Paine's Celery Compound

Renews the Life of a Government Official.

After the failures of physicians the great medicine does a marvellous work for Capt A A Mooney, of Mansonville, Quebec.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.

Gentlemen: For the last twelve months I have been suffering with poor health. Meeting with serious financial loss, I began to feel nervous and exhausted, and my mind was so confused that I found it difficult to perform my routine duties in the Customs service. I was obliged to stop work and was granted a three months' leave of absence by the Government. I consulted some of the best physicians in the country, but they did not agree about what ailed me, and I got but little relief. About three months ago a friend sent me three bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, with the request that I take it. I am now taking the sixth bottle, and am doing my work regularly. I have gained several pounds in weight, my appetite has improved, and I am able to perform as difficult mental work as at any time in my life. I am confident that Paine's Celery Compound has been of great benefit to me.

THE HAWAIIAN ALPHABAT

There are but 12 letters in the Hawaiian alphabet. These, with their pronunciations, are: A (ah), e (ay), o (o as in bow), u (oo), h (hay), k (kay), l (la), m (mo), n (noo), p (pay), and w (way). The missionaries added a thirteenth, t, but the natives won't have it, and continue to pronounce, for instance, the name of the root from which poi is made "kara," although the missionaries have it "tara." Every vowel in a word is distinctly sounded, except that the vowels "ai" are sounded "i," as in English. Waikiki, the beach in Honolulu, is properly pronounced "Vikeekee." There is a great difference in the speech of the high and low caste natives. The first call their island group "Ha-va-ee-ee," and the latter begin it all right with "Ha," but conclude with a guttural grunt, and the word heard most, "Aloha," sounds soft and beautiful on the lips of the first, but is a lazy, good natured grunt as the latter speak it.

Aloha is in their limited vocabulary at once a greeting and farewell, a formal expression of regard and of deep love. In the latter case it is increased in warmth and depth of meaning by modifying adjectives annexed instead of prefixed, as "Aloha nui," "Aloha nui loa," or even "Aloha nui loa kea!"—and then it is time to speak to papa.

How She Won Over the Judge.

A woman resident of Detroit relates an interesting tale of Kansas justice years ago. It was after her wedding trip that her husband was called to Kansas on business and a real estate dealer, out of spite, had him arrested. The prisoner was taken before a local justice of the peace. The incensed bride insisted upon attending the trial, and while it was in progress she so far forgot herself as to deliberately level her opera glasses upon the justice, who dashed under the table and shouted:

"Deputy, disarm that woman!"

The officer secured the glasses and cautiously laid them before the magistrate, who promptly fined the woman $1,000 for contempt of court. With gracious dignity she asked the right to defend herself, and, going up to the bench, she explained that the glasses were not harmful, and had the justice look through them, and after a few pretty words of apology she presented them to him. He hit the table a mighty blow to reconvene court, and fined the prosecuting witness $25 "for insultin a visitin lady and gent in contrariety ter law and eterket."—New York Tribune.

BLUNDERS IN PROOFS

I suppose all composers have had a laugh over the extraordinary mistakes which sometimes occur in the first proofs of their songs. I remember, years ago, writing a very sentimental love song in which the line occurred:

I've never once regretted the vow I made that day.

My feelings may be imagined when I found they had printed

I've never once regretted the row I made that day.

And once the following amusing mistake occurred in the programme of one of my own concerts. A well known singer and very good friend of mine was down to sing my two songs, "To Mary" and "Crabbed Age and Youth." But the newspaper announced something very different. Not content with drawing up a programme of my concert, it drew up a programme of my future, for I read as follows:

Mr. Blank To Marry Maude Valerie White. Crabbed Age and Youth.

—Cornhill Magazine.

Remenyi Found a "Gaynious."

The late Edouard Remenyi appears to have been the "discoverer" of Johannes Brahms, who was a boy of 19 when the Hungarian violinist found him in Hamburg in 1853. They went on a concert tour, so the story goes, and fetched up at Weimar almost penniless. Liszt invited Remenyi to stay at the Altenburg.

"I have plenty of room for you," he said. "You have perhaps a servant with you?"

"Oh, no! I have a gaynious" (genius). "A what?"

"Master, I have here with me the greatest composer since Beethoven, and I have come to solicit your protection for him."

"Very well. Bring along your gaynious, and we will see."

Liszt saw, and after him others also found their vision cleared.
