Incorrigible.

A poor little street Arab was brought into a hospital by the police. He had been run over by an omnibus and was badly injured. The chaplain was sent for, as it was thought improbable that the boy would live many hours. With little tact the chaplain began the interview thus: "My boy, the doctors think you are very much hurt. Have you been a good little boy?"

Boy (much bored)—You git aout!
Chaplain (shocked)—But I am afraid you are not a good little boy, and you know you may perhaps be going to die.

Boy (anxious to end the interview)—Well, tain't none o' your business any-ow. Wot's me death got to do with you? 'Ave you got a pal in the coffin line?

It is pleasant to be able to relate that the boy finally recovered.

Now and then the doctor is believed to be almost omniscient. A patient in a military hospital was constantly getting into hot water because he smuggled food into the wards. One morning his medical officer was about to examine his throat with a laryngoscope. Seeing the little mirror all ready for use the man's chum whispered an anxious warning from the adjoining bed. "I say, Bill, you'd best 'ave a care. 'Ee might 'appen to see wot yer 'ad for supper lawst night."—Cornhill Magazine.

Could Sleep at Will.

A friend of the late Dr. William Pepper of Philadelphia tells how he could go to sleep at will. "Will you excuse me, Mrs. —?" he would say sometimes. "I could talk with you much more satisfactorily if I had a few minutes' nap. Jane, make Mrs. — comfortable and wake me in ten minutes."

Outside the office would be crowded with people waiting to see him—about the Philadelphia museums, the University of Pennsylvania, the public libraries, or about their health, but he would go into his own room behind the office, would stretch out on the lounge, throw a rug over his knees and closing his eyes would be asleep at once. Ten minutes later he would be roused by his servant and would at once resume his conversation with the patient at the point at which it had been dropped. He would sleep in his carriage as he was driven from one appointment to another. He would sleep in a train, in a strange parlor or library, in private or in public, absolutely indifferent to comment.

School Holidays in France.

Two hundred and six holidays in the year, as against 159 school days! That's the record of public instruction in France. To begin with, there is the regular midsummer holiday, which covers a period of 64 days. That's pretty good for a starter. Then there are the Sundays. They are holidays of course everywhere, but they count an additional 52 days. Then ten days are allowed for the proper celebration of Christmas and New Year's. To be thoroughly observant of the great feast of Eastertide 15 days are given. Thursdays are holidays, and that means 52 more days of no labor. All Saints' comes in for three days' holiday, St. Charlemagne two days, Shrove Tuesday and Ash Wednesday two days, Whit-suntide three days, and three days to make merry when the national fete in July rolls round. The rest of the year the children are supposed to study.—Philadelphia Ledger.

World's Largest Workhouse.

The largest workhouse in the world is at Liverpool, where the workhouse has accommodation for no fewer than 5,000 inmates. It is not, however, often filled, as only half of its many dormitories are occupied by the permanent pauper residents. There are occasions, such as a labor strike, if long continued, which cause it to fill up rapidly, and then it proves none too big for the requirements of the union. Liverpool has a large number of poor, but it is especially munificent in its charities. Of these the chief are the Bluecoat hospital, maintaining and educating 350 children; the Orphan asylum, the Seamen's Orphan asylum in Newsham park, containing about 400 boys and an equal number of girls; schools for the blind and the deaf and dumb, industrial schools, and a number of hospitals.—London Tit-Bits.

School Laws in Switzerland.

If a child in Switzerland does not attend school on a particular day, the parent gets a notice from the public authority that he is fined so many francs. The second day the fine is increased, and by the third day the amount becomes a serious one. In case of sickness the pupil is excused, but if there be any suspicion of shunning a doctor is sent. If the suspicion proves to be well founded, the parent is required to pay the cost of the doctor's visit.

The Bend in the Road.

I don't count death anything. It's the main traveled road. Death is not the end of the road; it's only a bend around which people pass out of our sight. Death is only an incident. Man is a hard thing to kill. He can't be killed. A drop of water cannot be destroyed. When energy goes from here, it persists elsewhere.—Myron W. Reed.
