Montreal Team Captures Cup

By JIM CULLEN

The Montreal Hockey Club set a record in obtaining their 11th Stanley Cup victory by their 4-0 whitewashing of the Chicago Black Hawks in the seventh and deciding game of the 1965 Stanley Cup playoffs in Montreal Saturday night.

The Canadiens sprang to the attack early in the game and before the Hawks or any of the fans apparently knew the game was underway big Jean Beliveau found the range and the Canadiens were leading 1-0 with the game only 14 seconds old.

The Billy Reay coached aggregation showed signs of breaking through, but whenever they got close to the Montreal cage Lorne 'Gump' Worsley proved to be too much goaltender for the Windy City aggregation. We were betting on the Hawks and so Saturday night in front of our television set wasn't quite as enjoyable as it might have been.

The Black Hawks have the nucleus of a top notch team, but they apparently lack the passion that whips the blood to attain success when all the marbles are on the line. The Canadiens have a young, fast-moving team with a large quantity of passion and desire and this factor eliminated the Chicago outfit which attempted to win with technique alone.

The Hawks performed like dull machines in the seventh game and they went down convincingly before an energetic group of real hockey players.

If there is anything good we could find to say about the Chicago Black Hawks it would have to be the performances of Bobby Hull and Glenn Hall. Hull led the Hawks into the finals and played his heart out for them against Montreal, but appeared to be running out of gas in the last two games against the 'Flying Frenchmen'.

Glenn Hall looked tremendous throughout the playoffs, with the exception of what we thought were two soft goals by Norm Ullman, in the Detroit series, and in the last game on Saturday he was left alone time and time again and couldn't be faulted for any of the four goals.

When the players in front of you fail to protect you and also fail to get on the score sheet it is pretty hard to win a hockey game. The biggest disappointment to this writer throughout the series was the performance of one transplanted Czechoslovakian native by the name of Stan Mikita.

We would like to take this opportunity to salute fellow sports-columnist, Bill Ledwell, upon helping to guide the Stanley Cup into Montreal. Ralph Cameron, the scintillating columnist for The Patriot, also called the Montreal forces to win professional hockey's most prized possession, but in Mr. Cameron's case we feel it was "more luck than good management."

Tid Bits From Here And There

Detroit Tigers of baseball's American League announced Monday they have recalled right-handed pitcher Ed Rakow from their Syracuse farm club of the International League and optioned John Seal to the same team. Rakow pitched three complete games for Syracuse and had a 1-2 win-loss record. He was 8-9 for the Tigers in 1964. Seal, a left-hander, made four relief appearances for the Tigers during three innings and giving up five hits and four earned runs.

The annual meeting of the Charlottetown Figure Skating Club is scheduled for City Hall this Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members are urged to attend this meeting, at which officers for the coming year will be elected.

George 'Red' Sullivan has been rehired as coach of the New York Rangers, the National Hockey League Club said Monday. Sullivan's retention for one year at an undisclosed salary was announced at a news conference during which general manager Emile Francis said: "Red is one of the finest coaches in hockey. His enthusiasm and drive are most important ingredients for a young club like ours."

Atlantic provinces hockey coaches have until May 20 to make application for the third annual Canadian Amateur Hockey Coaching Clinic. The regional school, one of five to be held across Canada, is to be held at St. Andrews, N.B., August 29-September 4. The school has set a maximum quota of 50 coaches. The clinic, open to minor, school, college and amateur hockey coaches, is sponsored by the CAHA and the UNB physical education department.

Big-Business Spreads Its Net

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—Sport fishing in Britain, once fairly exclusive, is now big business. But for many the new barrier is far more formidable than the old. Before the Second World War, most of the best trout and salmon streams were the property of the aristocracy and reserved exclusively for them and their friends—usually bishops and bankers, generals, the captains of industry and the like.

Now the pick of the pools are fished mainly by people whose chief claim to such luxury is money rather than social position. The big-business taker has spread its net much wider than the aristocracy ever did and as a result thousands of "locals," the chaps who have fished their hometown streams since they were boys, are being displaced.

Canadians stationed here during the war were horrified, and often indignant, when they discovered they couldn't fish wherever they liked without paying or getting permission from the local lord or laird.

Since then many of the landed gentry, sensing the commercial value of their streams, have decided they can't afford to keep them to themselves and have leased or sold them at fantastic prices.

It now costs £15 ($45) or more a day to fish parts of the famed Tay River which winds through Scotland's Perthshire.

Niagara Falls Junior Team Meets Edmonton Oil Kings

EDMONTON (CP)—Niagara Falls Flyers arrived in Edmonton Monday for their best-of-seven Canadian junior hockey final rematch with Edmonton Oil Kings. The clubs, which met in Edmonton two years ago when Oil Kings won their first Memorial Cup crown in a wild six-game set, launch the 1964-65 series tonight. Other games will be played May 6, 10 and 12 and if necessary May 14, 15 and 17. Difficulties in arranging air transportation initially led coach Hap Emms of the Flyers to delay the arrival of his club until three hours before game time.

HAP EMMS

However, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials said the club had to be in Edmonton at least eight hours before the game. The CAHA assisted Niagara Falls in arranging space on an earlier flight which brought the team to Edmonton Monday.

While the Flyers were unpacking, the Oil Kings ran into an injury problem involving net-attended by players from both clubs. It's expected the teams also will attend the annual sportswriters' dinner Wednesday.

The series marks the sixth consecutive year Oil Kings have represented the West, a record unmatched by any junior team in Canada. The Flyers' fifth appearance in a national final, including two years when the club played in Barrie, Ont.

S'ide League Has Meeting

SUMMERSIDE — A town softball meeting was held here, last night, but little was accomplished other than the expression of fear by a number in attendance that the airforce will enter a power-packed team which will ruin the league.

In trying to discount these fears, league president, Bob Banks, expressed confidence that no such thing would happen, but his voice beat on many deaf ears.

A representative for one of last year's sponsors, Coastal Moving and Storage, said he would enter a team if it would compare favorably in strength with the other teams. He emphasized that if this were not possible his company would not sponsor a team this year.

A representative from Borden was an interested spectator at the meeting and although he said nothing during the meeting he stated later he had been sent in to find out whether a team could that area could be entered in the league.

He expressed the same opinion as others in attendance at the meeting, that there was a terrible shortage of pitchers and if a team from the Borden area entered the league, he hoped that a couple of pitchers from here could be obtained for the team.

After much discussion on the merits of a power packed RCAF team, Bob adjourned the meeting until May 11th and urged all team representatives to go out and try to line up players for their respective clubs.

Beavers Top Maple Leaf's In Allen Cup Hockey Battle

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—All the games will be played here, with the third and fourth contests scheduled for Thursday and Saturday.

Both coaches agree the opening game was no indication of the strength of the teams. Coach Georges Roy said Monday the Maple Leafs are the toughest competitors his Beavers have faced in their search for this city's first Allan Cup title. The sharp-shooting Beavers lost only once in 11 playoff games to enter the final. Roy added: "Nelson has a well-balanced club. We'll have to play well if we're going to beat them."

Nelson coach Bobby Kromm, while praising the Beavers as a good, fast-skating team able to handle the puck well, said the first-game loss wasn't a disappointment for his Maple Leafs.

"Naturally, we would have been happy to win, but we're not disappointed or discouraged," Kromm said. "We were weak defensively, particularly goaltending."

But this was due to lapses which we don't usually have. We've always had extra help on defence by having our forwards back - check more strenuously than is usual. But we were leaving too many of their men uncovered.

Smith was lost to the team a month ago after an operation to remove a kidney stone. "He's been coming around in the last week or so," said Kromm. "That's when the Beavers got their goals."

There has to be a marked improvement in our play but Beavers are a little weak on the blue-line too. They're easily penetrated, but we're going to have to work hard to do it."

Herbel grabbed McCarver's grounder, turned and fired to Jose Pagan at second for the force on Gagliano. Pagan threw to Willie McCovey at first, retiring McCarver, and McCovey immediately fired to catcher Tom Haller, who tagged White trying to score from second.

The New York Mets produced the season's first triple play against Houston April 15.

Valenzuela said he also lost the popper off his whip at the eighth pole and couldn't sting Dapper Dan, who was beaten by a neck.

Mammel Ycaza said Hail to All, who was the second choice in the betting, had absolutely no excuse and was a very tired horse with one-sixteenth of a mile to go.

Hail to All came in fifth.
