

Editorial Con't

marks, they are usually empty, except insofar as they serve the interests of the bourgeois. Leon Loucks is an example of this type.

There is also the "expert". This fellow is, or would have us believe he is, very knowledgeable. He constantly appeals (very subtly) to authority -- to tests he has conducted, to research he has done, books he has written, etc. Throughout the course of his remarks there are many appeals to authority designed to impress the other senators. He seeks to mystify so as to create a climate in which he can have considerable measure of control. Unsuspecting students are apt to fall prey to this dishonest practice. Who does it? Verner Smitheram is one. Ron Baker is another.

The "suckhole" -- the one who laughs for the chairman, is, indeed, a very subtle fellow. His laughter is a form of communication to the other senators which seeks as its aim the co-operation of these other senators to acquiesce to the wishes of he for whom the laughter laughs. In our case, the laughter subtly asks the other senators to accept Ron Baker's suggestions (which are often made in his funny comments -- which are very seldom funny!). However, the laughter does not really care whether we follow Ron Baker's suggestions; what he is really interested in is obtaining favour with the chairman so as to facilitate obtaining his own way. His act is an act of deceit -- very sneaky, and very childish!!

No one has a mind of his own -- each looks to the left & right reading the expressions of fellow senators in an attempt to find what is appropriate to say or how to respond to what has been said.

More people should attend senate meetings to observe this spectacle of disgust.

You think your professors are awe-inspiring because they are professors? Look again from another angle and watch the bourgeois in action.

These remarks will no doubt seem unfair to some -- especially those named. But there is a general problem revealed here: a most common trick among the bourgeois (which is an unwritten law) which is the right to say whatever they like without having their name attached to it. "One must never mention names." They can propagate any oppression; any and many forms of evil, without the necessity of having personally to face up to it. But the sneaky tricks they use (as indicated above) are real, committed by real people; and the only means whereby one may take issue with them is to quite simply call a spade a spade! There are no social acts apart from people -- the bourgeois pretend otherwise, which is again but another means of perpetuating themselves and their wretched modes of thought.

©1966 R. COBB All Rights Reserved

if we could get 5 - 10 - 100 or even a thousand female prisoners. That would cut the cost per prisoner way down. So get out there girls and rape, kill, steal and molest babies. You, too can help your government!!

(Even if you are only a girl) Speaking of taxpayers' money, J.F.F. raised the price of meals last week from $1.35 to $1.75. The cost has gone up I guess! You know how it is in the restaurant business. "You just can't make those meals that you get in jail for under $1.50 a piece and sureley you want us to make 25¢ profit on such a fine meal. So surely you can understand a mere 40¢ raise in cost." At 40¢ a meal and an average of 25 meals at once or 75 meals a day, the total increase comes to $10,950. a year, more if it's a leap year. So, if you see a (baby pink) 1974 cadillac down on Weymouth Street at 4 a.m., do your bit for the revolution and don't forget to salute.

Sidney T. Kidd
& friends

NOTE: "Tasty tid-bits" meal of the week is fillet of mackerel (only slightly burnt) two scoops of potatoe, three slices of bread and 43 diced carrots. There was a glass of milk with my meal so maybe that accounts for the extra cost!!!

cadre

Member of Cdn. University Press (C.U.P.). The opinions expressed are those of the authors. All contributions must be signed to be considered for publication.

Phone: 2-7142

Editor - Stan Dalton
Managing Editor - Louise Mould
Ass't Managing Editor - Joanne Hansen
Staff Reporters - Joel Hansen
Richard Willis
Advertising Manager - Ken MacNeill
Photography - Jim Crombie
For Ms. Editor -- Gil Brammer
Sports Editor - Mickey Place
Typist - Leslie Lambie

Love & Kisses