Andrew Jenkins, Women's Editor, Phone 4-3300

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bernard, Freeport, N.S., left on Dec. 3rd for Edmonton, Alta., to spend Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. John Ranch and Mr. Ranch and family. Enroute they will visit Mr. Bernard's father, D.M. Bernard in Toronto, Ont., and his brother Evans in Grand Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson, Fredericton, P.E.I., left yesterday for holiday in Toronto, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Waldon Davison and Earle Davison, Kensington, left recently for Toronto, Ont., where they will visit with Rev. W.C. and Mrs. Picketts. On their return trip they will be accompanied by Mrs. Davison and Mrs.

Justin Woodside, who preceded them some time ago.

Mrs. Rosie Brown left by plane on Monday for her home in Meaford, Ont., after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Ella Wall of Indian River.

Harry Tuplin, Darnley, was a recent visitor to Moncton, N.B.

Edison Champion, travelled by plane on Monday for Toronto, Ont., due to the death of his sister, Mrs. Dway, the former Adelaide Champion, Darnley.

Lt. Myrtle Ingersol, pastor of Dundas Baptist Church, recently attended a meeting of the Atlantic Baptist Women's association in Moncton, N.B.

Parade, to be pleased to see his sign and symbol now about.

"We must put the outdoor lights up early, before the snow comes," one said today. "And could you" he queried "get a supply of Christmas cookies baked one of these days?"

So the items of our round we ignored each day, meeting them with a smile or a frown. After all does it matter which we wear? Considering this question Stewart I. Long in his verses, "Was It You?" gives us food for thought.

"Some one started the whole day wrong— Was it you?"

Some one robbed the day of its song— Was it you?"

Early this morning some one frowned; Some one sulked until others scowled, And soon hard words were passed around— Was it you?"

Some one started the day aright Was it you?"

Kensington CGIT Groups Entertain Senior Citizens

A happy time was had by old and young at the Murray Christian Education Center on Saturday afternoon when the four CGIT groups of the Kensington United Church entertained the senior citizens of Kensington and vicinity at their fifth annual Christmas party.

Patsy Bowness presided and welcomed the guests. Christmas trees, lighted candles, a miniature Nativity scene and evergreen boughs set the motif for the singing of Christmas carols, first by the girls with Barbara Auld at the piano, then with audience participation with Rev. Gordon MacBeth accompanying.

Mr. MacBeth added a welcome to that expressed by the girls and Dorothy MacKenzie brought greetings from Rev. L.M. and Mrs. Murray, now of Shubenacadie, N.S., who had visited the girls on their earlier in the day. Others expressing appreciation and recounting entertaining incidents were Rev. Alexander MacKay, Rev. W.A. Paterson, Harry Brown and Mrs. Fred Nash. The latter thanked the girls and their leaders on behalf of the guests.

Tea was served at the attractively arranged tables.

Members of Dorothy MacKenzie's group, Patsy Bowness, Barbara Millar, Joan Harding and Diane Waite were in charge of the program. Mrs. James A. Murphy's group, Bethany MacKay, Barbara Poynter, Barbara Auld, Nancy Kennedy and Valerie MacEwen took care of transportation and treats for shut-ins. Mrs. Gerald Millar's group, Shirley MacKay, Elizabeth MacDonald, Brenda Waite, Nancy Kelly, Valerie Crozier, and Helen Picketts were in charge of the menu. Mrs. Stan Moore's group, Nancy Harding, Linda Hunter, Isobel Carruthers, Jackie Smith, Marilyn Millar and Cathy Millar and Karen Millar handled the decorating. Frances Caseley is president, Lyda Hunter secretary, Betty MacFadyen assistant leader and Mrs. Robert Carruthers is superintendent.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Farming Keeps On Going In Certain Endless Cycle

Today at Rob's elder son of this house, the plowing was being smartly continued—tractors and plows turning over this and that piece of sod or stubble according to the plans of the farmers there, in regard to the cropping, over the winter months to come. Just to think of it, it is to fairly scent the springtime's stirred land. It will come after the lilac buds have swelled, and the little wrinkled leaves are born; after the dogwood down by the mailbox has unfolded its green, and you see a mother sparrow, a neat little boy, pick up a length of string by a piggy floor, or a downy feather from the poultry yard, and lift them on happy wings to an eave where a nest is in the making.

Here the fieldwork is done. But not the farming. It never is on this or indeed any farm. It continues, goes on and on, following the contour of its never-ending cycle: building, making doing, carrying out the day's, the season's duties, and also planning on into the years ahead. The horses, the cows, the calves, the sows, and the ewes are, each and all, fitted into this structure. We watched a youngling of the cow-kind being eased down a ramp carefully from the little truck this afternoon; saw Mack and his father and James stop to inspect the animal before it was led off to a stable.

"He has a name," Peter said breathing in, cheeks rosy from the roving wind, and bringing in with him the clean scent of the outdoors. He wrinkled his brow. "I knew it, but now that memory of mine," he shrugged with an air of frustration. "But I do know he is to be our new-herd sire. Now don't ask me anything more about him" he said. "The subject is closed!" "Period" we added with a chuckle.

And the day though mostly overcast was pleasant, which was writing "The End" to our week. It had among other things hastened the fieldwork to a close. Days had shortened, giving us now two meals by lamp-light; breakfast and supper, and no last at all to the daylight hours. Time however to absorb something of the spirit of Christmas, to laugh with the children over the Santa Claus

IDEAS FOR AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR HOME

"Roy Pursey" of Crockett & Storey

Here are some tips for you on decorating one part of your home that's often neglected—the entrance area. This is an important area because it is here that a visitor gets the first impression of your home.

One of the most important jobs for the entrance area is to say "welcome". Therefore, it should be inviting and cheerful.

If you have an attractive entrance area it increases the atmosphere of hospitality in your home. Bright, cheery, warm colors are usually best. There are practical considerations for this area, too. There usually should be some place to put mail, keys, gloves, etc. If the area is not big enough for a table, you can consider wall shelves that require no floor space.

It's usually a good idea to have a mirror in this area. For one thing, a mirror will add depth and make your entrance way seem larger. For another, a mirror is practical for folks who want to take a last check at themselves before going out.

This area should be well-lighted, and if you do use furniture, remember to place it so it will not interfere with free and easy movement.

And here's one last tip for this area. Try some wall plaques or floral arrangements. This will add one more bright, lively touch for you and your friends on entering your house.

MR. AND MRS. W. E. MURRAY

Lona Jean Ross Becomes Mrs. Winston Eric Murray

In an all white setting of white chrysanthemums at St. John's Presbyterian Church, Belfast, recently, Lona Jean Ross was united in marriage with Winston Eric Murray.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Donald Nicholson. Glenda MacKenzie was soloist, and hymns chosen were "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Ross, Flat River, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Harold Murray, Valleyfield and the late Mr. Murray.

Presented for marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper length gown of white velvet with long tapering sleeves. The fitted basque bodice with bateau neck line, featured an overskirt which flowed into a full chapel train. The shoulder-length, five-tiered veil of silk illusion fell from a single fabric rose. The bride's only jewelry, a single strand of cultured pearls was a gift of the groom.

The matron of honor was Elizabeth Ross, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Judy MacRae, RN of Halifax, and Elaine Ross of Flat River, cousins of the bride.

The attendants wore velvet slipper length gowns of autumn shades in cranberry, gold and aqua. Thier fitted dresses were styled with Empire waistlines, highlighted with Watteau back panels. Their headpieces were single roses of matching material and short illusion veils. They carried nosegays of carnations which graced their gowns.

James Murray, brother of the groom, was best man. Robert Ross and Roland Ford ushered the guests to their seats.

For the reception at the Charlottetown Hotel, the bride's mother received wearing a silk lace knit dress in teal blue with matching accessories. Her high crowned hat of iridescent coque feathers was in smoke tones and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's mother was in a burgundy silk lace knit dress with matching accessories, a burgundy hat, and wore a corsage of white roses.

At the reception Rev. Mr. Nicholson asked the blessings and proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom responded. Donna Morrison was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride chose a three piece teal tweed suit with pink collar, matching high crowned hat and brown accessories. Corsage of yellow roses buds completed her outfit.

On their return from a honeymoon trip to Humberock Beach and Cape Cod, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Murray will take up residence at 281 Kent Street, Charlottetown. (Photo by George Wotton)
