Annual Meeting Yesterday Of Young Liberals Ass'n

Mr. J. P. Nicholson was elected president of the Prince Edward Island Young Liberal Association at their annual meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon, with a good representative attendance from each County. Chas. E. Linkletter was elected vice president and Donald A. MacLeod, secretary-treasurer.

The retiring president, Gilbert R. Clements, in his report described the activities of the fifth national convention of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada, which he attended last year.

The business session was followed by a supper meeting in the banquet room of the "Y", where more than fifty members and guests heard the guest speaker. Hon. Dougald MacKinnon, Minister of Public Works and Highways in a stirring address on the forward march of Canada.

Premier Matheson speaking briefly, strongly urged the young men present to look ahead and be prepared to accept an "appeal for public service in the interest of your country".

Among the guests present in addition to the Premier and Hon. Mr. MacKinnon were: Hon. Keir Clark, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Education, Hon. B. Earle MacDonald, Minister of Health and Welfare, Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Natural Resources, Mr. Benjamin Rogers, Jr., president P. E. Island Liberal Association, Mrs. G. S. Inman, president, Provincial Women's Liberal Association, Mrs. W. J. Rodd, president Charlottetown Women's Liberal Club and Mr. F. A. Large, Q.C., secretary P. E. Island Liberal Association. Several other ladies also attended as guests.

MR. MACKINNON'S ADDRESS

"The prophecy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that 'the Twentieth Century belongs to Canada', is being fulfilled before our eyes", the speaker said as he described how

Mr. J. P. Nicholson

"this great giant country, stirring and throbbing with new industry, is reaching new goals with amazing rapidity," Hon. Dougald MacKinnon said in his address.

"We have seen the Northland and its riches cracked open by the daring of Canadian flyers, who transported freight to mining areas," he continued. "We have seen Labrador, once believed to be a barren waste land, become one of the greatest store houses of iron ore in the Universe. Great mining developments are yielding silver, copper, gold and that most precious of all minerals, uranium, all due to the enterprise of Canadian pioneers and Canadian initiative."

"But let us not glory too much in our own greatness lest we forget that Providence has been kind to us and has given us great riches; that our pioneer forefathers carved a civilization out of the wilderness; and that we inherited laws and Parliamentary Institutions that can withstand all the 'isms' with which the world is troubled. Let us be thankful that our institutions are so strong and our people so well informed and stable; that Communism, with its false doctrines, can make no impression upon the democratic system under which we have advanced from small beginnings to the point where, as a nation, we are a potent factor in world policy. Let us be thankful that we yield far greater influence in the councils of the nations than perhaps our number warrants.

"We are not living in an afterglow, but looking far ahead to the splendour of a still more brilliant day," the speaker continued. "That future is yours, gentlemen, you who are taking an interest in the political and industrial development of this country."

PROVINCIAL PROGRESS

Touching on the "steady and encouraging" progress in this Province, Mr. MacKinnon paid tribute to Premier Matheson for enacting legislation of far reaching importance." The electrification of rural areas will do much to improve living standards," he said; "and the program of improved highways has as it's objective—that the people shall be served free from favoritism."

"I have no doubt that some among you here tonight, perhaps sooner than you realize, will take your place in the ranks of those whose responsibility it will be to guide the destination of our country." he added. "Don't think for one moment that the battles are all won, or that the forces that challenge democracy are dead and buried. The forces of reaction and privilege are not even dormant, they are just biding their time; and a greater threat emerges from the opposite extreme, the threat of Communism which is, perhaps, the more sinister force for it not only aspires to the physical domination, but to the mastery of the mind and spirit."

"I, along with many more of my generation, who bore the brunt of battle over the past number of years must soon pass on the torch to younger hands. We pass it with confidence to you with the assurance that you will ever hold it high and hold true to the principles that guarded your liberties over the years."

Following the address, the speaker, who had been introduced by Mrs. G. S. Inman, president of the Provincial Women's Liberal Association, was thanked by president Nicholson for the "thoughts his excellent speech left with his hearers."

The supper was prepared by a group from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. headed by their president, Mrs. E. V. Bell.

Music Festival Syllabus

A major change in this year's P. E. I. Music Festival syllabus is that finals will be held at both Charlottetown and Summerside in classes enumerated in Regulation No. 34, according to Mrs. J. L. B. Anderson, convener of the Syllabus Committee. Some of these classes had previously been heard as preliminaries. The tenth anniversary syllabus is now available.

This syllabus has been entirely compiled, with much hard work by the syllabus committee and is a credit to their efforts. Many of the test pieces will be found to be those used in previous years but are new to those now entering in the various age groups. This is for economy, as much music purchased in previous years has been accumulating unused and unsold.

Anyone studying the syllabus closely will note the ommission of a few classes from that of last year. These are the ones where the committee felt there was repetition and considered it in the best interests of all to make the change. Another time-saving device is the dropping of the second test piece in those classes which had both (a) and (b) selections.

Since the syllabus was published at least two of the test pieces set for certain classes have been found to be out of print and not obtainable. This will necessitate the selection of new ones which will be done as soon as possible and announced through the press.

Classical Music Featured In Magnificent PWC Concert

Music lovers were treated to a magnificent concert last night in Prince of Wales College hall by two outstanding artists, Miss Betty-Jean Hagen, violinist, and Mr. Boris Roubakine, pianist, who appeared in the P.W.C. Concert Series in a program which measured up to the highest classical standards, yet was rich in emotional appeal and in warmth and variety of treatment.

If for nothing else, the concert would be memorable for its fine performance of the Kreutzer Sonata, Opus 47, by Beethoven. This was the first occasion on which this surpassingly beautiful work has been played here, at least in recent years, although it is well known from phonograph recordings. But no recording can do full justice to music of this kind. Last night it came palpitatingly to life, breaking through its traditional 18th century pattern and reaching out to the audience in all the magic of its tender and heroic lines.

Especially to be commended was the lovely interpretation given by both artists of the Andante movement, which with its variations, four in number, forms the core of the work. Here violin and piano successively take the lead, embroidering each in its own way the delicate traceries of the theme, and uniting at the end in wonderful cumulative cadences.

The program opened with two selections from Mozart, Adagio in E. Major (K. 261) and Rondo in C Major (K. 373). The remaining numbers included Hungarian Folk Tunes, by Bartok; Liebesleid, by Fritz Kreisler; and Polonaisee in D Major, by Wieniakwski. Miss Hagen showed a thorough mastery of her instrument, as did Mr. Roubakine in the accompanying parts.

In addition, Mr. Roubakine gave several piano solos, including Moment Musical, by Schubert; Waltzling, by John Weinzweig; Im; promptu, by Faure, and L'Isle Joyeuse, by Debussy.

In response to continued applause, encore numbers were added, making up one of the most richly rewarding musical programs heard in Charlottetown for some time.

Prince of Wales College is to be congratulated on having obtained artists of this rank for its concert series. A native of Edmonton, Alberta, Miss Hagen has won several world awards for violinists and has appeared with every major symphony orchestra in North America and Europe. Mr. Roubakine, a Russian, studied and taught in Switzerland and France, and gave concerts throughout the world before settling in Toronto, where he is in charge of piano classes at the senior school of the Royal Conservatory of Music. It is to be hoped that further opportunity will be given of hearing these accomplished musicians in Charlottetown, and that the audience will be much larger than on the present occasion.

Theodore Sentner, well-known and highly respected Charlottetown tailor died early yesterday morning in the Prince Edward Island Hospital following a brief illness. He was in his 78th year.

Later he opened his own establishment in which he continued to win the good will of many friends and associates, which marked his career as a tailor for more than sixty years. Possessing a very affable disposition, Mr. Sentner was an outstanding citizen and popular with everyone with whom he came in contact.

He was a keen sportsman, thoroughly enjoying his numerous fishing and hunting expeditions. In his younger days he was an ardent follower of curling.

The late Mr. Sentner was a Past Grand of Wildey Lodge, I. O. O. F., and also passed the chair in Port La Joie Encampent in addition to receiving other high recognition in the organization. He was also a past president of many years standing in the Sons of England and for some time held the distinction of being the senior member of the Order in point of time He was an adherent of Zion Presbyterian Church.

About 800 Unemployed In Charlottetown & Vicinity

More men joined the ranks of the seasonally unemployed during the past week, according to figures released by the National Employment Office in Charlottetown yesterday.

About 800 men are now idle in Charlottetown and outskirts. The total number of people on claims, number 2,153 which is about 20 less than a year ago and this includes all King's and Queen's counties. Prince County figures are maintained at the National Employment Office in Summerside.

Large numbers of the men who are unemployed and drawing benefits call at the Local Office each day seeking employment. Many of the men who are applying for work are from rural points, but the Local Office points out that Charlottetown has more than its share of idle workers. In any case, say local officials, no work is available in the city with only the occasional vacancy showing up. About 50 men are working on the Federal Building, but most of these are men who were laid off before Christmas, and rehired in the last 10 days.

For every man employed on the building, 25 or 30 Charlottetown men are lined up waiting to go to work on the job. Many of the large employers in the city have been forced to lay-off men since the first of the year, and it is not expected that many of the seasonally unemployed will return to work before mid-March or April 1st. This is not an unusual situation according to National Employment Office people.

Several hundred of those drawing benefits are women; many of them summer workers in fish plants. It always occasions some surprise, said one of the Local Office officials, that so many people are seasonally unemployed at this time of year. As a matter of fact, we have had seasonal unemployment ever since Charlottetown was a city, said the official. The only difference now is that the National Employment Office counts the number of unemployed, and knows how many are out of work from week to week.

Commented one of the employment officers:

"Some people have the false idea that people can get work if they want work. The plain fact of the matter is, that most of the business firms in town have had layoffs because there is no work to do. That work is available is pure nonsence."
