lavishly, may explain their hatred of me, and their vitriolic attacks on my character in letters to my husband, with whom they maintain a flowery correspondence.

Victor, I regret to say, believes all their lies. He gives no credence to my side of the story. He says they are his blood and come above and before me and he will keep up the relationship and the correspondence, and I have nothing to say about it.

I am fiftyish, attractive, conservative, a neat housekeeper and give some time to community work. My husband is 60, a good provider, no woman-chaser or bar-frequenting, he helps with household chores, is clean, but smokes excessively. We have no children. He discouraged the idea of adoption and decided the welfare of his sister and brothers was paramount.

Your advice on my in-law problem will be much appreciated. E. S.

Dear E. S.—Granted that all you say of your in-laws' ascality may be true, still they aren't the fundamental problem that bothers you. Your soul is being tried by your own sins against charity—your own hatred, jealousy, frustrated anger, etc.—a plague of destructive emotions turned up by your thoughts of them.

If they lived next door, they might, in themselves, be your problem. But being so far away, across the world, they have

ELLEN'S DIARY

Autumn Maple Leaves Add Splendor To Floral Display

"If I had a say in it" our repair-man of the other day commented with a swart smile "do you know which one of all would be my choice?" "Why, the Island born and reared, His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan, of course!" we smiled.

"You said it, Missis! Now there's a man-a-great man!" he nodded. "And let me tell you something—he never forgot anybody he knew on his way up. No sir, not he! Just the same always... You don't know him? No. It's a pity. You'd like him. Every body does. Not only for his successes for he is a clever man, but also for the kindly man that he is."

There now, there's not much wrong with this machine is there?" he beamed, testing it. "You're a magician!" we chuckled. "That is pretty" we offered, admiring the bouquet grand-daughter was arranging for us this afternoon in a vase before the swinging mirror of the quaint bureau James declares must be "fairly old, because it was here years, yes, years before I was born." She straightened a marigold, bent a sprig of stock, lifted a drooping pansy's face, and then with nice effect put in for a charming background a sunburst of maple leaves from the tree which grows not far from her own bedroom window.

"Yes, it is," she agreed. "I climbed the tree to get the leaves" she explained, "quite a chore in itself. You know" she smiled "they say things that one has to make an effort to get are always most appreciated. Perhaps that's why I think it is pretty!"

The Fall holidays pass busily for both children. She is the home-helper; errand girl and baby entertainer, so good to Alex, the brisk active lad of the house across the lane. Noting her loving care today, we were reminded of the little girl who while carrying a heavy babe in her arms was asked, "and isn't he too heavy for you to carry?" "Oh no, he's not heavy" the small one smiled in some surprise "You see, he's my brother!"

Throughout his holidays, the fields have claimed Mack. He is one of "the men." Interested as they are in the farm-planting and every undertaking at hand. "How many of us were there?" he echoed our query this evening, when together we spoke of those on the "payroll" today. "Let me see...yes, six altogether, and that soon cuts a mighty nice swath in any field of mangels" he nodded.

That is the current interest—the harvesting of mangels. At Rob's, of late, in pictured October days.

Like a colorful autumn leaf we saw fall today, another day has fallen, loosed its hold and silently drifted away. An idle day it has been for this housewife, in an old house of quiet rooms, that brings now its folks to their rest. Until tomorrow—Diary—Good-night.

Hilliard-Costello Marriage Is Solemnized In Ontario

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church, Willowdale, Ontario, when Loretta Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pope Costello, New Wiltshire, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Alfred, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. William Hilliard, Willowdale, Ontario.

Rev. Ralph Villella officiated at the ceremony. Given in marriage by her brother, Leo, the bride looked charming in a ballerina length gown of white Swiss organza over taffeta. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a jewelled crown and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

CHURCHILL W. M. S.

The October meeting of the Churchill Presbyterian W. M. S. was held in the Church and the meeting opened with call to worship taken from Psalm 81—verse 1. "Sing aloud unto our God, our strength, make a joyful noise unto the God of Jacob."

Opening hymn 410. Scripture reading Acts, chapter 22 verses 16-22 was read by Mrs. Robert MacKinnon. Chapter 28 of St. Matthew and chapter 1 of St. Mark was then read.

Bible exposition was read by Mrs. Lewis Darrach. Mrs. Killen then led in prayer. Roll call was answered by 12 members with verse of scripture containing word "Harvest." Offering was received amounting to $3.55 and dedicated by president.
