Canada Council Will Visit Island

Eighteen of the 19 members of the Canada Council will visit Prince Edward Island next Wednesday.

The members will hold their annual summer meeting in Halifax on Monday and Tuesday and will arrive here by chartered plane early Wednesday morning. Their host for the visit is Dr. Frank MacKinnon, principal of Prince of Wales College and the Island member to the council.

The distinguished party headed by the chairman Brooke Claxton, a former minister of national defence, will total about 40 persons including the council staff and wives of the members.

Among those included in the group will be Very Rev. George Henri Levesque, vice-chairman, Quebec City; Leonard W. Brockington, Sir Ernest Macmillan, E. P. Taylor of Toronto; Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia; Dr. W. A. Macintosh, president of Queen's University and Mrs. Angus L. MacDonald of Nova Scotia.

The only member of the council who will not be making the trip is Major General George P. Vanier, who has been designated as Canada's next Governor-General. General Vanier and his wife are vacationing in England.

The itinerary of the visit here included a gathering at the Confederation Chamber at 10 o'clock; a late morning coffee party sponsored by the P. E. I. Art Society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Gass of Inkeram; a motorcade tour of points of interest on P. E. I.; a reception at Government House; and a dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank MacKinnon.

The group will return to Halifax by plane at midnight.

Vaudeville Act Said Popular

Roars of uninhibited laughter coming from the Coliseum this week are sure signs that Ladd Lyon is on stage with his vaudeville act.

One of the funniest audience participation turns to be seen here in too long a time. Ladd carries the vast crowd along on his own infectious good humor.

The act, when he finally gets "lrene" into it, is more than rib-tickling. It is absolutely hilarious and leaves his viewers both weak and watery-eyed. If Ladd got paid in laughs he would be the wealthiest man on Prince Edward Island today.

One of the nicer things about the act is that he carries his consistent good humor off stage with him. He and Mrs. Lyon and their attractive children, are as pleasant a family as anyone could meet. They are delighted with Prince Edward Island and would like nothing better than to purchase one of the smaller Islands here for a summer home. They would make a happy addition to the population.

Atom Bomb Blasts Planted Seeds Of Social And Economic Reforms

Whatever may be the long-range health hazards of radiation, the atom bomb blasts at Nagasaki and Hiroshima 14 years ago also planted the seed of social and economic troubles the government must contend with today. This last of four articles tells how they affect life in the rebuilt cities.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) — A-bomb survivors now can get free medical care from the government. But to some, it is a tantalizing mirage.

When they fall ill, they cannot afford to leave their jobs and stay in hospitals. They have no sick pay benefits. Their families would starve.

To make matters worse, unemployment runs a high and some have a feeling of hopelessness that they are doomed if symptoms of "radiation sickness" appear.

Citizens and officials alike can only hope at present that the government will step forward with funds to support families of sick workers who are the sole support.

But such proposals raise familiar dilemmas, one of choosing only those who really need the aid.

BANKING EFFECTS
The provision of free medical care for A-bomb survivors ranks with many survivors of bombings in other cities, who suffered badly, but receive no similar relief. Job-support benefits just for A-bomb survivors would smack of more favoritism in their eyes.

In most cases, doctors cannot tell whether an individual becoming ill now has illness due to delayed radiation effects, or natural causes and natural aging. But as survivors of the bomb, they get free care.

How many people are sick and unable to afford time in hospitals is not known. Officials and doctors call it a serious problem but accurate statistics are lacking.

Governor Katsuya A. Sato of Nagasaki prefecture estimates there were 140,000 survivors, of whom 82,000 have registered so far. In Hiroshima, 79,400 had registered as of last March, with thousands more presumably not yet on the rolls.

Some didn't register because they didn't want to be classified as survivors, for fear of prejudices about marriage or jobs which that might entail, Sato thinks. Others may not yet have heard of the medical care program. Still others have no physical complaints.

Survivors are defined as those who were within 10,000 meters

Hot Weather Ripens Crops

OTTAWA (CP) — Hot, dry weather over most of the Prairies has ripened crops prematurely over wide areas, resulting in a deterioration in crop prospects, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

Many districts have started harvesting, particularly in the southern parts, and harvest operations should be in full swing over most of the Prairies shortly. Rain would help late-seeded crops but most of the Prairie crop is past the stage where rain would benefit it.

The bureau's report, based on information from field correspondents during the last 24 hours, showed a varied picture over the rest of the country. In the Maritimes, wet weather delayed haying in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island but New Brunswick has completed haying. Grain crops are promising.

Dry weather in Quebec speeded the hay harvest. The crop was normal and of excellent quality. In Ontario, the wheat harvest is well advanced but the yield will be below normal. Early-seeded fields are yielding better than late-seeded.

Warmer weather over most of British Columbia hastened crop maturity.

90 Per Cent Immunized

Over 90 percent of the school population of Prince Edward Island has been immunized against polio, Dr. B.D. Howatt, assistant deputy minister, said yesterday morning. The number of preschoolers treated was more difficult to determine, but it was estimated that the percentage would be over 60.

Figures for the Island's adult population are not available.

Dr. Howatt was commenting on a despatch stating the Nova Scotia Health Department reported less than one-third of that province's population has been fully immunized against polio.

New Entries Faring Well

Lowell Wyand and Sons, Hunter River, Everett Holmes and Son, Clyde River, and MacKinley Brothers of North River were all prime contenders in several of the Hereford classes judged at the Jones Livestock Pavilion earlier this week.

The Wyands won the male junior yearling class and were second in the senior yearling female and the two-year-old female classes. Everett Holmes and Son were third in the two-year-old female class, while MacKinley Bros. were second in the three-year-old male class.

This was the first year Holmes or MacKinley entries appeared at the big mid-summer show. The Wyands showed last year for the first time.
