Aid Society Dissolved After 6 Yrs Non-Function

At a meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Prince Edward Island held Monday at the office of MacPhee and Trainor, the organization was dissolved and the assets thereof were allocated on a fifty-fifty basis to the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau and to the Protestant Welfare Bureau. The organization was founded in 1950. The organization did not meet recognition of the Executive Council as a child welfare agency and has actually not functioned. It was the decision of the directors that the two recognized Welfare Bureau now in operation in the Province should conduct the affairs of the organization and take over the monies held in trust.

On motion of Henry W. Wedge, evening. The group then dispersed for the regular Bible studies under the leadership of Allison MacLean and Malcolm Beck. The meeting closed with prayer.

PAINTING ON DISPLAY

Seal Cove, Grand Manan, one of the twelve larger paintings in oil, on exhibition at the Civic Centre, Market Building, for one week, afternoons from 2 to 5. The exhibition is altogether the work of Mr. Austin L. Wright, a one-man show. Included in the showing are two P.E. Island scenes, one at New Glasgow river, and one at Portage.

Mr. Wright invariably spends summer vacations along the Maine coast painting fishing boats and wharves. Inland scenes in New Hampshire and Vermont among the lakes and mountains are well represented in the collection.
