McGill Professor Addresses Club

The Canadian Club of Prince Edward Island held a meeting at the Charlottetown Hotel last night. Cecil P. Martin, M.A., M.B., SCD, professor of Anatomy and head of department, McGill University, Montreal, was guest speaker for the dinner-meeting. Dr. Martin was born in Dublin, Ireland, and educated at Dublin University where he took his degree of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Medicine and Doctor of Science.

Dr. Martin added "although specialization may produce temporary benefits it will ultimately end in extinction." He explained that this was the reason he chose the aforesaid title for his address. "Our geography, history and up-bringing should make it evident to us that we were meant to be a compromise."

He is the author of: "Prehistoric Man in Ireland"; "The Decline of Religion"; "Phylogeny, Evolution and Sex" as well as numerous other papers published in the Journal of Anatomy. Alex Wilson, president of the Island's Canadian Club introduced Dr. Martin at last night's meeting.

Dr. Martin chose the "Middle Course" as the title for his address. In his address the renowned Montreal professor discussed the evolution of man in an eloquent and amusing manner which brought several chuckles from the club members as well as commanding complete attention.

The guest speaker took the club members through the evolution of mammals and pointed out when he drew near the end of his address that "one lesson is very evident, specialization is the road to extinction."

Folk Singers Enrapture Enthusiastic Audience

By GEORGE CONDON
From the moment they appeared on stage until they left after the encore, Ian and Sylvia instilled Confederation Theatre and an overflow audience last night with a beautifully rare mood of almost overwhelming emotion.

What a shame the microphone failed for a time. Theatre officials blamed a faulty preamplifier which unluckily happened to be connected to the main mike. The problems were quickly forgotten, though, once the music was underway. In fact the mike was never missed, even when Mr. Turner had to go alone. Perhaps the theatre acoustics can be thanked.

N.Y. Rangers Are Sobered After Getting $1,800 Fine

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
New York Rangers will probably go into their Saturday afternoon game against Chicago Black Hawks slightly sobered after the $1,800 in fines slapped on them Friday for their part in a fracas against Detroit Red Wings at Madison Square Gardens Sunday night.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, stepped hard on the Rangers. The $1,800 fine—$250 for Rangers General Manager Emile Francis and $1,550 spread among 12 of his players—is the biggest fine in the NHL since Toronto Maple Leaf and Chicago Black Hawks paid $4,775 for a brawl in Toronto two years ago.

Campbell said the facts of the fracas were not in dispute. The problem had been to identify the players who took part. He fined five players on the ice when the fight broke out $100 each and nicked seven others who left the bench $150 each.
