MANAGER ISSUES STATEMENT

CFCY Television Future Rests With Federal Gov't

Future operation of CFCY Television is in the hands of the federal government.

Robert F. Large, manager of CFCY radio and television, expressed this opinion last night in commenting on a recent story in The Guardian from Ottawa which said that exploratory talks had been held on the possible sale of television facilities to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. Large emphasized, however, that "the sale of CFCY Radio has never been seriously considered and, indeed, two substantial offers from reliable interests have been turned down during the past year."

It was Mr. Large's opinion that the Island Radio Broadcasting Company Limited "would continue to exist and operate for many years to come."

"The future of CFCY-TV", said Mr. Large, "is largely governed by the policies of the federal government, expressed through the decisions of the Board of Broadcast Governors, with particular respect to the expansion of alternative television service in the area now served by CFCY-TV. At the time of setting up the station it was known that this was a marginal area for a television operation. If the unrealistic growth of competition allowed from the outset could have been foreseen, it is highly doubtful if the station would have been set up by the Island Radio Broadcasting Co. Ltd. The shareholders of the company have provided a television service to Prince Edward Island at an operating loss of nearly $100,000.00, reaching the "break-even" point after seven years' operation. It is unrealistic to expect that a private company can continue to carry on indefinitely under these circumstances, and particularly under the new circumstances that are now shaping up.

ARE COMPLEX

"These circumstances are complex, and to a great extent completely beyond the control of CFCY-TV. First of all, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has an announced policy of having its own facilities in the capital city of each province. Two television channels were allocated to Prince Edward Island, 13 to Charlottetown now occupied by CFCY-TV, and 8 to Summerside for possible future use. I believe it is safe to say that now the CBC and BBG both recognize that there is room for only one station in this province. In the meantime Halifax interests of the second television network made an application to the BBG to transfer Channel 8 from Summerside to a point near Amherst, N.S., that would pro-

Channel Misunderstanding Claimed By BBG Official

CAPITAL BUREAU
OF THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA — Carlyle Allison, vice-chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors said Tuesday there has been a misunderstanding about the allocation of available television channels on Prince Edward Island.

He was commenting on a story and subsequent editorial which appeared in the Guardian respecting the possibility that the CBC may wish to buy out the television and radio interests in Charlottetown.

Mr. Allison said the idea that the board might allocate channel 13 to the CBC, forcing the private interests to change to another channel was a misstatement.

"The board never acts in such an arbitrary way," Mr. Allison said. "The original application from the CBC was to reserve channel 8, at Summerside, but the board declined to do that. Since that time the CBC has even withdrawn its application for channel 8."

In the meantime, Findlay MacDonald, a Halifax television owner, has indicated interest in reserving channel 8 but removing it from P.E.I. and placing it in Amherst, Nova Scotia. But the board has not acted on this suggestion either.

It is possible that the allocation of the channel 8 license may come up before the board at its September meeting, but in the meantime no decisions have been or will be taken by the board.

Causeway Report Submitted

CAPITAL BUREAU
OF THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA — Northumberland Consultants have submitted a phase one report on the Northumberland Strait crossing to the department of public works, it was learned here Tuesday.

However, details of the information contained in the study will not be made known for some days while the department makes a study of what is believed to be a fairly voluminous report.

It is known that the report considers the feasibility of all types of crossings and the costs of each type. The two chief types which are believed to be under consideration are a straight causeway and a combined causeway and tunnel.

Solicitor General Watson MacNaught said that he expects to receive a copy of the report shortly and will issue a statement concerning it after he has had an opportunity to read it thoroughly. He intimated that the statement might be made available in about a week.

Bathurst Marine Has Sit Down

BATHURST, N.B. (CP) — Ninety employees of Bathurst Marine Limited here staged a "sit down strike" Tuesday to back demands for a continued 40-hour work week.

No picketing was being carried out and the strike wasn't sanctioned by Lodge 1954, International Association of Machinists, (CLC) the union to which the men belong.

A spokesman for the workers said the men want a continued 40-hour work week. He explained that a new four-month working agreement, signed after a previous contract ran out Dec. 17, 1963, had called for a 40-hour week. At this time it was believed the company was moving to Prince Edward Island, he said, and thus the short term agreement was signed.

The four-month contract ended Tuesday and the 90 workers, who had been on their regular shift, staged the "sit down." They feel the 40-hour week should be continued, instead of reverting to the previous 44-hour week, the spokesman said. He added they feel they were misinformed on the shift to Prince Edward Island.

Employees on the night shift Tuesday reported for work and it was not known if they would also stage a sit down in favor of the shorter hours.

The spokesman said other employees, scheduled to report for work this morning would do so but would also "sit down on the job."

The company says negotiations will not be carried out except with union officials. A company spokesman said the men have broken their agreement and "we will not negotiate until they go back to their jobs."

Green Meadows School Wins History Award

Pupils from the Green Meadows School at Morell won the provincial competition for "community histories" by grades VI and VIII, it has been announced by Mrs. Frank Ross, Parkdale who is directing this, and many other competitions for school children in this Centenial year.

The runnerup was the entry of Indian River School, Nine Mile Creek was third, Miscouche fourth and St. Catherines, fifth.

Honorable mention went to entries from Crapaud Grade VI pupils of Mrs. Kimble MacKay; New Perth, Parkdale Fort Augustus and Malpeque.

Judges for the competitton were Lorne C. Callbeck, Charlottetown and Neil A. Matheson, Southport.

A tremendous amount of research was in evidence in some of the histories, with several of them featuring family histories, anecdotes of the past, and even a few ghost stories in their portfolios.

The entries of the first three prize winners were particularly strong in their historical references.

One of the most colorful and artistic portfolios came from Miscouche. This entry was in a class by itself so far as style originality and colorful presentation was concerned. However the rules of the competition stated that history is worth 75 per cent, and the historical references did not compare with the three that were placed ahead of it.

The St. Catherines entry and the one receiving honorable mention all were praised by the judges and Mrs. Ross.

Moon Eclipse Due Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The total eclipse of the moon tonight could be spectacular or a complete fizzle.

Lodge Quits In Saigon To Back Gov. Scranton

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Tuesday he is dispatching to South Viet Nam a powerhouse combination of military and diplomatic talent. Its task is to turn the tide of battle against the Communists in Southeast Asia.

Johnson accepted the resignation of Henry Cabot Lodge as ambassador to Saigon and named General Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to succeed him.

In Saigon, Lodge said that he was "sad to leave," after 11 months in the diplomatic job, but added, "I believe it is my duty to do everything I can to help Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania to win for president."

Johnson told a press conference he will name a career diplomat, Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson to a new post of deputy ambassador at Saigon to assist Taylor.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, 56, was named to succeed Taylor as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Wheeler has been army chief of staff. His successor in that post was not announced.

AIMED AT REDS

In his biggest revision of top-level assignments so far, sources close to Johnson said, the president is seeking to make the best possible American effort to stop the Communist tide in Southeast Asia.

The move is the latest in a series of developments resulting from a basic administration decision to prevent the North Vietnamese Communists, backed by Communist China from overrunning all of Southeast Asia—even if this entails a risk of war with China.

Top administration spokesmen have declared publicly and privately that new measures were under consideration, and have not denied that these include possible direct attacks on North Viet Nam and possible introduction of U.S. troops through Thailand into Laos.

Whether Lodge will only help Scranton seek the Republican presidential nomination, or whether he will wind up with some political prize himself, remains to be seen.

Johnson, reading Lodge's letter of resignation at an unannounced press conference, told reporters he believes China and Communist North Viet Nam, whom he accused of directing the Red terrorism to the south, "are aware of our attitude, and they have no doubt about our policy" to resist Communist aggression there.

"The United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war," he said. "But the United States is determined to use its strength to help those who are defending themselves against terror and aggression."

Governmental Pollution Talks Are Scheduled

DALVAY, P.E.I. (CP)—Federal and provincial resources ministers have agreed to sponsor an inter-governmental conference on pollution that probably will include water, air and soil pollution.

This was announced Tuesday following the third plenary session of the Canadian council of resource ministers which started at Dalvay Monday.

The agreement was reached after representatives of the federal and provincial governments expressed general concern over the growing pollution problems in Canada.

The precise form of the conference and the date will be decided after a study by the council's board of directors and secretariat.

Federal Resources Minister Arthur Laing said after the private session that the conference probably would be inter-governmental at the start possibly including municipal government representatives.

He thought that private industries concerned with pollution problems would be allowed to send observers.

RECEIVES REPORT

During the session, the council received for study a preliminary inventory report of 68 federal - provincial and interprovincial agreements affecting Canada's renewable resources. Although details of the inventory were not made public, it did include a preliminary appraisal of the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Administration, the composite forestry agreements and the economic land classification program.

British Columbia's R. G. Williston, lands, forests and water resources minister, said the report was critical, but any worthwhile appraisal would have to be critical. "We want to know what we are not doing well."

Doctors Approve Proposed Hospital Insurance Change

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's parliament of medicine Tuesday approved a recommendation that patients pay a part of their hospital bills, over and above what is paid under national hospital insurance.

Only Monday the parliament made it clear it wants the patient to pay part of his doctor bill, no matter what insurance he carries.

The reasons are the same—there is over-use of doctors and hospitals and service is suffering. Monday it was stated that doctor-sponsored medical insurance programs were "getting into difficulties." The same thing was said about hospitals Tuesday.

The parliament is the general council of the Canadian Medical Association meeting here this week. It approved a recommendation from its committee on economics, asking the association to "request government to accept and publicize a modified and evolved concept of hospitalization insurance."

It recommended patients pay part of the cost of their hospital care, but did not mention a formula on how to do this.

The report sought sources of revenue for hospitals other than the hospital insurance schemes. They should be permitted to provide and charge for services not provided by the present scheme, and at the same time keep the majority of these revenues.

Dr. Victor Goldbloom of Montreal, committee chairman, told a press conference that the Quebec government takes 90 per cent of the hospital charges for semi-private and private wards.
