THE OLD COLORS.

For the first time in history the British army has marched into battle with no colors at its head. They have been left at home, sometimes hung in churches and cathedrals. The following fine verses from The London Outlook are in reference to this fact:

That rent is Talavera, that patch is Inkerman,
A hundred times in a hundred climes the battle round them ran;
But that is at an ended chapter, they will never go to-day;
Hang them above as a link of love where the women come to prey.

In the country of the cactus, in the vale of Al Rashed,
I took them away from the boy who lay in a ring of the dying—dead;
Dead—but he smiled as living; dead—but his hand held this,
The banner had been as the grace of his Queen (God's light be hers and his!)

Perhaps when all is quiet, and the moon looks through the pane,
Under that shred the splendid dead are marshalled once again,
And hear the guns in the desert, and see the lines on the hill,
And follow the steel of the lance and feel that England is England still.

BOER VERSION.

The Boer narrative of the fighting east of Pretoria, posted on a bulletin outside President Kruger's car at Machadodorp, ran thus:

"The commandos east of Pretoria, in the direction of Brockhorst Spruit, were compelled to retire after a fierce stand of more than two days, in a way that won the admiration of the acting commandant-general. The short range rifle fire was very hot, and for part of the second day, especially late in the afternoon, the enemy fought at a distance of 100 yards. Our loss cannot be given yet. The acting commandant-general only mentioned Field Cornet Jan Van Buren, killed. He was one of the pluckiest men in the field.

Information is again to hand regarding the miserable conduct of the enemy's troops that have penetrated to Johannesburg and Pretoria. They continually complain of the lack of food. Several British soldiers have died in the streets of Pretoria of exhaustion and starvation. Along the roads are the corps of horses and mules, while the living animals are so weak they are hardly able to carry their loads."

SOMETHING OF METHUEN.

Saturday Evening Post: Previous to his going to the front, Lord Methuen was extremely popular with the masses. He is a genial man and took a very active interest in the British Volunteer. But his soldiers did not like him. They considered him too shifty and nervous; they had no confidence in him, and soldiers are great at discovering the real ability of a leader. A story is told of Lord Methuen's interview with Lieutenant the Honorable Walter Chetwyn.

Chetwyn came to Aldershot in charge of the Staffordshire militia, ordered out for the annual month's training. Methuen, who is an officer of the Guards, the smartest of all smart regiments, journeyed down from London to inspect the militia, and, after putting the men through their paces, called up Lieutenant Chetwyn and gave him a wiggling.

After the inspection Lieutenant Chetwyn, "mad clean through," ran up to London, and making his way to the Lowther Arcade, where toys for children are sold, invested two sovereigns in trim tin soldiers. These he tacked on a board, in perfect order and without any wrap or cover over them, sent them by special messenger to the Guards Club, addressed to Lord Methuen. On the reverse of the tag Chetwyn wrote that, as far as he had been able to gather, this was Lord Methuen's idea of a regiment. The arrival of this at the club caused consternation among the officers, as it was taken not only as an insult to Methuen, but a serious reflection on the Guards, who hate to be thought more or less 'show' soldiers. This that at first looked like developing into a very awkward incident was, on the advice of the grey heads of the service, allowed to drop.

TERRIBLE SCENES IN INDIA.

The famine in India grows worse. It would be rash to assume from the almost stationary relief figures that the corner will soon be turned. So devastating has been the cholera outbreak, so enormous the mortality, and so blind the terror inspired by this black death, that the famine relief camps in Bombay presidency, which contained thousands of workers, melt away and are left empty in the course of a couple of days. Starving though they may be, the people prefer to fly to their homes, and to die in quiet than to remain in the famine relief camps where the cholera is striking down a hundred workers daily. Terrible stories come from Dohad. There the famine is at its worst, and now the cholera has arrived to complete the work. A correspondent says: "As we walked through those quiet streets we saw deserted homes and dead bodies. One of the bravest acts witnessed was a little girl about seven attempting to care for two little brothers after the mother had given up all hope and lain down near them to die. She was feeding a fire which burned beneath a broken pot in which simmered the almost rotten feet and bones of some dead animal. The scene cannot be painted too black. No account we have ever read of any famine would picture the state of affairs at Dohad." The London Standard's correspondent says the mortality estimates are inaccurate. Innumerable dead bodies are polluting the streams and spreading contagion.

A member of the British House of Commons, who has had an important connection with South Africa is telling a story of a telegram alleged to have been received from Cape Town, which says that Mr. Kruger has really escaped and is already on the seas bound for Europe, and that the person occupying the Executive chair is not Mr. Kruger, but is a substitute.

A Boer report from Machadodorp by way of Lorenzo Marques, gives the burghers' version of their success at Leeuw spruit on June 14. It says that two British convoys were captured, a locomotive and several carloads of railway material were destroyed, and three hundred workmen and fifty soldiers were taken prisoners.

Commandant Piet Viljeon reports that fifty miles of railway in the Orange River colony have been destroyed by his men. Another engagement on June 18 resulted in the capture of 31 British troops.

WEVE ALL 'SEEN HIM.

(Forest and Stream.)

Have you seen our Izaak Walton,
With his bamboo posed with grace,
And his casting-lines and flies
around his hat,
But the quarters to buy fish with
Kept discreetly out of sight,
With the pennyroyal to keep away
the gnat?

Have you seen his natty creel, too—
A square hole in its lid,
Showing sandwiches and milk and lemonade,
But his flask of Four Crown whisky
Kept discreetly out of sight—
To prevent the influenza, should he wade?

Have you seen him lug his fish home,
And heard him spin the yarns
'Bout his fighting them, and pile up lie on lie,
But the boy who sold them to him
Kept discreetly out of sight,
While he posed 'a holy terror' with the fly?

Why, of course you've often seen him,
And you've been there, too, yourself,
And you've done the great prevari-
cating act,
But the quarters that you've squandered
Kept discreetly out of sight,
As you've passed off' whopping lies for solid fact.

When It Hurts to 'Cough.

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest, is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs yield only to the wonderful efficiency of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limes and Turpentine which loosens the tightness and cures cough and cold together. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents, sold everywhere.

Ninard's Liniment Lumberman's Friend.

Capt. Leesberg, an American attached to the Boer artillery, has arrived at Lorenzo Marques. He says that the Transvaal's ammunition factory has been removed to Lydenburg. He declares that Gen. De Wet has 6000 men in the Orange River colony, and Gen. Botha 2,500 in the Transvaal. Fifteen hundred men in small bodies are elsewhere.

Transvaal agents in Lorenzo Marques are credited with admitting that State Secretary Reitz has gone to Europe on a Dutch warship. This story, however, lacks confirmation.
