NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The people of Belfast have a special pleader at Ottawa, but he is working on the other side.

Mail and Empire: "Even the most bigoted Liberal will admit that the National Policy has made nearly everyone rich enough to buy a bicycle."

Referring to the resolution in favor of uniting Canada with the States, passed by the Legislature of New York, the Montreal Herald says: "Political union has never risen in Canada to the dignity of an issue, and so far as can be judged, it is lost and the bank of what few adherents it had. That is so. An excellent constitution and a good government have reconciled Canada to their lot."

In China there is a strange profession for ladies. It is carried on by elderly ladies, who go the round of the best houses, announcing their coming by beating a drum and offering their services to accept the lady of the house. This offer accepted, they sit down and tell the latest scandal and the newest stories and on and on, and are rewarded at the rate of a shilling an hour.

The Hamilton Herald sagely observes that "it would never enter the head of the (lower) middle and oppressed working man of Canada that he is down-trodden and oppressed if Sir Richard Cartwright did not make a point of saying so in the House of Commons every year." But the intelligent workman does not credit the assertions of Sir Richard, and it therefore matters little what he said.

Archbishop Langens denies that he has been invited by Lord Aberdeen to wait upon him in connection with the school question or that the Roman Catholic minority will compromise with the Manitoba Government. The Archbishop says: "We base ourselves upon the judgment of the Privy Council to insist upon the whole of our rights in school matters. We take that decision as the basis of our rights in this difficulty."

These figures, clipped from the Halifax Herald, are worth noting:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Total British Trade, Total Canadian Trade. Rows for 1879, 1882, 1879, 1893.

Montreal Herald: "Annexation to the United States might as well be eliminated from the list of possible futures for the Dominion, for there is not the remotest possibility of it coming to pass. We look for a continuance of our present position, with a steady growth of national sentiment among the people and an ever enlarging sense of national importance, until some world-wide upheaval either cuts us adrift from our present position or unites us more closely to the Empire."

It is stated that Mr. Davis intends to move for the sum of $20,000 to aid in establishing creameries and cheese factories in the Northwest, and that the Government should at once take into consideration the propriety of giving a bonus on butter imported to the London market, as is done by some of the Australian colonies, and also of raising the customs duty from 4 to 6c per lb. in order to enable the farmers of the Northwest Territories to compete with the Australian exporters in the British Columbia markets. Mr. Davis moves. But the question is, "will the Government move?"

What will patriotic Islanders who believe this Province will never receive its due according to the terms of Union, or according to the requirements of the country, until the tunnel is constructed, say to these words of Mr. Davies in the House of Commons on the 30th ultimo: "The tunnel is now known to be a perfect farce, a political burlesque, now completely played out."

Certainly this is not the way (although it is persistently followed by the Liberals) we get to Parliament to promote interests—to secure our rights in a moderate degree.

Some of the papers and some of the clergymen in the States have started a movement in favor of early marriages and larger families. A correspondent of the Boston Standard quotes the lines: "Hill faces the land to hastening his decay, Where wealth accumulates and men decay," and reminds the great American public that "the command to increase and multiply and replenish the earth, divinely given, is re-echoed in each normal, healthy human heart, and to designate such sentiments as 'stuffy' will not fill the bill."

Montreal Gazette: The Protestant committee's resolve that the course of the Bible study shall be taken directly from the Bible itself on a good line. There have been many interesting and instructive Bible histories written, and some valuable Bible history text books produced. None, however, as a means of inculcating the principles of the Christian faith, and the duties of the Christian citizen, equal the narratives that bear the Evangelists' names or the letters of the Apostles to the first churches, and none is the excellent simplicity and forcefulness of the approach the standard set by the translators of the old King James version of the Scriptures.

Mail and Empire: "If eliciting the constitutional opinion of Dr. Bourne is equivalent to seeking Dr. Bourne's advice in the sense that advice is sought from a minister, it follows that the reading of newspaper opinions, or the perusal of Mr. McCarthy's speeches is a dangerous and unconstitutional habit for a lieutenant-governor's honor is surely unwarranted. But, leaving that point aside, it can only be said that for the publication of Dr. Bourne's paper no apology need be made. The paper states the situation clearly and concisely. It is easier to say that it should not have been published, than to answer it."

The London Times publishes a despatch from Paris stating that Germany has formed a powerful group which is inclined to issue a Chinese loan on condition that the guarantee be controlled by European commission. The committee interested in effecting peace will probably agree that the loan be issued in equal shares by Germany, France, Russia and England. It is stated that the loan will be $50,000 at first. This will be followed by successive issues at intervals, to prevent the market from being swamped by a single loan. It is understood China does not wish to defer indefinitely too early, as she is desirous that Japanese troops be withdrawn soon, in order that she may be able to reconstitute her own forces so they will be effective in case of an outbreak of Black Flags or others.

OTTAWA CORRESPONDENCE.

The House of Commons last week saw several exciting debates. One of the most interesting was on the motion of Mr. Dalton McCarthy respecting the action of the Governor of Manitoba in consulting Dr. Bourne with reference to the constitutional aspect of the remedial order granted by the Federal Government. Mr. McCarthy is one of the good debaters of the House, and his calm, clear utterances generally command attention. When he moved the adjournment of the House to the benches on both sides were well filled, and careful attention was paid to what he said. His attack, after all, did not amount to much, as he was careful not to absolutely formulate specific charges. Hon. Mr. Foster, in replying, again justified the high opinion of his supporters. His calm, clear cut sentences fell on the House with convincing effect, and his unprejudiced hearing felt that, after all that was said, Governor Schultz had not gone out of his way in obtaining every possible information on so momentous a question. Mr. Martin, of Winnipeg, continued the attack on the part-Governor, and was in no way careful of what he stated. Judging by his accusations that honorable gentleman had a poor opinion of Gov. Schultz, whom he charged with the most highly improper conduct as an officer of the Government and as a citizen. Mr. Martin's bitterness of attack elicited sympathy for the man who was not present to fight for himself, and when Hon. Mr. Daly rose to defend the action of the Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, his vigorous speech aroused the enthusiasm of the Government supporters. Mr. Daly is a gentleman of fine physical appearance, and his ready command of language and good tone of voice rank him among the foremost debaters on the Government side. Unfortunately on this occasion his indignation at the manner in which Mr. Martin carried him beyond the limits of parliamentary language, and he had to take back some of the epithets he hurled at the member for Winnipeg. But this did not lessen the effect of his speech, and the Archbishop said: "We base ourselves upon the judgment of the Privy Council to insist upon the whole of our rights in school matters. We take that decision as the basis of our rights in this difficulty."

THE ARMENIAN OUTRAGES.

According to recent advices from Constantinople, the commission which has been investigating the atrocities in Armenia, arrived at Jelygooson, where 120 houses were found to have been burned. The people were shown in the most deplorable condition, and a full proof was found of the truth of the stories told regarding the massacre of Armenians.

The fact was established that the bodies were thrown in large numbers into a pit where they had endeavored to conceal their crime by pouring barrels of petroleum upon the bodies and setting fire to the soil and falling to consume the bodies. The bodies were found in their course in order to wash away the half-burned bodies. But even this failed to obliterate the terrible evidences against the Turks, and the authorities were compelled to remove the remains piecemeal.

The villagers had removed the bulk of the bodies and interred them in consecrated ground before the arrival of the commission at Jelygooson. A few were left in the village in the most deplorable condition at cremation. The commission has returned to Moosh.

The delegates of the powers left Moosh on April 5. The Turkish delegates first announced to the powers that they had changed their minds. They proceeded to the ruined village and traversed Shienk and Gernak, which were found in ruins standing in the midst of desolate fields. They passed over the village where many horses were burned and at Jelygooson the commission caused two pits, instead of one as originally reported, to be opened and found in them the remains of 232,000, and that of the United States a shrinkage of $100,000,000. The foreign commerce of Canada in the same period increased $18,000,000. Surely says the Montreal Gazette, a single fact like that throws ridicule upon the pretension that the material condition of this country has been retrograding.

Still another pit was searched. It was situated in a ravine near Jelygooson and inside it was found a trunk containing 100,000, but few bodies, however, were found.

The villagers told the delegates that they had removed the bodies from this pit, and it was evident from a doubt that this pit had contained bodies.

The exhalations from the pits were so frightful that the delegates experienced great trouble in prevailing upon laborers to finish their part of the investigation and the reports of the delegates of the powers, the powers have submitted notes to the Turkish government impressing upon the necessity of promptly investigating a scheme for Armenian reforms which should include the appointment of Christian officials in Armenia, the powers to have the right to veto the appointment of the governors.

The notes of the delegates of the powers do not base their suggestions on the Sassoon outrages, but on the general unsatisfactory condition of Armenia.

ENTHUSIASTIC CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

The Party as Solid as Ever.

Rousing Reception to the Premier.

OTTAWA, May 16. The first Conservative caucus of the present session was held yesterday. The full rank and file of the party were present and gave Premier Howland a rousing reception. The enthusiasm ran high and the proceedings showed the party to be as solid as in days of yore. Mr. Baker, of Missisquoi, was elected chairman, and speeches were made by Premier Howland, Hon. Mr. Foster and others. The Government member assured the caucus that no action would be taken with respect to the Hudson Bay Railway and the Manitoba School Question without consulting their supporters in Parliament.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA. Clarke Wallace Makes Decided Hits. OTTAWA, May 16. The budget debate was the order of the day in the House of Commons again yesterday. In answer to Mr. Davies Hon. Mr. Foster said that the Government was not in a position to define its policy with reference to granting a loan to the Hudson Bay Railway Company.

Hon. Clarke Wallace (rejoicefully reviewed the speeches of the Grits on the budget. He made a point of the fact that the statute books show that the Conservative party has been all along willing to enter into a fair reciprocity with the United States, and contrasted that policy with the programme of the Grits, who would discriminate against England and hand over the control of our revenue to the republic of the United States. While Conservatives had had four leaders and but one policy, the Grits had had four policies under one leader, their latest being "Free Trade as it is England."

"Didn't you go to Washington to dodge the 'Hullinwald campaign'?" asked Dr. Landarkin. "I did not go to Washington to sell out Canada," retorted Clarke Wallace, amid great cheering. "I did not go there to conspire with Edward Farrer." (Renewed cheering.)
