Juan Peron Takes Refuge On Paraguayan Gunboat As Rebels Talk Peace Terms

By BRUCE HENDERSON BUENOS AIRES. (AP)—Juan D. Peron took refuge Tuesday aboard a Paraguayan gunboat in Buenos Aires harbor. The rebels whose revolt shattered his 10-year dictatorship demanded that the fallen Argentine director-president be intercepted and arrested. Political asylum is highly regarded in Latin America, however, and this may increase Peron's chances for escape to neighboring Paraguay. It seemed obvious that the military junta now in control, including some of Peron's associates, had made no airtight arrangements to prevent Peron's flight from the presidential palace to the Buenos Aires docks.

START PEACE TALKS The junta, meanwhile, was undertaking peace talks with the rebels. The government radio announced that a delegation of the Junta left Rio Santiago naval base to meet a group of the rebel command. The talks are taking place aboard the cruiser Argentina. A tense situation brewed in the capital. Anti-Peronists triumphantly paraded through the streets, ripping down portraits of Peron, toppled in a four-day revolution. But during the morning a group of about 100 Peronistas began their own demonstration, marching down the Avenida de Mayo

Fail To Get U. N. Seat For Red China

By JACK BEST UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP)—For the sixth straight year, a Russian move to seat Communist China was beaten down Tuesday at the opening of the UN's 10th General Assembly. The assembly voted 42 to 12 with six abstentions in favor of a United States proposal to postpone consideration of the matter for this session. Canada voted in support of the U. S. Foreign Minister Molotov—attending his first assembly since 1946—raised the issue of Chinese representation soon after the meeting began. He did it by challenging Nationalist China's right to a seat and demanding that Peiping's representatives be seated instead.

WOULD EASE TENSION Molotov said there is evidence "of a certain change for the better in relations among nations," and claimed that "restoration of legitimate rights" to Red China through a UN seat would represent an important new step towards relaxing tension. Henry Cabot Lodge, leader of the American delegation, did not debate the substance of the question but proposed that the assembly shelve the matter and further that his resolution be voted on first. After nearly an hour of discussion, the Lodge procedural motion was adopted and his resolution was carried. For Canada, the debate contained hopeful signs that the spirit of co-operation engendered at the Geneva "summit" conference is being maintained. Health Minister Martin, Canada's chief delegate, said: "The acrimony of debate and vituperation of discussion which characterized a similar debate at the last opening was not present today on the part of the Soviet Union. Speeches by supporters of the U. S. proposal were marked by "brevity and relevancy." Martin said. Delegates of 10 countries, not counting the United States and Russia, discussed the issue.

Other reports received were from Helen L. Bolger, Secretary-Registrar, Ruth I. Ross, President Charlottetown District, Mary Madigan, Charlottetown Nursing Registry, Dorothy Cox, Nursing Education Board of Examiners, Sister Mary Patricia, Nursing Service Committee, Publicity and Public Relations, Sister Mary A. A pleasing feature of the meeting was the presentation of an Honorary Membership Certificate to Miss Muriel Archibald, in the thirty-fourth year that has elapsed, the membership has grown from 12 to 283. There are now over 160 students in the three Schools of Nursing. Appreciation was expressed for the invaluable work of Miss Jean

Labor Dept. To Probe Why Wives Are Working

OTTAWA (CP)—The women's bureau of the labor department is trying to find out why working wives hold down jobs. A coast-to-coast survey of about 1,000 married career women will be launched this fall, the department announced. They represent a cross section of the country's working married women. The survey will be conducted through the social work departments of universities in eight Canadian cities—Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver. Graduate students in the universities will interview the specially-selected women, asking them about their work, their training and their family responsibilities. They also will ask them how their husbands react to their having careers. The chief of the survey, first of its kind undertaken in Canada, is to find out what types of work married women are doing, why they are working and what effect it has on their family life, the department said. TAKE BIGGER PART This information is important "because of the large and growing participation of married women in the Canadian labor force," the department said. More than 400,000 married women now work outside their homes in Canada. They constitute about one-third of all the women in employment. Marion V. Royce, head of the women's bureau, said that it will be at least a year before the results of the survey are published. The Maritime School of Social Work in Halifax and the social work departments of Laval University, McGill University and the universities of Toronto, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are participating in the survey.

Two Killed, 12 Injured In Car-Bus Collision

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP)—A bus-car crash near this Laurentian town Tuesday night took the lives of two men, one of them Fernand Lacroix, a former Montreal newspaper editor. Mr. Lacroix and Jean Charbonneau, a musician, were killed when their car collided with a Provincial Transport Company bus in a head-on smash on Highway 11. Provincial police said "several" bus passengers were taken to hospital in nearby St. Jerome with undetermined injuries. Other sources said more than 12 persons were injured. Mr. Lacroix was city editor of Le Canada, French-language daily which ceased publication Nov. 26, 1953. He later became editor of the periodical Metropole for some six months before leaving to enter business life. RAINING AT TIME Mr. Lacroix, 41, was widely known by the nickname "Ferdie" among his newspaper friends. Mr. Charbonneau, a noted Montreal musician, recently held a prominent part in musical arrangements at a national congress in honor of St. Joseph, patron saint of Canada, at St. Joseph's oratory here. Provincial police reported the two died on impact, when their north-bound car smashed head-on into the big bus. Rain squalls swept across the district about the time of the crash. The injured were taken to Hotel Dieu hospital in St. Jerome, where authorities said none was in critical condition. In his newspaper career, Mr. Lacroix worked at Sherbrooke and Val d'Or, as well as Mont-

Is Arrested On A Fluke

TORONTO, (CP)—For three months police here have been looking for Daniel Joseph Jobe, 49, on a charge of abduction. On Monday he was arrested on a fluke. Police arrested him on a drunk charge. They made a routine check and found a warrant for his arrest still outstanding. He is charged with the abduction last June of Joan Hatley, 4. The girl was playing outside her home when a truck pulled up, a man got out and bundled Joan in the back of the truck. Det.-Sgt. Cyril Cole said the girl was rescued by a group of women who were told she had been taken into a truck. The women chased a truck into a dead-end lane where the driver abandoned the girl and truck and ran.

Hope For Speedy End G.M. Strike

TORONTO, (CP)—Hope for a speedy end to the General Motors of Canada strike was seen Tuesday night with the announcement negotiations between the company and the union will be reopened today. The news, contained in a company announcement, apparently came sooner than union officials anticipated.

PLEASANT SURPRISE FOR MAYOR A pleasant surprise was in store for Mayor J. David Stewart yesterday afternoon when Chief of Police, Earl Knight (right) of London, Ontario, brought greetings from the Chief Magistrate of that City to His Worship here. London along with Charlottetown is celebrating its centennial this year.

Hurricane Veers Out To Sea Sparring Northeast U.S.; Heavy Loss In South

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Hurricane Ione veered out to sea Tuesday, sparing the populous northeastern United States and Canada. But it struck the south hard, inflicting damage estimated in the millions of dollars in North Carolina. A sister hurricane, Hilda, struck Tampico, Mexico, killing at least 12 persons, injuring 350 and leaving 15,000 homeless. Ione moved well out to sea off Norfolk on an easterly course running well below Nantucket island. Weather forecasters said this meant the coast was free from further danger, but that the howler still menaced any ships in its path. Ione, the season's ninth hurricane, hit the Atlantic coast near New Bern, N. C., and wrought its heaviest damage in that state. Then it arched through Virginia before heading to sea again off Norfolk. HOMES FLOODED Heavy rain and winds up to 100 miles an hour hit New Bern. Water there was 10 feet deep at one time on Middle street. Homes two miles from the Trent river had up to four feet of water in them. The Atlantic and East Carolina Railroad bridge over the Trent was washed out. City manager C. L. Barnhardt estimated damage to private property alone at $5,000,000. New Bern reported four hurricane deaths, and Elizabethtown, N. C., one. CROPS DEVASTATED The rainfall spewed by Ione, coming so soon after that of Diane and Connie, virtually ruined North Carolina's peanut crop. Sweet potato crops were another casualty. Virginia, with rains of three inches or more in 24 hours, suffered to a lesser extent. For a time the storm appeared to be aiming at New York City and thence New England, where floods induced by Hurricane Diane on Sept. 19 and 20 caused almost 200 deaths. But then Ione changed from a northeasterly to an easterly course taking it out into the Atlantic.

Police Chiefs Entertained At Enjoyable Civic Function

"Law, while it may have its humorous aspects, is the bulwark of our liberties and without it they would soon be gone," said Judge W. E. Darby in addressing a dinner meeting of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police at the Charlottetown Hotel last night. "As law enforcement officers you are upholding the heritage which have been passed down through the ages. If you deviate from your commission you will be defeating the very purpose which you have been pledged to uphold," Judge Darby said. Cheers of appreciation arose from the large gathering when Chief Robert Alexander, president of the Canadian Police Chiefs Association was presented with the key to the City by Mayor J. D. Stewart. The ceremony was accompanied by all the pomp and ceremony of a bygone centuries including the arrival of the Town Crier, Ivan Docherty, accompanied by the City Clerk James Fullerton with his body guard of two stalwart constables, Russell Downe and Lloyd Archer. The pipe for the occasion was youthful Barry MacGillivray. Seated at the head table were His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, and Mrs. Prowse; Hon. Thane A. Seven Charged In Montreal Nylon Smuggling Ring

BRISTOL, England (AP)—The Bristol magistrates court Tuesday refused to permit Sylvia Patricia Carter, 19-year-old shop-girl, to marry a 41-year-old carnival dwarf who bills himself as the world's smallest magician. The court acted on the appeal of the girl's parents who objected to the marriage of their five-foot-six daughter to the three-foot-six Gwyn Rees. A girl must be 21 to marry without parents' permission in England. Miss Carter said she still loved Rees "for what he is—a thoroughly decent and nice person." She said she would wait until she is 21 so they can get married.

Seven Charged In Montreal Nylon Smuggling Ring

MONTREAL (CP)—The RCMP said Tuesday they have smashed a smoothly operating ring that smuggled more than $100,000 worth of nylon stockings into Canada from the United States. In the wake of the announcement six men and one woman were arrested and arraigned at Arthabaska, a town in the Eastern Townships about 100 miles northeast of Montreal. They were all charged with conspiracy to deal in smuggled goods and nylons and ordered to appear for preliminary hearing Sept. 28. Property bail of $950 was fixed for one of the men. In all other cases property bail of $2,500 each was asked. Superintendent Edward Brakefield-Moore, head of the RCMP's criminal investigation branch here said an eighth man will be charged in the case. His identity is being withheld pending his arrest or surrender. CIGARET RING OFFSHOOT The nylon ring was described as an offshoot of the multi-million-dollar cigarette smuggling ring that was smashed a year ago. A total of 75 persons were arrested and charged following smashing of a ring that smuggled an estimated 2,000,000,000 cigarettes into Canada between 1951 and 1953. The nylon ring operated in the same period, said Superintendent Brakefield-Moore. Police found evidence of the operation while working on cigarette smuggling. He said evidence showed that the nylons were purchased direct from mills in the United States and transported through back roads to Canada in bales. Once across the border they were sorted and graded. Police believe the stockings were purchased at approximately 30 cents a pair and sold at prices ranging from 59 cents to $1.50 a pair. WIND UP INVESTIGATION The latest arrests "should about" complete the main investigations of the RCMP in the border traffic case, Superintendent Brakefield-Moore said. Last Saturday a new charge was laid in connection with cigarette smuggling. Jacques Blanchette of Montreal was charged with conspiracy arising out of the smuggling of cigarettes into Canada. He pleaded not guilty and was ordered to appear Friday for preliminary hearing. Blanchette, identified by police as the 28-year-old son of Joseph A. Blanchette, Liberal member of the Commons for the Quebec constituency of Compton-Frontenac, was released on $100 cash bail.

Can Proceed With New Deal For Morocco

By Harold King PARIS, (Reuters)—Premier Edgar Faure Tuesday quelled opposition within his cabinet which has delayed proposed reforms in Morocco for the last eight days. He was given a free hand to go ahead with the new deal for the North African protectorate after challenging his major critics to cease their obstruction or resign. Members of the cabinet had argued over the choice of the third member of a three-man regency council to be formed in Morocco as the first step in the reform program. The other two members were chosen weeks ago. Faure obtained unanimous cabinet authority to leave the choice of the third member of the council in the hands of Pierre July, minister for Morocco, and Gen. Pierre Boyer de LaTour, the resident-general in Morocco. NO TIME TO DELAY De LaTour will return to his influential post in Rabat by today. His first task will be to organize the retirement of Sultan Moulay Ben Arafat, so that the three-man regency council can be announced and installed. Its task in turn will be to nominate a 12-man all-Moroccan government to implement the reforms. Although progress towards a practical solution was made here Tuesday, the outlook remained uncertain. Faure stressed the urgency of starting to translate into acts what had been promised a week ago. He said the situation in Morocco is again getting strained. In the Arab quarters of Moroccan towns inflammatory leaflets against the French were being distributed. This is not the moment, Faure said, to aggravate anti-French feeling in North Africa by delaying the application of the autonomy promised by the government.
