IN MEMORIAM

ARNOLD—In loving memory of William H. Arnold, who was born June 17th, 1897. He had no one a last farewell. He said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates were opened wide. And the Saviour's voice said come. Always remembered by the family.

First Mayflower Had Cruel Time

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Those pictures serenely along the coast, are so pretty and romantic it's easy to forget that the original voyage was rough, cruel and frightening. Throughout the trip Capt. Alan Villiers has kept the world informed of his whereabouts. We've known when it was calm and when it was brisk.

And in a day when continents and oceans are crossed in hours instead of months, this leisurely sail across the Atlantic has seemed a delightful luxury. Yet to those who were to become known as pilgrims, embarking on an strange ocean for an unknown land, it was a grim and dreadful business.

And since we tend to forget the ordeals of the pioneers, let's look back to 1620. INNUMERABLE SQUABBLES To begin with, there were innumerable squabbles over financing the journey. As usual, promoters dreamed of quick killing. As usual, they were to be disappointed. Then one of the two original ships, the Speedwell, proved unsatisfactory. Twice they set out, twice they had to turn back. Nothing in particular was found wrong with the Speedwell. In the words of William Bradford, governor and historian of Plymouth, she had to be abandoned because of "general weakness."

But the way was overcrowded now, with 102 passengers and all their belongings. CRUDE CONVENIENCES George F. Willison says in his book, "Sails and Strangers": "As the ship had only the crudest kind of conveniences and no sanitary facilities, there were no provisions for bathing or even cursory washing (even if it had been a practice of the time to indulge), the air in the narrow, crowded quarters below deck must have been nauseating at best and at worst simply staggering."

It was impossible to keep warm or dry. The passengers were seakick. "Except for an occasional hot dish," Willison says, "they lived on a monotonous and upsetting diet of hard tack, salt horse, dried fish, cheese and beer." There were arguments between passenger and crew, between passenger and passenger. There were deaths. There was a great storm, so great that a main beam snapped with the report of a cannon. Fortunately a "great iron screw" had been brought along, and the damage was patched.

Finally, after 66 days at sea land was sighted. Price indexes are up in five cities

Price Indexes Are Up In Five Cities

OTTAWA (CP)—Consumer price indexes rose in five of 10 regional cities between April and May, 1957, unchanged in two and lower in the other three, the bureau of statistics said Thursday. Indexes for regional cities at May, based on the 1949 prices equalling 100, with April figures in brackets: St. John's 109.3 (108.7); Halifax 119.1 (119.4); Saint John 121.9 (122.1); Montreal 120.7 (120.5); Ottawa 122.8 (122.4); Toronto 125.0 (124.2); Winnipeg 119.2 (119.2); Saskatoon - Regina 117.3 (117.9); Edmonton 118.1 (117.7); Vancouver 122.0 (122.2).

Parrots and swans may live for 80 years, while eagles often live 100 years.
