

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM RICE

Autumn Wedding Followed By Honeymoon To Florida

St. Dunstan's Basilica was the scene of an early autumn wedding, when Mary Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Kelly, became the bride of William Randolph (Bill), son of Dr. L. A. and Mrs. Rice of King City, Ont.

The nuptial mass was offered by Rev. Robert MacDonald, who also performed the double ring ceremony. The sanctuary was attractively decorated with baskets of gladioli, snapdragons and asters, and guest pews were indicated by white satin bows centered with small white mums.

Joseph Douglas supplied the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Virginia MacDougall, BA, as she sang "O God of Loveliness" and "The King of the World Is Passing By" prior to the ceremony and "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a floor length sheath gown of white brocade, with rounded neckline, long tapering sleeves and a detachable cathedral train falling from the shoulders. Her four tiered bouffant veil of silk illusion was a shoulder length with scalloped edge trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of red roses with ivory. Her only jewelry was a pair of cultured pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her three sisters, Alfreda as maid of honor, Helen and Betty (Mrs. James Murray, RN) as bridesmaids. Their street length sheath dresses were of straw-berry brocade with seim - Empire waist, round, high neckline and three quarter sleeves. Bows of matching material held short illusion veils, and they carried nosegays of white carnations.

Jack MacMillan was ring bearer in a Black Watch tartan suit. He carried the rings on a heart-shaped cushion covered with lace and streamers.

The groom's brother, Robert Rice of King City was best man and ushers were Cpl. James O. Murray of Halifax, brother-in-law of the bride, and Barry Rice of North Bay, Ont., brother of the groom.

Mrs. Kelly chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise crocheted wool dress over taffeta, with three quarter length sleeves. Her hat was of matching feathers and her accessories were black and white, with a corsage of pale pink carnations.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Callers Invariably Leave Much Food For Thought

"Don't think for a moment I haven't my problems, Missis!" a service repairman, offered with a twinkle today.

"Then sit and rest your heart a while, and we'll discuss them" we invited him chuckling. He glanced at his watch, grinned. "Not when you have to go by this - you don't sit and rest your heart! You don't stop for anything, not even to discuss your problems!" he said.

They come to the farm, those to whom our occupation reaches out, drovers, salesmen, vendors of this and that, acquaintances, strangers, all interesting in that their calls invariably leave us with much food for thought.

"Why don't you quit the selling and buy yourself a bit of land? Farm lightly - keep a few beef animals" James suggested to one the other day. "But I like it. It's my life! I'm happy at it" the caller declared. "Then" James smiled, "if you are happy, I advise you to keep at it. To enjoy the work one is going, that is happiness, isn't it? And isn't that what people of the world over are searching for?"

"Does that crowing disturb you, Ellen?" James inquired kindly in the twilight of this morning. "It should" he chuckled, rising, "for it's, I would say, quite time to be up!"

The seasonal sounds we hear these days, the young crows from the poultry house, the bantams' echoes from the yard. A bluejay's shrill call, the melancholy cawing of crows along a hilltop. And today, though, we suspect it was only a fancy, we thought we could hear beyond the rim of the valley, the wild geese call. Sounds like these, we have as always, Good - night.....

(though in the farm living in this age, we find that many of the once familiar sounds both outdoors and in have vanished with the passing years.

"The other afternoon" one says, writing of vanishing sounds, "when the house was temporarily quiet, I found myself remembering sounds of my childhood. Missing now in the sound of the carpet sweeper and broom, of eggs being beaten with a fork in a plaster, of a sud's squeezed through wet cloth, with an occasional rib-rub on the scrub-board, the slow tick-tock of the big grandfather's clock at the foot of the stairs. In summer the loo-loo-top of the ceiling fan, the gentle creak of the porch-swing. From the street came the slip-slop of the detestable man's horse, the wonderful high call of the strawberry man walking along the sidewalk. Rhythmic sounds, comforting sounds - a relaxing fabric of sound these were for a child to read or dream against."

Some old-time sounds we hear yet. And this afternoon an old-time sight, in the smoke rising dark against today's gray, from the clearing fire, our farmers had set in a stump, and driven to it in the dampness prevailing.

"We made a good burn" the younger farmer reported later. He doubtless saw there a waving field of grain, or lush pasture, or a beclovered meadow in years of farming ahead.

But it is night now, with darkness in the windows. No moon at the moment, nor stars. But within that quiet and coziness which comes to farm-homes at day's end.

Until tomorrow - Dizzy

MR. AND MRS. PARKER MacDONALD

Father Of Bride Solemnizes Wedding In New Brunswick

A wedding of wide interest took place at the People's Church, Somerville, N.B., on Saturday, September 18th at 2.30 p.m., when Rev. Kenneth L. Foss, assisted by Rev. Mark Bredin, united in marriage with double ring ceremony, his daughter, Sandra Lee Foss and Norman Parker MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacDonald of New Haven, P.E.I.

The altar was adorned with ferns and baskets of gladioli, and guest pews were marked with gold dillies centered with white wedding bells and satin bows. A white carpet extended from the door to the altar.

Church organist, Mrs. Carl Peterson, played the wedding music and accompanied soloist Avid Long in singing "O Perfect Love" and "O Promise Me" prior to the ceremony and "At Thy Altar We Kneel" following dedication and "Saviour Like A Shepherd Lead Us" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a floor length gown of organza over taffeta with lavish lace appliques, with a scooped neckline. The skirt was full and slightly entrain with released pleats from the waist, with lily point sleeves. She wore an elbow length three tiered veil of tulle illusion attached to a crown of delicate seed pearls, and carried a cascade of tallman roses entwined with tulle and English ivy. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Donna Ebbett of Sackney, N.B. as maid of honor with Donna Ward of Clinton, Maine, and Judy Davis of Hartland, N.B. as bridesmaids. Little Beverly Knowles, Victoria, N.B. was a flower girl.

The maid of honor was dressed in gold English brocade with short tulle veil to match. She carried a semi-cascade of bronze mums, centered with roses.

The bridesmaids wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor in beige English brocade, and carried semi-cascades of bronze mums. The flower girl was in a mint green dress of the same material, and carried a basket of yellow mums.

All wore short tulle veils to match their gowns.

The ring bearer, Jonathan Boone, Hartland, N.B., wore gray trousers and navy blue blazer and carried the rings on a white satin, heart-shaped cushion.

The groom was attended by Robert Somers, of Toronto as best man, and ushers were Owen MacRae and Malcolm MacDonald, cousin of the groom, both of Prince Edward Island.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a three piece, double knit suit in peacock blue, with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of blue lace with a black velvet cape, black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the White Swan Inn, where the bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Grace was given by Mr. Bredin of the New Brunswick Bible Institute. Serving the bride's table were Mary MacDonald of Toronto, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Malcolm MacDonald of P.E.I. Guests were

Creepy, Crawly Menu Suggested

WINNIPEG (CP) - People should eat more creepy, crawly things, says a Winnipeg researcher.

"Entomologists estimate that an acre of land can yield more insect protein than beef protein," members of the Canadian Institute of Food Technology were told Tuesday.

"Assuming that many of the more than 600,000 species of insects have possibilities as food or drugs, there remains only the problem of how to harvest this protein."

The witch's brew menu was suggested by Ben Berck, a chemist with the agricultural research station here.

Mr. Berck said affluent North Americans should chew over the examples set in Asia and Africa where people eat silkworm pupae, caterpillars, grasshoppers, locusts, termites and beetles.

As the world's population increases, he said, food-growing areas will decrease and the need to develop new foods will become more apparent.

SHINES FOR MILES - The biggest illuminated cross in the world, 125 feet tall, is on the Trans-Canada Highway at Saint Ste. Marie, Ont.

For a honeymoon trip to Maine, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, the bride chose a raspberry red, three piece double knit suit with black accessories, and she wore a cyrindium orchid. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Toronto, Ont., where the groom is employed by the Dilcon Building Company.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were from Chicago, Illinois; Falmouth, Mass.; Toronto, Boothbay, Maine; Clinton, Maine; Bangor, Maine; Charlottetown and other centres in P.E.I., and points in New Brunswick.

Junior Red Cross Delegate Attends Youth Assembly

Prince Edward Island is sending one high school Red Cross delegate to the Young World Assembly - a national youth conference to launch the Young World Mobilization Appeal taking place at the Beacon Arms Hotel, Ottawa, from 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15 to 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 17. The theme of the conference will be "Canadian Youth and International Development."

Mary Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Powers, Souris is the student from the Souris Regional High School chosen to represent the P.E.I. Junior Red Cross.

On October 16, 1965 (the 20th anniversary of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations) millions of young people around the world will begin participation in the Appeal. Over a period of 21 weeks (Oct. 16, 1965 to March 21, 1966) they will contribute 21 hours of time to the great cause of international development.

Participation in the Appeal will take the dual forms of education... learning about the life of young people in other countries... and service... transforming into action some of the concerns of young people to help others.

The Junior Red Cross social project for the "Young World Mobilization Appeal" will be the extension of the Sudan Garden Project. Over the past couple of years, Junior Red Cross in Canada raised money to provide garden seeds, poultry, trees, tools, equipment, etc. for school gardens in the Sudan. Instructors were provided to teach the children and their teachers how to grow the school gardens, prepare the food, etc. This project proved to be tremendously successful, as it is a self-help type project which teaches the people how to help themselves.

There are now 50 school gardens in the Sudan and, with the help of Junior Red Cross, there will be many more. There are 70 million Junior Red Cross members in 87 countries - in P.E.I. there are 21,000 members which make the scope of this organization's program tremendous.

A Swedish three-shilling Banco stamp, accidentally printed the wrong color, has been insured for $100,000.

John Tremblay, salesman, got a Scotia Plan Loan - $400 - in 60 minutes.

John Tremblay needed $400 in a big hurry. As he was reading his newspaper one night he noticed a Bank of Nova Scotia advertisement. It made good sense to John so the next day he was at his nearest Scotiabank. He met the manager - explained his problem - and after a few quick questions about his job, income and how much money he needed John Tremblay breathed a sigh of relief.

IN 60 MINUTES John Tremblay knew he would have all the money he needed. Of course, this actual customer was not named John Tremblay - and not all Scotia Plan Loans take 60 minutes - the time varies with the circumstances.

But there are more and more people with all kinds of names and jobs coming to The Bank of Nova Scotia to have their money problems solved - quickly. Why don't you?

A SCOTIA PLAN LOAN is one of the best - most practical ways for you to consolidate your debts. Your loan is life-insured at no extra cost. You get speedy service. You get the other advantage of dealing with the interested Scotiabank people. So talk over your money problem - whatever it is - debt consolidation - a new car - with the people at your nearest Scotiabank. They're ready and waiting to help you. How much money do you need?
