Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyron, (of Fernandina, Fla.,) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

[For The Examiner.]

To "J. B. D.," by "Anon."

Sweet singer of this northern clime!
Who wreaths the chaplet for thy brow?
My muse would greet thee, pleased that thou
Should'st sing in fairer, sweeter rhyme.

The circuit of our lives is wide—
Heaven's dimly lighted anteroom—
But voices echo through the gloom,
From light to light on either side.

And angels circle, bearing truth;
The whisperings come to toil, of rest;
And stronger hope that thrills the breast
By youth is gently called to youth.

Two hands reach forth into the mist
To clasp the outstretched hand of friend,
Far down where haze-banks veil the end
May pass two lives by joy-tints kissed.

Must we the weary length of day
Essay the mighty and the great?
Pass through the spring of life, nor wait
To gather roses on our way?

The eve of life should still unfold
The milder radiance of its morn;
The sunset gleam be ray of dawn,—
But rich with all a lifetime gold.

The muse would greet thee, pleased that thou
Should'st know the richer harp-strings thrill—
Would greet thee when the dews distill
And weave the chaplet for thy brow.

The Good of Oddfellowship.

We clip the following from the Columbus Ohio State Journal, written during the recent session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge at that city:

"In seeking to answer the question, Is Oddfellowship a benefit to the community at large? it was natural enough to look first at the economical and pecuniary consideration connected with the subject. In that light it has been found that the order is a relief directly to the general body of the taxpayers of the United States to the extent of about $2,000,000 annually, and indirectly to the extent of double that amount.

"But there is a higher and nobler consideration than this. Oddfellowship, while not a religious institution in the narrow sense of being confined exclusively to any creed, while it is indeed so entirely nonsectarian that men of all faiths, or of any faith, may be enrolled amongst its membership, and while its operations and influence are not necessarily confined even to the Christian world, is nevertheless a religious and moral institution in the broadest and most significant sense, because it inculcates and requires of its members a belief in a Supreme Being as the Creator and Preserver of the Universe. This belief is the one essential of all religion, the one warrant and guarantee of all mortality. Without this belief religion has no rational object and morality would be a mere figment of the imagination, utterly powerless to influence human thought or conduct. When the great army of Oddfellows marches through the streets of Columbus this afternoon, the spectator who reflects that every individual in that host, whatever else he may believe, is first of all a believer in God, in His sovereignty over the universe and in the binding obligations of His laws, will necessarily have a lively idea of the noble and healthful influence which such an order is bound to exert for the good and welfare of the great community of which it forms an integral part.

Again, Odd Fellowship enjoins strictest obedience to the laws of the land. The work, nay indeed the very existence, of the order are largely dependent upon the prevalence and supremacy of law, and it repays the obligation by yielding full and loyal support to the law. A bad citizen can not be a good Odd Fellow, and conversely a good Odd Fellow can not be a bad citizen. The proper discharge of the duties and obligations of citizenship are indeed an essential part of the teachings of Odd Fellowship; and one has but to think of this for a moment in order to perceive what a mighty force for conservatism, patriotism and good Odd Fellowship is in the community at large.

When disintegrating principles are openly taught in society; when anarchism, socialism and other dangerous and demoralizing issues each has its advocates; when the right to property, the natural guarantees of individual liberty and the very foundations of morality are alike disputed or denied; who can estimate the beneficence and good to the community and to the nation of the great standing army of 700,000 Odd Fellows, whose cardinal belief is the existence and supremacy of the Divine Being, and whose primary requirement is good and faithful citizenship and respect and obedience to law?

MR. VINNICOMBE resumed his violin teaching on Monday. All persons desiring tuition should endeavor to send in their names as soon as possible, as he can only take a limited number of pupils; children from ten to twelve years preferred. Special attention paid to lady pupils. This is a rare chance to receive a thorough tuition of the instrument, as the studies are of the celebrated Danclas school, as used by all conservatories. There will be an Orchestral practice once a week for all that are desirous to join, free of charge. Instruction also given on the Viola, Violin Cello, Double Bass and Clarinet. Mr. Vinnicombe will not be accountable for lost lessons unless due notice is given. [oct8 4idy

RHEUMATISM is caused by a poisonous acid in the blood and yields to Ayer's Pills. Many cases which seemed chronic and hopeless have been completely cured by this medicine. It will cost but little to try what effect the Pills may have in your case. We predict success.

We are still taking the lead in crockery with a good stock on hand, and more expected daily, so we can suit all in price and quality, at the Cheap Crockery Store.—W. P. Colwill.

Our Suits look well because they cannot help it. We know you can solve the problem.—McLeod & McKenzie.

Educational Thought.

What is required is mind training in the right direction. That is the greatest necessity of the times. We need to transfuse into our school system, something that will impart a bent to the mass of young minds in our schools in the direction of the work of life, and at the same time a discipline and training which shall make this work higher, better and more skilful.—Thring.

The heart and the soul and the conscience are in need of training as well as the mind, and this training should be a part of every teacher's work. To be a man and to do something for humanity is a grander lesson than to read Virgil or to solve Quadratics. The influences of heredity will often hinder the education of the heart and soul of a wicked boy; but the influences of heredity are equally as powerful to hinder the culture of the intellect. The true teacher will surrender to no influences of heredity, but will know that all things are possible.—President Winston.

There is just one road to success, and that is the road of hard work. All sorts of short cuts have been devised and tried by people, but they have all been short cuts to failure. The long road of hard work is the only highway that leads to success; all by-paths end in the swamp. This is the great lesson that ought to be taught to our boys to-day There is a great deal of bad teaching in our families and schools. Every kind of teaching is bad which inclines a boy to trust to something else than hard work for success. One trouble with a good deal of the teaching of boys is that it fixes their minds on the reward rather than on the work. Activity is the necessity of every strong nature: a lazy boy is a sick boy or a defective boy. Boys ought to be taught to love hard work for itself, without reference to its rewards. There is no fear about the success of the man who loves hard work; if he does not achieve the one particular thing he wants, he will get happiness out of the work itself. It is useless to tell the boys that this world is a place in which everybody gets what he wants. It is a world in which very few get what they want. Frank, honest teaching is greatly needed; teaching which will make boys understand that life is full of hard work, that no one particular success can be counted on, but that the man who is willing to work, who is honest and true, is the man who will stand the best chance of becoming prosperous and influential, and is the man who will, under any circumstances, have the supreme satisfaction of having done his work like a man.—Christian Union.

Horse Notes.

A young mare by Norwood made a remarkable showing at Fleetwood Park, New York city, one day last week. She had been given but three trials in harness, and these over a poor half mile track, so when she stepped off a mile at Fleetwood in 2.28½ trotting the last half mile in 1.13½, there was some excitement, but the would-be purchasers who immediately surrounded the mare's driver found that he had carried a watch himself and knew all about the clip he had been going.

In these days of phenomenally fast trotting the great majority of horsemen pay more attention to the performers than to the great sires that produce them. There are very few people who have really thought about the matter long enough to fully comprehend what an astonishingly great sire of trotters was lost when Happy Medium expired at Fairlawn in January, 1888. It is the custom (and a very good one too), to compare the very greatest order of stallions with Hambletonian. A horse that approaches the record of this very great sire is justly esteemed a great horse, but what shall be said of one that under no better average opportunities greatly surpass the record in a much shorter period. Hambletonian was foaled in 1849, and lived to be twenty-seven years old. His life was passed in New York. He stood at a large fee, and the best mares of the country sought his embrace. At the present writing he has forty-one performers to his credit, and the fastest of his get was Dexter, 2.17¼. Happy Medium was foaled in 1863, spent the first seventeen years of his life in Pennsylvania, was bred to quite an ordinary class of mares, was brought to Fairlawn at that age, and then bred to grade mares, and he now has forty-seven performers to his credit, and the fastest performer, Maxey Cobb, (a stallion), made a record of 2.13¾. By far the larger part of the then performers, indeed about four-fifths of them, are out of mares bred to Happy Medium while he stood in Pennsylvania.

It has finally been decided by the owner of Axtell and Allerton that these famous colts will trot no more this season, leaving engagements at St. Louis and Lexington unfulfilled. It was noted in these columns some time ago that Allerton had gone lame while trotting a race for three-year-olds, having won two heats in slow time before he went lame. Axtell was also reported a little out shape, and it is possible that he has not recovered as well as has been hoped, otherwise Williams would hardly forfeit the stakes at St. Louis and Lexington in which Axtell is entered, and which he could win in a jog if right. If it should prove to be the case that the colts are permanently disabled, it may be laid to the hard races they got at the breeders' meeting not long ago, each filling two engagements in one week, one of them against aged horses, and winning all their starts.

For Delicate, Sickly Children

Scott's Emulsion is unequalled. See what Dr. C. A. Black, of Amherst, N. S., says; "I have been acquainted with Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hyphosphites, for years, and consider it one of the finest preparations now before the public. Its pleasant flavor makes it the great favorite for children, and I do highly recommend it for all wasting diseases of children and adults." Sold by druggists, 50 cts. and $1.00.
