CHILDREN

Are they troubled with headaches? Are the lessons hard for them to learn? Are they pale, listless and indifferent? Do they get thin and all run down toward spring? If so,

Scott's Emulsion

will do grand things for them. It keeps up the vitality, enriches the blood, strengthens mind and body. The buoyancy and activity of youth return.

WHERE SHE FALLS DOWN.

She's a leader in society, a speaker and a wit,
She can talk about astronomy and law;
In equations quadratic and the higher mathematics
She's the cutest adept mortals ever saw.
With Kipling, Shakespeare, Conan Doyle, she's intimate and free,
And she views the world right in the maddening strife,
But with all her wealth of ology, from Theos to Doxology,
She never darned a
stocking
in her
life.

She can play all scales chromatic, plain and simple, idiomatic—
A piano's just a victim to her touch—
And a harp's a pleading poor thing when she trembles on its main string.
And she hugs its arching frame with loving clutch;
And the neighbors they are praying, and to each other they are braying
Things she never heard as maiden or as wife,
But over all their praying, piping voices they are saying,
"She never darned a
stocking
in her
life."

Virgil, Homer, Horace, Cæsar, not one of them can tease her
In thought he gave the world some time ago;
Latin, Yiddish, Greek and Russian, French and Spanish, Dutch and Prussian,
All come tripping from her lips in accents low.
Rules of order and disorder, wealth of parliamentary lore,
Points of privilege in couples rushing drive;
As she sits a queenly chairman, still, you know, a very fair one,
Though she never darned a
stocking
in her
life.

Oh, she's strong on all reforms, politics and astral storms,
And on all city ownership she's great—
Water, telephones and light, 'lectric cars that run by night,
And improvements in the borough and the state!
Wonder how she knows it all, on this gay terrestrial ball,
And is now the brightest star in all club life,
When with such a simple thing as a needle, with a string,
She can't learn to darn one
stocking
in her
life.

Only One More Month

Our celery will only hold out about one month. Some of the wise ones are ordering a quantity to be kept in reserve for them. We have held on to the best for the last (the famous English Red Celery.) In this respect we resemble children who keep the most dainty part of their lunch to the last and at the rate it is going the time will soon come when there will not even be a last. The moral to the above is quite plain; no need to read between the lines it is enjoy it while it lasts.

We also have Hubbard Squash, Cape Cod and Island Cranberries, Spanish & Canadian onions, Brussells sprouts, red & white cabbage, carrots, beets, parsnips, turnips, beans, peas, parsley, etc.

Lettuce and mushroom in a few days at Gays Stalls Market.

"Hello! Is that Calliper & Co.?"
"Yes."
"Is Mr. Calliper in?"
"No."
"Will he be in soon?"
"I can't tell when he'll be in."
"Please say to him"—
"He's out of town."
"Why didn't you say so?"
"You didn't give me a chance. He's in New York."
"Ah! Sorry to have troubled you."
"Not at all."
"I say I am! Don't you suppose I know whether I'm sorry or not?"—Chicago Tribune.

Men and Women.

When a man keeps looking at a lady whom he doesn't know, she says he is an impudent puppy. If he doesn't look at her, she says he has a hangdog air.

It is easier for some men to tell the truth than to shave with their left hands.

After a woman has gone into mourning she ceases to consider that her life has been wholly a failure.

Some people keep so busy minding their own business that they miss many fine opportunities to profit by the experiences of others.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Lots of Luck.

"Been hunting?" asked the friend.
"Yes," answered the man in sportsman's costume.
"Have any luck?"
"Lots."
"What did you kill?"
"Nothing. We had a man in the party who had never been hunting before. None of us got shot."—Washington Star.
