Fresh Corn On The Cob Husk-y Succulent Treat

THROUGHOUT the cook-out months from May through September, fresh sweet corn is abundant nationwide. When cut, it is rapidly cooked, shipped by refrigerator truck, and in most supermarkets is sold from refrigerated cases. Corn should be kept the shortest possible time refrigerated or in a cool place, husked just before serving-time, and cooked in rapidly boiling water 12 to 15 minutes for the summer months. A pot luck supper was also planned for a later date.

Meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer, and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Earle MacKay. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Colin Adams.

Minutes were read by Mrs. Gerald Mill, acting secretary. Roll call for next meeting will be answered with the text word, "Glorious." Meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Following the meeting of the WMS, a Ladies Aid meeting was held and opened with scripture from John 1: 15, with Mrs. Ivan Dickieson presiding.

Minutes and treasurer's report given by Mrs. Wallace Pickering were read and approved. At the dedication service held recently, Mrs. Lester Woodside was appointed to present the Remembrance Book, and Mrs. Ivan Dickieson to present the hymn books.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Flicker Tapped A Code From A Telegraph Pole

Scampie uttered a surprised and excited yelp in the quiet of this afternoon when he spied a machine in the lane. Peter, close by, stopped in his tracks. A pleased smile spread over his face. And in a twinkling the fisherman's truck, bright and new, drew up by the door. Peter came running. Scampie took while Tabby stopped at a discreet distance on yard path, licking her lips in anticipation of the tasteful tidbits, which would presently come her way.

What matter now that edgings of snow still remained here and there about? Now by this token: the fishman's return, we were entering the summery days!

"Is this, your first trip of the season, the earliest ever?" we were curious to know.

"I can't say. Earlier than some springs, that's for sure," he replied.

"It's a cool wind we have today," we said.

"Yes it is. But," he smiled — he is an encouraging chap — "we know that summer is now on the way."

And a flicker tapped out a summery code to those upon whose ears it would fall, from the weathered old telephone pole, a useless piece now that the messages go and come to the family by way of an underground cable. And an old friend of the folks at Alderlea, the heron, winged in between the fairy aisles from the River on a first visit of the year and taxied down on the fence by the lane-side, while Mama Starling lifted a ribbon of bark from a birch tree, and with, we could fancy, a superior air passed "that sparrow-song," "the bearing off quietly, and happily a length of string to an eave."

"Don't you think this lamb should be out with his mother?" the one girl of the farm queries, looking in on one warming in a carton by the fire.

"Ma-a-a", his call is plaintive.

"So you are hungry, you poor fellow? Well, I had better not, and I'll take you out to your Mom," she says.

This is one of a pair of newborn, discovered this evening with the flock confined in a far-barn. Weak when found, Mack quickly wrapped it in his coat, and his grandfathers in rounding the ewe and other twin to the little truck, and brought them home to this farm.

"It's a kind of miracle, how quickly heat will revive a weak lamb or a little pig, isn't it?" Mack queries.

"It is — if they come to live," we add.

Fr. Leo Corcoran Addresses CWL

The president, Mrs. Lawrence Doucette, presided and Father Leo Corcoran, the Director, led the meeting in the League prayer recently when the Stella Maris Parish Council, North Rustico, held their monthly meeting in the school, with a fair attendance.

Minutes of previous meetings, executive and annual meetings were read by Mrs. Bernard McNeill, secretary. Correspondence included letters concerning the TB luncheon and meeting, National Retardation week and also one from Mrs. Ward Markley, concerning the CWL Centennial project.

The treasurer, Mrs. Ed. D. Gallant, gave a satisfactory financial report and conveners, reports were presented and approved. The Cub pack had been presented with a flag and bolder from the village, with the presentation made by chairman of commissioners, Bert Blaquiere, who also gave the boys a talk on smoking.

Spiritual conveners reported that soutanes and surplices were received, flowers bought for Easter, the church cleaned every week, and a special mass is to be said during the month of May. Education money was voted for scholarship for high school, also money for two members to attend the TB meeting at Charlottetown.

Father Corcoran addressed the meeting, thanking the CWL for their gift at Easter, then wishing his trip to Halifax, where he had attended the consecration of Bishop Hayes, and describing the beauty of Mount St. Vincent college, where the reception was held.

The meeting closed with the Act of Consecration, followed by a social hour, when refreshments were served.

LAC AND MRS. MacMILLAN Wedding Vows Pledged At St. Dunstan's Basilica

St. Dunstan's Basilica was the scene of an attractive wedding on Saturday April 24th, when Mary De'ima McCabe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCabe became the bride of LAC David Frederick MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. MacMillan of Charlottetown.

Father Clarence Roach officiated at the double ring ceremony. The Sanctuary was decorated with Easter-Lilies and white chrysanthemums, and the guests' seats were marked with white satin bows. The organist, Mrs. Joseph Dougan, accompanied the soloist, Myrna Nicholson, as she sang "O Lord I Am Not Worthy." "Jesus at Your Feet I Am Kneeling," and Gaunad's "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length sheath dress of taupe de soie with an overskirt train. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a crown of sequins and pearls, and she carried a crescent of red roses.

The matron of honor Mrs. Frank Coady, wore a royal blue street length taupe de soie sheath with overskirt. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Ronald Babineau, cousin of the bride, and Barbara MacMillan, sister of the groom. They wore matching dresses of baby blue taupe de soie and their headresses were of matching taupe de soie roses. They carried nosegays of white and blue carnations, Lucinda (Cindy) McCabe, the junior bridesmaid, wore a floor length dress of yellow organza and carried a basket of flowers. LAC Frank Ross of Chatham was best man, and LAC John Gates and LAC James Connors, both of RCAP station, Chatham, N.B., ushered the guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCabe chose a rose sheath dress of wool with matching flowered hat, black accessories and a mink stole. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Fred L. MacMillan, wore a turquoise lace jacket dress, and matching hat with black accessories and a mink stole. Her corsage was pink roses.

The reception following the wedding ceremony was held at the Charlottetown Hotel. The master of ceremonies LAC Douglas McGowan called upon Judge C. St. Clair Trainor, to say grace. The toast to the bride was proposed by the best man and fittingly responded to by

MARY HAWORTH

Woman Leads Good Life Without Bothering Family

Dear Mary Haworth: As a daughter-in-law's mind, I would have composed a quite different answer to her. Even so, inasmuch as she isn't you, it wouldn't do any good to preach at her about the virtues that your performance embodies.

I am bored and lonesome frequently. But I have memories of a dominant mother and a possessive mother-in-law and I am determined not to repeat their performance.

My children and children-in-law are wonderful to me. But they would be, quite properly, not so warm towards me if I didn't lean backwards to mind my own affairs and make my visits a treat, not a treatment.

A husband and wife head their own family, and unsolicited advice and too frequent visits from mother-in-law can be disruptive.

Any well adjusted healthy woman of should be able to make a useful rewarding place for herself in society if she isn't too self-centered to try.

I am writing apropos your recent exchange with a wife who prophesies gloomily that her husband's widowed mother, 60, will be on their hands when she retires two years hence.

You said the older woman "needs to be needed" and proposed, as a solution, that the daughter-in-law besmir herself to help Mom find a worthy new husband! I say let each tub stand on its own bottom. R.K.

Dear R.K.: Hooray for you! Fortunate indeed are sons and daughters of mothers like you, who have the good sense and all sense it takes to keep from being parasites in their grown children's lives.

However, re the correspondence to which you refer, you overlook the fact that I was counselling her mother-in-law. The latter hadn't asked for advice, inspiration, philosophy, encouragement, a lecture or what-have-you.

Had the mother-in-law broached the subject that was on the eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with undiluted orange concentrate, beating after each addition. Stir in coconut and orange rind. Drop batter by teaspoons about 2 inches apart onto oiled baking sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in 350 degree oven. When baked, dust with sifted confectioners' sugar, if desired.

Makes about four dozen cookies.

THE CHIEF CAUTIONS Do not add salt when boiling fresh corn as this toughens it. Seasonings are added when the cobs is eaten.

Plant a seed of hope

I think the proposition has lots of merit, for many reasons; and I've had endorsements from various widows, wishing their next-of-kin would take the idea to heart on their behalf.

But thanks for your views. And again I say, hooray for you! M.H.

Ice Cream Days

From now on, as the weather grows warmer, we find ice cream is more and more in demand. For whether it's served solo as a nutritious family dessert or gaily decked out as the occasion demands, it's popular with everyone... and fun to eat!

Orange Blossom Pie

A pie so easy even little sisters can make it! Begin by removing a 6-ounce can of concentrated orange juice from the freezer to thaw. For the crust, mix together 1 1/2 cups fine ginger wafer crumbs, 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup butter, melted. Press this mixture evenly into a 9-inch pie plate and chill. Fill with slightly softened vanilla ice cream and gently stir in the thawed orange juice to give a marbled effect. Freeze until firm and decorate with orange slices.

Chocolate Party Loaf

Party-time is any time when the freezer boasts an ice cream loaf. For a 9-by-5-inch loaf pan you'll need 3 parts of chocolate ice cream. Soften it slightly, then stir in 1 cup miniature marshmallows and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Turn into a loaf pan lined with thin chocolate wafers and freeze. At serving time turn the loaf onto a pretty plate and garnish with whipped cream and shaved chocolate.

Banana Split Rockets

An old favorite, the banana split, goes modern when served in a tall drinking glass. For each split, cut a banana in lengthwise quarters and stand upright around the sides of the glass. Then fill up the glass with different flavors of ice cream and sundae sauce. Top with whipped cream and chopped nuts... mmm just as good as we remember!

Maytime Log

In the glamor dessert department an Alaskan Log ranks high on our list. Use your favorite jelly roll recipe, filling it with fresh strawberry ice cream instead of jelly... then store in the freezer. Shortly before serving place it on a foil covered board and cover completely with marzipan, the kind you use for making pies. Sprinkle the log with silvered almonds and bake in a 500°F oven 4 to 5 minutes or until the marzipan is golden brown. Serve immediately, of course!
