Premier Fleming Making Second Bid For Office

FREDERICTON (CP)—Premier Hugh John Fleming, 57, is leading his Progressive Conservative party in a provincial general election June 18 for a second time. The first in 1952, resulted in a landslide. Liberals had held the New Brunswick government reins by big majorities since 1935. Only five of the 52 legislature seats were occupied by PC members before the 1952 election. It ended with Progressive Conservatives winning 36 and Liberals 16. At dissolution of the last legislature April 17, three of the seats won by PC candidates were vacant. The husky, 200-pound premier was sworn into office Oct. 2, 1952, setting a unique family precedent. His father, the late Hon. J. K. Fleming, was New Brunswick premier from 1911 to 1914. Hugh John, as he is widely known, became party leader in 1951 after Hugh Mackay retired because of ill health. He was Mr. Mackay's chief lieutenant and opposition financial critic. Mr. Fleming has represented his native Carleton county in the legislature since 1944 and is again running in the three-member constituency. His political experience dates back to youthful days when he

Peace Pilgrim Is On Walking Tour

TORONTO (CP) — A silver-haired woman who calls herself Peace Pilgrim left Toronto Tuesday for Ottawa, intending to walk 100 miles of the 280-mile trip. United States-born, she said her journey is part of a 10,000-mile pilgrimage for world disarmament and peace. She expects to reach Ottawa late Saturday. Peace Pilgrim declined further to identify herself, saying that such details as her real identity, place of origin, personal background, would take attention from her mission. The woman said that since she started her walking pilgrimage 3½ years ago she has walked 3,500 miles and worn out 11 pairs of shoes. "I shall remain a wanderer, walking until I am given shelter and fasting until I am given food, until mankind has learned the way of peace," she said in an interview prior to her departure. "I never ask for help. It must be offered to me."

U.S. Tarriff Commission Hearing Fishery Briefs

BY GEORGE KITCHEN Canadian Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States tariff commission scheduled a hearing today to determine what harm, if any, imports of groundfish filets from Canada and other countries are doing to the New England fishery industry. The inquiry is being made at the request of New England fishermen, who are asking the commission either to raise the tariff on the imports or to establish restrictive quotas. It marks their fourth attempt in recent years to restrict imports from Canada. Members of the Canadian Fisheries Council, an industrial organization, are expected to present a Canadian defence Friday. While the commission's inquiry will delve into imports from all countries, its ramifications could be particularly hard at Canada, main supplier of groundfish imports. Trade figures for 1955 show Canada provided $3,400,000 pounds of the total of 129,000,000 brought into the U.S. from all countries. The Canadian exports, worth $47,000,000 a year to Canada's Atlantic coast fishermen, come principally from Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Prince Edward Is-

SPRING

Awake all ye, who wish to hear. The gladness news that spring is here. With birds, flowers and sunshine dear. The happiest time of all the year. Rejoice ye people, I say rejoice! Sing with the birds and raise your voice. Sing! because your heart feels light. That you have a Creator who doeth all things right. Who can but love the spring o' the year. When pulsing life awakes anew. Who will complain, grumble or pine. When the robins sing "cheer-up" in springtime? Has anyone a doubt that spring is here? If so, of the landscape take a view. I'm sure you'll derive from what you see. That spring is here with 'all its glee. Look at that tree where a robin is perched on the top. He is ready to make a flippant hop. The swallows are building their nests not a few. And the wild geese are counted in the number too. —Mrs. Harry W. Crozier Darnley, P.E.I.

See No Criticism Of Stalin In Khrushchev's Big Blast

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst One of the notable things about the now-famous Khrushchev speech last February is that it contained no criticism of Stalin's policy toward the West. Regarding foreign policy, only the famous break with Tito, which the "collective" government now is so busily bending, came in for the vituperation with which the speech was filled. Presumably, Khrushchev considered Stalin wise when he visited the Yalta agreements regarding eastern Europe. There is no criticism of the Russian-sponsored Korean War, even though it turned out to be one of Stalin's great failures. There is no criticism of the constant sabre-rattling which resulted in the development by the West of a world-wide organized repression of communism. The acts resulting in the creation of NATO, which the Russians so bitterly resent, are unmentioned. The failure of Stalin to cooperate in the development of a really powerful United Nations, despite his promises, apparently is unimportant to Khrushchev. The fact that Stalin's actions caused Russia to be considered by large parts of world opinion as barbaric and ignorant is not resented. Four things are resented: That Stalin thought he could break Tito when he could not. That Stalin built up "the cult of the individual" to the point where other Russian leaders including Khrushchev were impotent. This may be an excuse as well as a resentment. The Stalin's pose as a military leader cost Russia heavily in the war. That Stalin killed off a lot of people who shouldn't have been

Expect Production Needs Shortly To Exceed Labor

By FORBES RHUDE Canadian Press Business Editor TORONTO (CP)—Canadian manufacturers within the next few years must produce 40 to 50 per cent more goods with only 15 per cent more labor, W. E. Williams of Toronto said Wednesday in an address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Since 1946, Mr. Williams stated, the volume of goods and services produced in Canada had increased an average of four per cent annually. If this rate continued—and it had been more than five per cent since 1950—the gross national product would be doubled by 1965. At the same time, the available work force in industry was expected to increase less than 15 per cent in the same period. Clearly, the only way that Canadian manufacturers could hope to increase productivity by up to one-half in the next 10 years was to increase the productivity of each employee—not by speed-up, or by heavier workloads, but by furnishing labor the tools with which to do the job, by specialization at the management level, and by improved managerial techniques from the foreman level up. NO AMATEURS WANTED There is, Mr. Williams declared, no longer room for amateurs in business—"We must all adopt the professional attitude if we are going to be successful in the present competitive era and the undoubtedly even more competitive era ahead." Mr. Williams was one of four speakers in a "selling conference"—one of several conferences held as part of the opening day proceedings of CMA's annual meeting, attended by some 1,500 people. Co-chairman were J. D. Ferguson, president of Spencer Supplies (Canada) Limited, Rock Island, Que., and Victor deB Oland, vice-president of A. Keith and Son, Ltd., Halifax. A. L. Betts, vice-president, Gurney Products Ltd. Montreal, said the problems of selling are "people problems." "You don't," he said, "deal in stoves, lamps, hardware or groceries. You deal in people. These other things are only used by people. Think of anything worth while and it always includes people."
