

The other afternoon we had a phone call from Wes Nicholson, well known sportsman and barber, Kent Street, to look over some harness horse here that had been kept by his father and his brother Bill for many years. He has very kindly loaned us a scrap book from which we are taking some extracts. His father, Dr. Jack Nicholson, was one of the best race horsemen and one of the best trainers and fitters in the Province. In 1899 he purchased the year-old Kalo, from the Aller Farm, Pittsfield, Mass., then one of the leading speed nurseries of the world. His sire was Kremlin 2:07 1-4, champion stallion in his day. The Doctor developed Kalo into such a beautiful trotter that he was offered over $3,000 for him after trotting quarters at the end of miles in 30 seconds. His record of 2:19 1-4 was no measure of his speed. Unfortunately, Kalo was injured and that put an end to his racing career.

Another thing the Doctor was familiar with was the Rule Book and he brought his knowledge to good account in the three minute trot stake, purse $250.00, raced at Charlottetown, September 23rd, 1912. At the end of the four heats the summary was—Happy George (T. Temple) 4-1-2-1, Acquiri (J. Nicholson) 1-2-1-2, Winnie M. (H. Kelly) 3-3-3-3, Miss Wrigley (J. P. Hooper) 5-4-4-4, Redwing (D. A. MacKinnon) 2-2-2-2, Time 2:27 1-4, 2:25 1-4, 2:20 1-2, 2:30. The four first named horses lined up to score for the fifth heat and the word Go was given to a strategy start. One of the officials of the track, not noticing the horse crossed the track and was struck by a sulky and knocked down. Starter Power rang his bell for a recall and Hoopy George, Miss Wrigley and Winnie M. answered it, but Dr. Nicholson, knowing the rules and that there is no recall after the word Go is given, continued his strategy. The horse needed to the strenuous clanging of the bell as he passed the stand at the half. Under the rules he was entitled to the full stake money as he had distanced all the other horses. The Association, had to take the blame and paid the other starters according to their positions at the finish of the fourth heat.

Another summary we notice is the Two Year Old Trot Stake at Halifax, August 31st, 1911, won by Acquiri Boy, owned and driven by Dr. J. M. Nicholson with 1-1. Barling's Comet (Musgrave) 2-2. Baron Cecil (Cox) 3-3, two other starters, both distanced. Several horses in this race became well known performers in after years. Wes Nicholson was quite an athlete in youth and was the winner of the 200 yards junior championship at the Halifax Exhibition some years ago. He has gathered around him in his nicely decorated barber shop, sports mementos of the past such as a signed photo from his friend, Jack Danvers, world's champion heavyweight for years, then there is the first photo taken by W. R. Godfrey at the Charlottetown track, showing Talugi (W. H. McGibbon) at the rail. Rosalie Hooper (Col. J. P. Hooper), Royal-Al-Law (Jay) and Bill Nicholson is standing on the track watching the finish. Then there is a picture of Indian Land winning the Golden West Pace at Santa Anita, Cal., May 1st, 1948, driver by Joe O'Brien and Mrs. Johnston, owner of Indian Land, being presented with the trophy by the Governor of California, with Joe O'Brien standing to the Governor's right. The 1-4 miles was paced in 2:33. Dr. J. M. Nicholson's driver home was August 2nd, 1898, is signed by W. H. Grocher and bears the doctor's photo on the left side and a statement of colors worn on the back.

There is also a picture of Allan J. Wilson, formerly of Cardigan, now proprietor of the largest trucking business in Massachusetts and co-owner in several large race tracks including Foxboro, driving Hollywood Dick 2:00 1-4, also a picture of Wes' brother, the late Bill Nicholson, champion billiard player of the Province, making a difficult shot with a number of intensely interested spectators around him. These are only a few of the souvenirs of the past displayed in the Nicholson barber shop.

Our Montreal correspondent sends us an account of the $12,000.00 match race, recently held at Uchilleu Park, which with other races drew an attendance of over 1,000. It was between Highland Frisco 2:04 1-5, well known to Maritimers as the winner of the $5,000.00 pacing derby at Moncton a few years ago, and Derby Day 2:22 1-5, a five-year-old chestnut horse by Nibble Hanover. The first heat was won by Derby Day in 2:17 2-8 and the second heat Highland Frisco just managed to get his nose in front to win in 2:04 3-5 which is just one-fifth off the track record. Highland Frisco also came from behind to win the third heat by inches in 2:06. The owner of Derby Day was not pleased because one of the starts had been recalled, and spoke to the crowd through the public address system, stating that he was not satisfied that Highland Frisco was the better horse and he challenged the owner to a match race up to $10,000 a side. This was later accepted by the owner of the winner, Highland Frisco is one of the wonder horses of the past decade. He now answers to twelve years, in which he has campaigned ten of them. Thought to be all through some years ago he was sold for a very reasonable price to Lucien Dionne, Drummondville, Que., who has raced him with success ever since.

Owners and drivers in the Maritimes are reminded that December 31st, 1950, will be the final date for making registrations at the $5.00 fee and transfers for $1.00. After that date only yearlings—that is colts registered the year they are born—will be eligible for that fee. Yearlings and older are then to be $15.00. Fees for transfer within thirty days will be $1.00 between 30 and 90 days $2.00, and after ninety days $10. We urge all breeders to attend to this matter as soon as possible.

The Clarence Schuman Benefit Races at Covehead Wednesday afternoon showed that our people are always ready and willing to help a worthy cause. Great credit for the success of the meeting is due to the officials of the Victoria Driving Club, the horsemen, drivers and grooms, Charles Willis, proprietor of Covehead Race Track, who gave the use of his track, the Charlottetown Driving Club for furnishing the starting gate with starter Russell Abbott, and driver Bill MacAusland, the Godfrey Sound System, CFCY, the press for generous boosts, the clerks and staff who handled the pari-mutuel and tickets free, the merchants for furnishing valuable prizes and last but not least the hundreds of people who attended.

Clarence Schuman has been a good citizen and good trainer and driver and that was well recognized as he will be glad to learn when the nice sum of money realized from Wednesday's meet will be presented to him. Next Wednesday the Maritimes Summer horsemen are putting on a similar race meeting on Harold Gaudet's track. We trust it will be equally as successful and that the arena will be as enjoyable as that at Covehead. Horsemen may have their little differences in the heat of racing, but they are quickly forgotten and deep down in their hearts they have a very great liking for each other. This has been shown many times in the writer's long connection with the sport and we trust it will always continue.

George MacDonald, Mermait was greatly pleased a couple of weeks ago by the arrival of a bay filly foaled by Miss Victoria 2:14 1-2 by Kalmuck 2:15 1-2 dam, Miss Possibility 2:12 1-2. The sire is Paoliacci 2:09 1-2 by Lord Jim 2:02 1-2. George says it is a beautiful filly, very strong and active. We trust it will turn out to be another June Morning 2:04 4-5.

A pacing mare that caught the eye of a number of good horsemen was Goodwill meet was Lou Kalmuck bred owned and developed by Edgar Bryenton. She is a daughter of Kalmuck 2:15 1-2 and her dam is the famous pacing mare Lou Patch 2:09 1-4, brought here from Ohio some years ago. Lou Patch is a descendant of the famous Dan Patch 1:55 1-4. Lou Kalmuck showed all the earmarks of class in the seventh dash at the night races September 7th, being just nosed out by Campbell's Buddy in 2:21 3-5. Considering the limited training given her much can be expected from her in the future.

The get of Calumet Buding 2:07 3-4 are certainly going strong this year and one of the best of them is Donald G. R., formerly owned by Mrs. Sampson Grady of Summerside, that won the 6th race at Foxboro a few evenings ago in 2:08 2-5—a new record. He was driven by Roy Burnett, who deserves great credit for his winning streak. Racing the same evening was Marjorie Hanover, campaigned last season by F. G. Coates of Amherst, N. S. Marjorie was second to Lance Hanover in 2:19 2-5 for 1 and one-sixteenth miles. Other Maritime horses racing at Foxboro during the week were Free Spirit, that won second in the 2:20 pace, driven by Roy Burnett, time for the one and one-sixteenth miles—2:17 1-5 Richard Buding, driven by Tommy Elter, was second in the 8th race at Norw. Maine, Sept. 14—time 2:17 3-4.

And now we have some good news for the many admirers of

PAGE SIX THE GUARDIAN, CHARLOTTETOWN SEPTEMBER 23, 1950

There's a chill in the air. Some say Thursday might set a new record low for September. Be that as it may, it seems a little early for hockey to be vying with football, let alone baseball, for space on the sports pages. Nevertheless, there are big happenings going on hereabouts in hockey circles—too big to be ignored.

The re-entry of this Province in the Maritime Big Four Hockey League has been the subject of much interest and debate. The Islander's hockey club, banking on the pledges made by the public during the summer, was given the green light. Coach Murphy Chamberlain was procured and recently announced the nucleus of a team. It is now up to the hockey fans to publicize their pledges and see the Islanders off to a good start.

There are rumors that Bucko Trainor will be performing in local livery. Negotiations have been and are still going on to have the local star released from his present commitments. There is a strong possibility that these negotiations will be successful and if so, Bucko will be a welcome addition to the ranks of the Islanders.

Chamberlain is reported itching to get a look at local talent. This he hopes to do at the Hockey School slated to open here come the first of next month. In correspondence with local officials, however, he emphasized that the school was open to all interested in hockey—not only those hoping to gain a berth on the team. He is anxious to encourage any prospect and expressed the hope that the school would be well attended.

The announcement was made yesterday that W. J. (Bill) Brown has been named Forum Manager. Bill is well known through his radio broadcasts particularly of sports events. His appointment will be well received and there is no doubt he will bend every effort to further boost sports events in his new capacity. His position is an important and exacting one and his amiable personality should lend itself well to this office. A host of friends wish him well.

For many years the above office was filled by C. F. (Charlie) Archer. Charlie and the Forum were synonymous. There were the good times and the bad times, but through them all Charlie was imperturbable. He performed his duties conscientiously. Hospitalized for some time Charlie is seeking to regain full health and he will welcome him around and about familiar haunts.

Getting back to baseball—Mike Gavan, who covers the Dodgers for the Journal-American, writes: "Branch Rickey and his fellow directors hope by any chance that Shotton is going to get them off the hook by resigning, they are wrong." Then he quotes Shotton as saying: "I like this job too much to quit. I was in baseball for more than 10 years before I got it. It's the best I've ever had and I like it. Of course, if by chance, I should be blamed for the things that have happened to this club this season, I wouldn't want to stay five minutes."

The Yankees are 80,000 shy of reaching the 2,000,000 attendance mark at home, which is slightly under the combined Giants-Dodgers' home figures. Red Rolfe told Detroit newspapermen the other day that Whitey Ford, the Yanks' good rookie left-hander, had showed him the best curve ball he has seen all season.

Less than a month ago Lou Boudreau predicted that Cleveland would win the pennant because (1) he never had such "a fine group of players"; (2) "our pitching is excellent and our hitting is returning"; and (3) "none of the other leaders have an abundance of hitting." Now the gossip is that Boudreau's number is up in Cleveland and that Buckie Harris will succeed him, if Clark Griffith is willing.

Junior Baseball Title Hangs In Balance At Game Here Tomorrow

The City Junior Baseball Championship will hang in the balance at the big feature scheduled for Memorial Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, when the Knights of Columbus, and Victorias clash in the fourth game of their best of five playoff series.

The Knights, holding a 2-1 game edge over their rivals, could end tomorrow with a victory, while the Victorias, who will be coming out with a "do or die" effort, will have the opportunity of sending it into a fifth and deciding game if victory is theirs on Sunday.

Although both teams have been the producers of much smart ball playing all season, tomorrow's struggle is expected to eclipse anything seen in the way of action this year, and a large crowd will no doubt be on hand to witness the all-out efforts of both squads to turn the tide in their favor.

The starting batteries were not announced last night but it can be depended that both will be using their top performers.

Bill Brown New Manager Of The Forum

W. J. (Bill) Brown, City, has been appointed Manager of the Charlottetown Forum effective Oct. 1, it was announced last night.

Mr. Brown has been a member of the broadcasting staff of CFCY for some years and is well known to the public. He has always taken a keen interest in sporting events of all kinds and is Vice-President of the Islanders' Hockey Club, lately admitted to the Big Four Senior Hockey League in the Maritimes.

He is a popular and courteous young man and should be successful in his new undertaking.

Interscholastic Track, Field Meet Here Today

The large entry list of 186 competitors, just four under last year's all-time high, will compete for top honors at Memorial Field this afternoon in the Fourth Annual Provincial Interscholastic Track and Field Championships, scheduled to get underway at two o'clock.

The impressive group of both boy and girl athletes, representative of the best from 13 schools throughout the Province, will contest one another in a total of 17 events for individual and team titles.

An outstanding event in school athletics each year, the event will be the last big show of its kind this season, and is expected to come up with an outstanding calibre of keen competition and sportsmanship.

Under the sponsorship of the Department of Physical Fitness, an excellent group of competent officials has been appointed to take charge of the meet to assure its success to the last detail.

As in previous years, many standing records are expected to go by the boards, and interested spectators who will be turning out to witness the youngsters perform may be sure that they will be treated to an stellar afternoon of good sporting entertainment.

Prince Street School is the defending high point team winner.

Foster Burke Wins Caddie Tournament

Competing against a field of seventeen other entries, Foster Burke captured the Belvedere caddie golf championship of the Charlottetown Golf Club yesterday afternoon when he carded a gross 95 in the 18-hole medal play competition.

Albert Phillips was the runner-up with a gross 120, while Gus Beaton and Bobby Dowling were third and fourth prize winners with gross scores of 123 and 128 respectively.

Burke's winning performance also netted him the Rendezvous Trophy, symbolic of the Belvedere caddies title.

Following the competitions, the ladies of the Charlottetown Golf Club treated the youngsters to a copious tea, during which Club President A. G. MacMillan made the presentation of prizes.

The function was brought to a close with a rollicking sing-song led by Mrs. Sandow, wife of Marc Sandow, club professional.

Red Sox, Yankees Open Vital Series This Afternoon

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—A near-capacity crowd of more than 60,000 will jam its way into Yankee Stadium tomorrow to watch the Yankees and Boston Red Sox battle in the opener of a vital two-game American League series.

If it should rain in the afternoon the diamond will be left covered and an effort made to play the game under the lights, with the day's tickets still good.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks named southpaw Ed Lopat to oppose lefty Mel Parnell in the first game. The two have identical 17-8 records for the season.

A letter received recently from W. Scott MacLeod, Vancouver, B.C. through the medium of the Hunter's Corner (re-printed in the Public Forum column of the Charlottetown Guardian under date of September 18th) brought old memories flooding back to the writer re: hunting experiences and what not during the First Great War years 1914-1919. In September 1915 the 1st Canadian Field Artillery in which I was serving, was stationed on the Ploegsteert front (also known as the Messines).

Our horse lines were located behind the ghost village of Neuve Eglise. His mention of Ash Road and Hennessy's Chateau, built by the manufacturer of Hennessy's 3-star brandy, reminded me of the night I was a member of a fatigue party detailed to construct an O-pipe (observation post) a short distance behind the front line. We were issued with picks and shovels which were stored in the chateau aforementioned. The O-pipe was for the benefit of our field batteries.

As deep night threw a blanket of protective cover over the landscape we moved cautiously down the slope facing the German lines. I have a vivid recollection of a heavy crop of standing wheat and of barking my shins on a plough left in the field by some Flemish farmer. It also afforded good cover (but no protection) when enemy star shells lighted up the night and German machine guns on Whychate Ridge (pronounced White-chate) began a rat-a-tat-tat. Anyway it felt better to be out of sight.

It was interesting to learn that it was in this same stand of wheat that Scott MacLeod shot his big Cock pheasant—and what a chance he took. I may have been pretty close to him that night for I watched the shadowy forms of infantrymen lining the parapet. Every few minutes the sharp SPAANG of a rifle shot sounded and a spurt of orange flame loked out and was lost in the shadows of No Man's Land.

My first experience with game in France came in August 1916. My unit had moved down from the Ypres salient to the Somme. In a downpour of rain that dripped in white sheets of mist across the Picardy plains our gun limbers moved in and set up lines in a shallow valley a few kilometres behind the town of Albert—Albert with the statue of the Virgin Mary with a babe in her arms, leaning from a church spire over its main street. A German shell had partially crumpled the framework at its base.

It was my hard luck to be posted for "pickle" duty the first night in. My partner was Alex Forbes, a big lumbering Scotsman nick-named the "Tar Baby". We constructed a sort of igloo of bales of hay and threw a tarp over the lot as a partial protection against the driving rain. As the murky, rain-soaked twilight fell, the big guns up front around Courcellette boomed out in a steady crescendo... both ours and the Heinies. Later I referred to it as the evening symphony of death as it was a nightly occurrence.

As we huddled in our makeshift shelter that overlooked our mule lines—we were getting down to mokes by this time—I saw a team of mules at the head of the lines throw up their heads as a covey of twelve or fifteen brownish birds skimmed low down the shallow valley in which our lines were set up. In the quarter hour before deep dark close to two hundred partridge—they were Huns the same as we have here now—flew away from the din up front to the quieter back of the lines area. Little did I dream then that years later I would be shooting Hungarian partridge on our little island back home.

Forbes and I talked long into the night. The sight of the swift moving covey's awakened dimmed hunting memories. He told me about his uncle John Hay who owned an estate in the Scottish highlands near Cairnie by Huntley, roughly 30 miles north of Aberdeen. He spoke of hares and grouse on this estate and later wrote to his uncle. This was followed by an invitation for me to visit them while on one of my annual "leaves". More about this later.

In 1917 an Island unit—the 8th Siege battery under Col. Peake—was landed in France and underwent their baptism of fire at Arras.

Falcons Have Backs To Wall In Game At S'ide Sunday With C. And B.

Ment's Falcons with their backs against the wall invade Summerside Sunday afternoon for the third game of the Island Senior baseball series and they will have to be as formidable as their name implies if they are to remain in the running for baseball honors.

With the count 0 and 2 against them the string has run out in the three out of five game play-off series. The Currants, tough on any diamond this season, have proven tougher in their own park than any other.

But giving a lift to the hopes of the Mentmen last night was the report that their ace pitcher Leroy MacAleer would be on the mound for Sunday's crucial game. Lefty has been tossing the ball around for the past couple of weeks and according to reports is back to his old time form.

And if he is not ready to toe the rubber Sunday the Falcons otherwise ace pitcher, sixteen year old Benny Carson may be called upon to toss another three hitter.

Jackie Cairns will likely be playing in the hot corner in place of Ralph Pinea who will be playing Junior ball in the City. Otherwise the Falcons lineup will probably be the same as the one that took the field last Wednesday.

Summerside will probably pin their pitching hopes on bespectacled Alan Stewart or right-hander Joe Bernard Wednesday's winning hurler.

Irvin Pleased With Canadien's Crop of Rookies

MONTREAL, Sept. 22—(CP)—Coach Dick Irvin, who can be as talkative at a hockey training camp as an owl, came right out today and said the kids training with Montreal Canadien's "are the finest group of rookies we've had since 1940-41."

That was the year Elmer Lach, Ken Reardon and others made their start with Canadien's.

"As a rule the rookies are flying in the first couple of days and then start to tail off," said the coach.

Just then Paul Masnick, stocky centre from Regina, racked up his fourth goal of the day, and Irvin became downright loquacious.

"Our gang is getting stronger each day and it's going to be tough to pick our team. We have six boys who look like topnotchers and a couple more who aren't far off," Irvin said those who have impressed him most are Jean Bellevue of Quebec, Mesnick, Dickie Moore, up from the Junior Canadien's, Reg Abbott, ex-Brandon West Kings, and a trio from the farm pastures of the American Hockey League, Frank King, Tom Johnson and Bud McPherson.
