The directors voted the franchise to Hume after reconsidering Friday's rejection of an application by Hume and the National Hockey League club. WHL directors decided earlier to proceed with a pension plan for the players but it was not determined when the plan would go into effect.

SPORT ECHOES

An Interesting Letter

We received an interesting letter from Al Burke of Ottawa, a bowling enthusiast, who had read our comments about not being impressed by the bowling all-stars on television. He took mild, gentlemanly objection to our view. (Most sports fans are like that: the bores who write scurrilous letters are factually few and far between.) Mr. Burke says in part: "I've found in this game of bowling you can be let down so quickly and badly that it isn't funny, and

Fantastic Bowler At 75

Mr. Burke sent two clippings from the Ottawa Citizen of bowling championships, and one of them contained a large picture of Al Burke himself with a heading "fantastic bowling by veteran". Burke, who is 75, had scored an 884 triple. His strings were 294, 286, 294. "They say we Canadians do not blow our horns too long," Al says, "well, maybe it's a little late for me to start, but at

Former Charlotteonian

Al concludes: "One of my old friends whom I'd like to be remembered to is Willard MacDonald, who I think left Charlottetown about the same time as I did, in 1947." Thanks for the letter, Al, and why don't you come down to Summerside. We'll take you to Crest Lines, and

Al Kaline Suffers Broken Collarbone

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit manager Bob Schefeling, faced with the loss of Al Kaline for possibly two months because of a broken collarbone, acknowledged that losing the Tigers' No. 1 star was "like draining some of our life's blood."

Mr. Kaline cited the example of a friend of his who had a 9th triple a few nights before the finale, but lost his championship, bowling only 67. He had made $500 in the eliminations, but didn't have 1 in the finals. "As I said," Mr. Kaline continued, "the game has no respect for anyone and I have never seen a bowler who didn't have his share of bad games."

Why do more people keep buying Goodyears again and again and again?

Research shows that people who do not own Goodyear tires switch brands a good deal, looking for a better tire. We wish them luck. On the other hand, Goodyear owners continue to buy Goodyear tires more often than any other brand. Question: What is the difference between the two groups? Answer: Satisfaction. Goodyear owners have experienced the satisfaction which comes from full value received. With Goodyear, you fit too. It's guaranteed.

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER BRAND

You get a bigger yield of quality potatoes when insects are controlled with Shell's endrin.

POTATOES:

Now! Shell endrin helps Maritime farmers obtain bigger potato yields through control of all major pests.

Shell's endrin controls flea beetles, Colorado beetles, aphids, and leafhoppers.

Endrin is effective and economical: one application will last up to two weeks. As fewer sprays are required, you save both time and money. Here is how this powerful insecticide can help you increase your crop income.

One way of obtaining maximum yields and highest crop grades is efficient insect control. Money spent in the purchase of Shell's endrin can bring a return worth many times the expense. And endrin can play a major role in helping Maritime farmers keep their potato crop Canada's best and biggest.

How pests reduce crop yields

Potato pests sap young plants of nourishment essential to their growth and to the proper development of the tubers. Their combined action will result in lower yields and poorer grades. Flea beetles and Colorado beetles may cause serious losses early in the season. Look out for these pests, and treat as soon as infestation is observed.

Leafhopper feeding makes the leaves turn brown, curl upward and inward—and eventually die. This condition, called "hopperburn," will drastically reduce yields. Leafhoppers can also transmit with devastating effects a virus known as "purple top."

Aphids suck the sap from the leaves and they reproduce so rapidly they can stunt or kill the plants. They too can spread virus diseases such as leafroll, mosaic and spindle tuber. They can do more damage this way than by feeding on the plants. Treat potatoes as soon as the first aphids are observed.

For greatest convenience of application and storage, endrin is available in liquid and in wettable powder form—also as a dust. Endrin mixes easily with fungicides for dual insect and disease protection.

Ask your local insecticide dealer or your agricultural adviser about Shell's endrin.

Low cost, long lasting endrin protection

Shell's endrin can effectively and economically control all major potato pests. As little as 1/4 pound of endrin per acre is all it takes to do the job. Endrin's long-lasting action means fewer applications, savings in time, machinery and money.

Results prove

Shell endrin's superiority

Endrin has been used successfully for several years. It is recommended for potato insect control by most Canadian provinces.
