Montreal Postal Strike May End Deadlock Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's postal workers doggedly continued their strike during the weekend amidst indications that the deadlock may end Monday.

8 Killed In B.C. Accident

TERRACE, B.C. (CP) — Eight persons died in this northern interior area Saturday night in what police described as one of the worst road crashes in B.C. traffic history.

Judge Anderson was appointed conciliator by the federal government following the walkout that began July 22 and at one time included postal workers in Vancouver, Toronto and other centres in British Columbia and Ontario as well as Quebec.

CHANGE IN ATTITUDE

As late as Friday William Houle, Montreal president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, said following a meeting of strike leaders with Postmaster General Tremblay that the government had nothing new to offer and that there was no reason to summon a general meeting of the strikers.

Prior to the announcement of Monday's meeting, Mr. Houle said:

"We are just waiting for the news. I think it is likely that the judge will make recommendations about postmen's salaries in an interim report so as to get the strike over with. Then he can go on to other parts of his investigation."

As the strike appeared headed for a climax there were indications, too, that in Montreal it has burgeoned into something of a crusade for better working conditions as well as salaries and that the Montreal business community is groggy from the effects of no mail service.

The fact that a general meeting has been called appeared significant in itself.

Two of the McClintock boys, 12 and 10, said they saw it the day before but kept it secret.

The incident was reported at Goumbla, only five miles from a big radio telescope.

The object had three rods protruding, one from the top and two from the bottom, and it emitted two beams of light, they said.

The object stayed there for about 15 minutes before moving off, they said.

Seventeen-year-old John Gillette of Bedford, N.S., died Saturday afternoon when his motorcycle skidded in loose gravel into the path of a passenger train. The accident occurred at a private rail crossing near the youth's home.

Wade Kenney, 15, of Fairview, N.S., died about midnight when struck by a car near Sheet Harbor on Nova Scotia's eastern shore.

At Minto, N.B., a 45-year-old Frederick construction company owner, Charles E. Weyman, was killed when struck by the whirling propeller of his plane.

Joseph Jettie, 7, of St. Edward, N.B., died Saturday after being struck by a car near his home.

John Tremblay, 18, of Windsor, Nfld., drowned Sunday while swimming in a pond a few miles from his home.

U.S. district judge B. C. Conroy increased Rivard's bond from $150,000 to $500,000 before he was taken to Houston from Canada.

A Montreal newspaper said Friday it had received word the bail would be posted. Authorities here and in Canada denied any such knowledge.

The federal court where Rivard is to be arraigned is located just a few blocks from the point at which 76 pounds of heroin was seized 21 months ago.

Attempts to block Rivard's extradition from Canada to face the U.S. charges resulted in the Dorion inquiry into bribery and coercion involving Canadian government officials.

Rivard was extradited rapidly following his capture near Montreal.

His fourth bride is blonde American actress Diane Cannon, 27, his constant companion for more than three years.

In Seattle, Wash., Ben W. Friesen, the bride's father, said the wedding took place July 22.

English-born Grant, here with Diane, let slip the secret of his marriage Saturday.

He said in an interview: "We kept it secret because marriage is a very private affair and I prefer to do things quietly, without fanfare or intrusion."

To keep things that way Grant engaged in a battle of wits with correspondents Sunday.

The staff at the Royal Hotel, where Grant and his bride are staying, told callers that the couple had left at 6 a.m. "for the country." However, they remained in their third-floor suite.

Grant and Diane met four years ago when he saw her on a television show.

Grant's first marriage in 1934 to actress Virginia Cherrill lasted less than a year. In 1942 he married Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton and that marriage was dissolved in 1945. In 1949 he married actress Betsy Drake and this lasted nine years.

Miss Cannon began her Hollywood career eight years ago when a W. Brothers producer saw a theatre production which she was attending university and signed her for a bit part in a movie. Since then she has appeared in a number of motion pictures and television shows.

Her most recent part was the lead in the touring stage production of How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying.

Pakistan Continues Red Ties Despite Growing U.S. Frowns

RAWALPINDI (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan said Sunday Pakistan will not sever its ties with Communist countries to improve deteriorating relations with the United States.

His speech left in question 14 years of economic and military co-operation with the U.S. since Washington apparently has not initiated a "peace moves either."

Pakistan has received more than $5,000,000,000 in economic and military aid since 1951 and needs more to sustain its current economic improvements.

Ayub said Pakistan will "reorder our priorities" in economic planning to reduce dependence on foreign aid.

The trouble between the two Southeast Asia Treaty Organization allies has been smouldering for some time, but only erupted into public view last month when Washington announced it was delaying new foreign aid commitments.

Ayub said "our friends in the West" do not understand that all Pakistan wants is what he called normal relations with its neighbors, China and Russia.

"Our relations with the United States ran into difficulties when, contrary to a clear understanding, arms aid was rushed to India without prior consultation with us," he said.

Troop Needs Are Mounting

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson ordered the defence department Sunday to trim away every unneeded military job to ease the manpower drain of the U.S. troop buildup in South Viet Nam.

With troop needs mounting, he told defence secretary Robert S. McNamara: "I want you to be absolutely certain that there is no waste or misapplication of America's manpower in the department of defence."

Meeting reporters at his LBJ Ranch, the president also harshly criticized a man he identified only as a prominent Republican, saying he broke a presidential confidence on deliberations about Viet Nam, and put out untrue information.

Johnson said this man was the source of published reports that the opposition of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana led him to decide against calling to active service U.S. military reservists.

Johnson announced last Wednesday the draft will be more than doubled and 50,000 new American troops will be sent to Viet Nam immediately to boost U.S. forces there to 125,000.

SAYS STORY MALICIOUS — The president said the story that Mansfield had urged him not to call reservists was politically motivated and added: "I would brand it untrue and perhaps malicious."

Johnson named Robert W. Akers, a retired Texas newspaper man friend, to become deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency, succeeding Donald Wilson.

He said he reviewed in detail with Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg the reactions of United Nations diplomats and more than 70 foreign countries to his decision on a Viet Nam buildup.

Johnson made his announcements and statements then answered a few questions.

Johnson's manpower orders were in a memorandum to McNamara.

"I want him to be absolutely certain there's no waste of manpower," the president said.

Johnson added he wants McNamara to "concentrate on personnel to Viet Nam, for the general augmentation of our active duty military strength" and for the increased readiness of our reserve forces makes it imperative that all military personnel are assigned to duty for which there is a direct military requirement," Johnson told McNamara.

"To this end, I ask that you once again review the functions now being performed by military personnel with a view to eliminating unnecessary functions or, where functions are necessary, but do not have to be performed by military personnel, accomplishing them in other ways."

Johnson said he and Goldberg spent "a delightful and restful weekend" reviewing world reaction to the Viet Nam buildup. The president said he expects to return to Washington tonight.

He said they talked as well about the financial problems confronting the UN.

Wilson Faces Flank Attack In Clash With Tories Today

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson, girding for his first clash Monday with Edward Heath, the new Conservative leader, faced a flank attack from the left wing of his own Labor party.

William Warbey, a 61-year-old Laborite maverick, astonished the government Friday night by demanding Wilson's resignation, contending that he had broken election pledges.

Warbey, who has paid several visits to North Viet Nam, has been a strong critic of Wilson's policy of support for the U.S. in the Viet Nam war.

He accused the prime minister of reneging on election promises about a national income guarantee for old persons, cheaper housing mortgages and a new initiative for world peace.

The Labor party's parliamentary manager, Edward Short, retorted that Warbey was "talking a lot of nonsense as he does frequently." He should resign his seat and fight as an independent.

Frail Boy Survives 4-Day Ordeal

WOODRIDGE, N.Y. (AP) — A frail nine-year-old boy, lost for four days in swampy woodland where others before him have disappeared and perished, was rescued Saturday.

"Take me back to my camp" were the words of the boy, who was found by Theodore Houy of the U.S. Air Force man came upon him. The boy, hungry and alert, was sitting on the ground, leaning against a tree, in a forest clearing. Houy gave him a candy bar.

Hershel, an ailing child who weighs only 33 pounds, had been the object of a 1,000-man search since he vanished last Wednesday from a camp near here.

In the last 11 years three other young boys wandered off into the woodland. Two were found dead and one was never found.

Houy stumbled on the boy about five miles from the camp from which he disappeared.

Mercury Lamp Inventor Dies

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Cornelius Boi, inventor of the mercury vapor lamp, died at his home near here Friday at the age of 80. A former research associate at Stanford University, he perfected the lamp—one of the most powerful light sources in existence—in 1939.

U.S. GROUP PREPARES REPORT

WASHINGTON (CP) — The chief-flaw in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is President de Gaulle of France, implies a report prepared by some old American NATO buffs for the Atlantic Council of the United States.

De Gaulle's name is never mentioned but his presence colors the whole tone of a report on whether changes in NATO are necessary or desirable.

The Atlantic Council is a private group-national groups exist in each of the 15 NATO countries including Canada—and these organizations meet annually.

The NATO treaty itself of 1949, on which NATO is based, is as good as ever, says the report. Any changes in the organization of NATO should be toward more—not less—integration, a view directly contrary to the doctrine that de Gaulle has been appearing to preach.

The study committee, which prepared the report, included Livingston Merchant, twice U.S. ambassador to Canada; Gen. Alfred Greenther, who succeeded Dwight D. Eisenhower as NATO's supreme commander, and such former American ambassadors as John Hickerson and Theodore C. Achilles, who drafted the NATO treaty. None now is in government service.

MAY LEAVE GROUP — Official American government policy toward de Gaulle, whose latest tactics include boycotting some NATO exercises, is silence. Some think de Gaulle actually may leave the Alliance.

"Despite whatever real or apparent improvement has taken place in East-West relations, there is yet far too little evidence of any change in the report also notes with regret, the failure of NATO to develop more of the political and economic trappings which Canada, for one, attempted to inject. Canada's insistence resulted in the addition of Clause 2, providing framework for economic moves, over lukewarm American feelings.

Sicily Swelters Under Heat Wave

ROME (AP) — A scorching Sirocco wind blew north from the African desert Sunday and drove temperatures throughout Sicily up to a blistering 106 degrees. Sicilian cities were virtually deserted as their populations sought relief at the island's many beaches. At the same time, snow fell in the Dolomite Alps in North Italy, and the village of San Candido reported a temperature of 23.

Rivard Location Is Kept Secret

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — Lucien Rivard, a Montrealer charged in the U.S. as a conspirator in smuggling racket, is scheduled to be arraigned here today (Monday) in federal court.

The whereabouts of Rivard remained a mystery Sunday. A U.S. marshal took the Canadian out of the Harris County jail in Houston Friday but a Webb County jail spokesman here insisted Rivard had not arrived in this Texas-Mexican border city.

Informed sources said the shroud of secrecy is designed to prevent underworld efforts to help Rivard escape or to kill him to keep him silent.

Rivard managed to escape March 2 from Bordeaux jail in Montreal and was not recaptured until July 16.

Two Georgia Churches Reject Negro Groups

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Two racially integrated groups of civil rights demonstrators were unsuccessful Sunday in attempts to enter the First Baptist and the First Methodist whites-only churches in Americus, a city torn by two weeks of bloody racial violence and a slaying.

At the First Baptist, Fire Chief H. K. Henderson, a church deacon, told the demonstrators: "I can tell you seriously, if you come down here looking for violence, you're going to get it; if you come down here looking for bloodshed, you're going to get it."

The demonstrators left without incident.

At the First Methodist, attended by Mayor T. Walker Griffin, a group of 12 white men stood in a line at the top of the steps leading to the church. A group of teen-agers and young persons stood behind them.

Negro leader Willie Bolden of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said: "We just want to worship."

An unidentified white church official answered: "We don't have room for you."

Bolden said he is a Methodist; the churchman replied: "I don't care what your religion is."

Both groups—there were about six persons in each—tried to en-

Cary Grant Marriage Leaks Out

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Movie actor Cary Grant, 61, was secretly married in Nevada last month.

His fourth bride is blonde American actress Diane Cannon, 27, his constant companion for more than three years.
