

Real buttermilk said available

The P.E.I. Federation of Agriculture is having its dairy booth this year as usual in the auditorium building at the Provincial Exhibition.

Secretary J.L. Dowar says the booth will be selling buttermilk along with milk—"Whole milk, soured milk" as he says.

The buttermilk is not the same as the kind farm house cream turned out some years ago, but the likeness is good and people who like this drink "some don't" - should find it palatable.

Midway is ever delightful with its varied pleasures

BY RALPH CAMERON
Guardian - Patriot Staff Writer

"I wanna ride on the merry-go-round, I wanna candied apple, Daddy, buy me one of those."

So come on out to the fair and give the kids what they want big daddy.

The giant midway with its thrills and chills, the dip of the ferris wheel and the swoop of a miniature plane, hot dogs and popcorns and its memories to last till next year are all back again.

Swings and rides and miniature boats will all make their magical appearance over the weekend. And for the rest of the week thousands of kids will stare enraptured at the wonders Bill Lynch has wrought. And for the rest of their lives will remember the tremendous joys that went with Old Home Week.

Because for the kids the midway is Old Home Week.

The promenade has the horse racing; they can have all the excitement and the smells of the cattle judging ring; and at night they can even have the crown and anchor games.

BELONG TO EACH OTHER

But during the daytime the midway belongs to the kids and the kids belong to the midway. They are inseparable, and no one with a heart would want to separate them.

They are absolutely fascinated at the tremendous scope of excitement at a foreign canvas world which descended, as though by magic overnight, in a field which was bare of everything but grass just yesterday. And tomorrow it will be gone again leaving behind merry-eyed youngsters with conversation subjects for months to come.

Enthralling them all is the apparently unending variety of attractions the midway offers them. And almost every one of the big rides has a counterpart built to scale for tiny tots too scared to venture "way up there".

The love of the sea, dominant in so many, comes to light when the little ones see the "pond" and the boats which bob and move around its circular surface. And they hopefully wait their turn to get into a boat and take the wheel for a voyage into the land of fantasy.

Older kids may dote on the thrill of the giant swings which make them swoop out into space to the accompaniment of feminine squeals; or the big ferris wheel; or the multitude of others designed for teenage and adult enjoyment.

THE REAL THRILL

But it is the smaller kids and the middle-size hatches who get the real thrill from the midway. Because to them it is not a make-believe world for a week, but a real world in which romance duels forever.

Some of the kids not so well endowed with the world's good can only stand and stare at the rides, but even this gives a vicarious thrill which they treasure.

Hundreds of them will join the older youngsters and adults both afternoon and evening in the Coliseum to see the vaudeville performers and this year they can look for one of the best shows they have ever watched here.

Not all the acts appearing here were known at the time of writing, but it is a sure bet that those which have been definitely booked are going to thrill everyone present.

We suggest that no one miss the great Chinese illusionist known as The Youngs. Do you want to see a girl apparently doing things which are manifestly impossible to do? Like to see her disappear while you are closely watching? If you enjoy being thoroughly fooled don't miss The Youngs.

THE TRAMP CLOWN

But if you want to laugh heartily sit aside and who doesn't enjoy that, then be sure to watch Happpy Davis, the tramp clown who does such wonderful things on a trampoline. Here is something to delight the youngsters all over again.

Music? Be there when the brother and sister team of The Balabanos play the accordion and so into their dance routine. Many women have had many men in a whirl, but Miss Sultana really has a spinning head of herself. At least it is spinning, and so is the rest of her, when she appears on the Coliseum stage. Doing a head stand on a wheel which is spinning rapidly is something different in the acrobatic field and one to cause awe among the watchers.

There will be many more acts as well on the vaudeville stage and they will all be well worth seeing.

So, Old Home Week here we come.

See you at the fair.

Value of show is emphasized

The value of livestock exhibitions was emphasized this week by Livestock Director E. W. Roper, who blasted those who contend that show ring standards are not in keeping with the best practical interests of most types of livestock.

"I'm more familiar with Agriculture," possible," said the man who was Ontario's Yorkshire Feildman for several years before he came back to assume his present duties as he recalled that 10 years ago, for example, cows only had to make 100 per cent and many more of average across the country. The show also bring together the different breeders, gives them a chance to compare notes, size up each other's stuff and benefit by the experience he concluded.

The Record of performance is steadily increasing, he added.

And observed the Livestock Director, there is no better way of advertising your livestock and making sales than to compete in some of the top
