NOTRE DAME ACADEMY BAZZAR OPENS

The two smiling faces of Rita Condon, left, and Rose-Mary Robison, peek out from behind a cluster of balloons at last night's opening of the bazaar at Notre Dame Academy. Holding as many balloons as possible the two girls made their way through the crowd selling the round multi-colored objects. The bazaar continues tonight and offers many games of chance and also a home cooking department.

Federal Subsidy Assists Fishing Vessel Industry

By DON McLeod

HALIFAX (CP) — A federal government subsidy on fishing boats construction has been a tremendous shot in the arm for wooden shipbuilding in Nova Scotia although contracts for steel trawlers are still going outside the Maritimes.

The subsidy—50 per cent of construction costs for vessels over a certain length—was announced last year. Since that time there has been a flood of orders for wooden boats and all larger Nova Scotia yards are booked to capacity. Fifteen draggers of 86 feet and larger were ordered during the first seven months of 1962, compared with six draggers for the same period last year.

However, the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council executive recently approved a study to determine what action can be taken to ensure that contracts for steel trawlers are placed within the region. The study will attempt to discover why contracts for the vessels are being captured by other than regional firms.

N.B. USES STEEL

No steel trawlers are currently under construction in Nova Scotia but two New Brunswick shipbuilding firms are engaged in building them. Premier Robichaud said following the APEC announcement that one of the vessels has been completed and four more are under construction. He said he made the statement "in order to prevent any possible misunderstanding."

"The government has adopted as a matter of policy, a plan wherein our fishing industry will be supplied wherever possible with New Brunswick built vessels," the premier said. He added: "We would be most happy to see our shipyards fill future orders for more of our neighboring provinces and thus retain these contracts within the region."

One of the reasons given for the lack of activity in the field in Nova Scotia is the distance from Ontario and Quebec's shipbuilding - steel production centres.

STEEL NOT PLENTIFUL

North Sydney Marine Railway Company Limited sees a big increase in the field but says only some of the steel needed is available from Sydney Mills. Secretary-Treasurer Ralph Burchell said "about 50 per cent of it would have to come from Montreal."

National Sea Products Limited of Halifax, which has previously bought fishing craft from Holland, recently placed an order for three all-steel diesel trawlers with a firm in Lauzon, Que. These 125-foot ocean-going vessels are valued at approximately $600,000 each. A spokesman for the firm said the decision to switch its orders to Canada was definitely connected with the cost-sharing offer.

"Before the subsidy, there was not a chance in the world of buying in Canada at a European price," he said.

Some Nova Scotia firms believe they can compete.

Steel and Engine Products Limited of Liverpool says "our only disadvantage is in freight rates. We are quite capable of doing the work."

Ferguson Industries Limited of Pictou saw additional cost to bring the steel to the Maritimes but a spokesman for the firm added, "we are very interested in the field of steel trawler building — we are trying by every conceivable means to modernize in order to be more competitive."

Lunenburg Foundry and Engineering Limited noted that steel shipyards haven't cashed in on the government offer nearly as much as the wooden fishing boat industry. The latter, says vice-president John Kinley, Jr., "has come back almost from oblivion."

Five Nations Quit N.Y. Fair

MONTREAL (CP)—Five nations have pulled out of the New York World's Fair set for 1964 to concentrate their efforts on entering the Montreal World's Fair in 1967, Valmore Gratton, director of the Montreal Economic Development Bureau, said here.

He named the five as Canada, France, Russia, Israel and Holland.

Mr. Gratton, speaking at a meeting of the Chambre de Commerce des Jeunes, said the site of the Montreal fair will be announced within 15 days.

The Montreal fair is sanctioned by the International Bureau of Exhibitions while the New York fair scheduled for next year is not. The United States is not a member of the bureau.
