RAM'S HORN WRINKLES.

A $20 coat often covers a 5 cent soul. Truthfulness is the diamond of character. Hypocrisy is a cloak that is ragged in the back. A pious face is not infallible proof of a devout spirit. The man who talks most about himself says the least. Character is what a man is, not what he appears to be. All things were made for the good, and some day they will have them. Smiling lengthens the mouth and the life in about equal proportions. He is more than half miserable who is going nothing to make others happy. What if you have lost your ring? Be thankful that you still have your finger. Any fool can make money, but it takes wisdom to know how to spend it well.—Ram's Horns.

STATE LINES.

Kentucky bankers met in convention and refused wine at a banquet. The other wonder in Kentucky is the Mammoth cave.—Dallas News.

We feel absolutely certain that the general use of cents in this state would add greatly to the comfort and to the savings of workers.—Stockton Mail.

Editors and Gentlemen.

A Georgia paper somewhat infelicitously remarked of the late General Avery of Atlanta that, although he was a great journalist, he was an ideal gentleman. This suggests to the Montgomery Advertiser the old story of the editor and the barber on a steamboat. When the editor offered to pay for his shave, the barber drew himself up and remarked, "We don't never charge editors nothin, sah." "But you can't carry on your business unless you charge for it," persisted the editor. "Dat's all right, sah," replied the barber. "We makes it up off'n gentlemen."—New York Tribune.

Dr. Marpillero, an eminent Italian scientist, has for a number of years been making experiments and observations relating to children's ideas of life and death, and has published his experiences. He found that in answering questions about life the poorer children almost invariably took a brighter view than the rich.

The money taken in at a prizefight is rightly called "box receipts."—Pittsburg Press.

His Name For the Fire Engine.

"What be that 'er mesheun?" asked Uncle Abner of Rurnsville as he witnessed the working of a fire engine for the first time.

"Why, uncle," replied his city nephew, "that is a machine for extinguishing fires." "Well," exclaimed the old man, "if I hadn't seed it with my own eyes I never woulder believ'd the pesky little tankettle could hev held so much water."—Chicago Post.

Few seem to doubt for a moment that contentment is the cause of happiness. Yet the inverse is true. We are contented because we are happy, not happy because we are contented.

There's lots of religion in a beefsteak if you give it to the right man at the right time, says Jerry McCatney.

A BACHELOR'S REVERIE.

Oh, a home is a terrible handicap
To a soul that fain would be free!
It has captured many a prisoned chap
But it shall never shackle me.
Instead of the cares I would have to face
In the same old rounds each day
Oh, give me a room in a lodging place
And a lunch at a chance cafe!

I never need hurry to catch my car,
For I haven't a place to go,
And early or late no meals I mar,
For I'm dining alone, you know,
The hands of the clock I never chase,
For I drift in an easy way,
Since I sleep in a transient lodging place
And lunch at a chance cafe.

A brother of mine—I loved him well—
Went wrong in his early years,
For he married and bought him a place to dwell

(Oh, the thought of it brings me tears!)
And there he has lived—what a pitiful case—
And there he will likely stay,
While I still sleep in a lodging place
And lunch at a chance cafe.

I sometimes think of his wife and child
And the vine at his cottage door,
While I dream of the perfect lips that smiled,
But they smile for me no more.
And I muse, "If the saint with the angel face

Had answered me 'Yes' that day,
Would I sleep in a transient lodging place
Or lunch at a chance cafe?"

INDIAN INK.

The Superior Kinds Are Used In U.S. and Not Exported.

An interesting account of the manufacture of the so called Indian ink, which is made only in the Anhui province of China, is given by Mr. Fraser, our consul at Wuku, on the Yang-tse, in his trade report. It is more correctly called China ink—encore de Chine—and from Anhui it goes to every part of China and all over the world. In 1895 about two tons of it, valued at $264, were exported from Shanghai to foreign countries. The materials with which this beautiful black ink is made are sesamum or colza oil, or the oil expressed from the poisonous seeds of a tree extensively cultivated in the Yang-tse valley, and also well known in Japan. To this tannish and pork fat are added. The lamp-black made by the combustion of these substances is classed according to the materials and the grade of fineness and also according to the time taken over the process of combustion. The paste made of this lampblack has some glue added and is beaten on wooden anvils with steel hammers. Two good hammers can prepare in a day 80 pieces, each weighing half a pound. A certain quantity of musk of the musk deer, or of Balooos camphor, for scenting, and gold leaves, varying from 20 to 100 to the pound, are added to give a metallic luster.

The materials thus prepared are molded in molds of carved wood and dried, which takes about 20 days in fine weather, and adorned with Chinese characters in gilding. About 20 or 32 average sized sticks of ink go to the pound. The price varies from 2s. or less per pound to as much as 27, there being over a dozen different grades. Nearly all writing is done by the natives throughout China, Japan, Korea, Tonquin and Anam with this China ink, rubbed down on a stone ink slab and applied with a paintbrush of sable, fox or rabbit hair, set in a bamboo holder, and when not in use carefully covered with a protecting brass cap. The superior kinds of this ink appear to be used in China and not exported.—Manufacturer.

According to the statement of the 10-year-old daughter of a Massachusetts clergyman, there are ways of making an old sermon seem almost new.

"Molly," said one of the friends of this young critic, "does your father ever preach the same sermon twice?"

"I think perhaps he does," returned Molly cautiously, "but I think he talks loud and soft in different places the second time, so it doesn't sound the same at all."
—Youth's Companion.

Trophies of Victory.

"What are all those ribbons hanging on the chandelier?"

"Those are not ribbons. They are neckties I've pulled off different men when I was learning to ride a wheel."—Chicago Record.

Dead Bees.

A Germantown correspondent writes: "Can you tell me if the pink Japan Judas tree, which was in bloom a couple of weeks ago, emits a fluid poisonous to bees and other insects? I have seen it stated that such was the case. That insects were attracted by the bright blossoms, but that the latter emitted an opiate and the dead insects could be seen on the ground about the bush."

Dead bees can be found in abundance under any early flowering plant that they frequent. It is not that they are poisoned; but simply that their time has come. The life of any bee does not reach twelve months.
