Premier Sees Problems In Marketing

Problems in marketing fish in other countries may result if Canada imposes an exclusive 12-mile fishing limit in her coastal waters as proposed by the federal government, Premier Walter R. Shaw said yesterday.

"The limit, itself, would be of advantage to Canada," he said, "but setting it by unilateral action may cause problems.

"After all, there has not been any clarification of the authority of Canada to set a limit without consultation with other countries that have a definite interest in the matter."

Premier Shaw said there are many matters that should be clarified before intelligent comment can be made. "We don't have that clarification yet," he said.

Fisheries Minister Leo Rossiter said a 12-mile limit would be a good thing for the province's fisheries. "It would protect offshore and inshore fishermen from encroachment by foreign ships," he said.

the security of Canada and its allies.

ASKS WITHDRAWAL

It had never been the practice to make public such documents, Mr. Martin said, and he asked Mr. Knowles to withdraw the motion.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there were no such documents to produce.

Mr. Knowles then asked for a "summary of some sort."

Mr. Martin said he would give this request "careful consideration."

"If there are any documents containing commitments, let them be produced," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"Either produce the commitments or be quiet about them."

COUNTRY 'SURPRISED'

Mr. Martin said the country will be "greatly surprised" that a former prime minister "should think it is desirable in the national interest to reveal documents that involve matters affecting the security of the state."

As Mr. Knowles' motion was put to a vote, Mr. Diefenbaker remarked: "Not expurgated editions. Produce the record and that is fine."

The Liberals, New Democrats, Social Credit and Guy Marcoux, independent Social Credit member, supported the motion. The Conservatives voted against it.

Tabling of a summary of or extracts from such secret documents would set a precedent.

It is possible the government will not produce a summary on the ground that MPs then could ask for summaries of advice given cabinet ministers by civil servants or of cabinet meetings themselves.

In a written return for Andrew Brewin (NDP — Toronto Greenwood), Mr. Martin repeated Wednesday that the government has found that the Conservatives entered into nuclear commitments.

Mr. Martin said the Conservative government on Sept. 27, 1961, concluded an agreement with the U.S. providing for improvements in the air defence system in Canada.

"There was no specific reference in the armament to be provided for the Bomarc-B, the type planned for siting in Canada and ultimately installed.

"It was understood by the government of the day that the Bomarc, to be effective, would require nuclear warheads."

Playgrounds Open June 29

Charlottetown's seven playgrounds will open this year on Saturday, June 29, it was recently announced by Ed Hilton, head of the playgrounds commission.

They will be open from 8 a.m. till 8 p.m. on weekdays, and from 8 a.m. till 5 p.m. on Saturdays. On Sundays the playground at Victoria Park will be the only one open.

Eight girls have been hired to serve as "senior supervisors." They are Ann Affleck, Lynne Cullen, Eileen Grant, Rosemary Hughes, Aileen Kane, Bernadine MacDonald, Frances Murphy, and Ann Shephrd.

Junior supervisors, still to be chosen, will assist these girls. The junior supervisors will be a slightly younger group. (The minimum age for senior supervisors is 18.)

These supervisors will attend a three - day clinic prior to the opening of the playgrounds. At the clinic they will receive instruction in such aspects of their work as organizing and teaching games, and first aid.

Mr. Hilton said new climbing apparatus is being installed in the parks and that probably a "miniature army obstacle course" would be built for the children near the tennis court area in Victoria Park.

1964 Centennial Design Approved

William Hayward, chairman of the 1964 Centennial Committee, announced yesterday that the design for the main symbol for the 1964 centennial, celebrating the first Confederation Conference of Canada, has been approved.

The symbol is in three main colors - red, gold and blue - and utilizes the three columns surmounted by a peaked roof, symbolic of the Provincial Building. The columns and roof tie in the letters P.E.I.

The colorful symbol was designed by a firm of professional designers in Toronto, and will be reproduced on thousands of items, which will be available as souvenirs throughout the province next year.

Noting that only six-months remain in which to plan, Mr. Hayward, is urging all communities, particularly the smaller ones, to start planning special events for their own localities.

He pointed out that small local committees could arrange such things as lobster suppers and strawberry festivals. Many affairs of this nature could be planned so that they could tie-in with special bus trips, he said.

In inviting the communities to start planning, Mr. Hayward said that if his committee is notified in plenty of time it is possible that valuable assistance can be given.

Youth Given 18-Year Term

Denis Roy, a high school student died shortly after being shot in the stomach.

Judge Gerard Lacroix said the "brutal" shooting was the result of "an insignificant quarrel where nobody, least of all the victim, expected a firearm to be used."

"This behavior denotes that, even at your age, you are a danger to society and respect neither the property nor the person of others."
