

CONDUCTING WORKSHOP

Harry Davis, a well-known New Zealand potter, is currently conducting a potter's workshop at the Confederation Center Art Gallery. The workshop got underway yesterday afternoon and will conclude today. This evening Mr. Davis will give a lecture, which will be open to the public at no charge. A display of his work can be seen at the Art Gallery.

Speaker Stresses Advantages From Educational Scholarships

Human dignity and worth are not monopolies of the collegiate world and there are thousands who, without formal college experience, are making significant contributions to our society.

These were the words of Gordon L. Bennett, "Prince of Wales" College registrant, as he addressed the graduating class of Notre Dame Academy last night. "A college education," stated the guest speaker, "is, and will continue to be, vitally important but after all is said and done is only one way of preparing for our journey along the rough, rocky and ruthless highway of life."

His Excellency, Most Rev. Malcolm A. MacEachern, Bishop of Charlottetown, presided at last evening's ceremonies.

The Academy auditorium was packed with relatives and friends of the young graduates.

Mr. Bennett told his listeners that he didn't know of any greater contribution to society on the part of individuals and organizations than the establishment of educational scholarships. He reminded them that up to 19 now they had worked and played as a group but in a very few days this group will dissolve and you will proceed long life's path as individuals.

"You young people will be the ones who, in a very few years, will be expected to give leadership to your communities," Mr. Bennett reminded his audience.

"There are so many ways in which we can give of ourselves, our time, our talents. Such opportunities are impossible to exhaust."

Diploma presentations were made by Bishop MacEachern.

Graduation diplomas were awarded to the following students who have successfully completed the course of study prescribed for Grade XII.

Premier Delivers Address

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — An increase in nurses is the key to many of Nova Scotia's hospital problems, Premier Stanfield said Thursday at the official opening of a new building housing the school of nursing for the Yarmouth General Hospital.

A crowd of about 1,000 watched the premier cut the ribbon for the five-story building.

Mr. Stanfield said other problems in the hospital field included shortage of beds, specialist medical practitioners and personnel such as laboratory technicians, physiotherapists, x-ray technicians and general training facilities.

He said there had been improvement in the situation and the province was reputed to have the best hospital insurance program in Canada.

"We would have no problem if graduate nurses would not leave the province, as we seem to provide more nurses for the rest of Canada and the United States than for ourselves," Mr. Stanfield said.

A prize for Highest Aggregate, a prize for Science, a prize for History all awarded to Ann Cauty.

A prize for second Highest Aggregate, a prize for Mathematics awarded to Katherine Martin.

A prize for third Highest Aggregate, a prize for French awarded to Mary Lou MacAvinn.

Gold Cross for Christian Doctrine awarded to Theresa Campbell.

Notre Dame Alumnae prize for English awarded to Wendy Hubley.

A prize for English Literature awarded to Joan Grant.

A prize for Chemistry awarded to Mary C. MacQuaid.

Two Communist Concert tickets will be given to deserving students during the next school year.

Mdgal of His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada, for General Efficiency in Grade XII awarded to Ann Cauty.

Three of the graduates have been awarded college scholarships.

Ann Cauty, a sixteen hundred dollar scholarship to St. Dunstan's University and an eight hundred dollar entrance scholarship to Mount Allison University. Ann is accepting the Mount Allison scholarship.

Katherine Martin, a sixteen hundred dollar scholarship to St. Dunstan's University.

Joan Grant, a sixteen hundred dollar scholarship to St. Dunstan's University.

Mr. Mullen said he and his brother have been breeding mink since 1960, but only produced this new strain—"Homogenous"—last year. This is the first year they have been put up for sale.

He said this new strain will produce 100 per cent jet black kittens when the "homo" males are bred to standard females. The best that could previously be expected was a 50 per cent jet black litter.

Three of the high-priced animals will go to breeders in British Columbia and Ontario, while the remainder have been sold to breeders in Minnesota, Colorado, Wisconsin and Ohio in the U.S.

He said he had a good relationship with the children and Mrs. Sargeant at that time, and they began to live together in July.

Donald Herbert Blackmore, a stoker in the RCN, and one-time bouncer in a Halifax bar, said he gave his opinion to hospital doctors, Nov. 27.

He was testifying in his own defence in a non-capital murder charge in Supreme Court Thursday afternoon.

His suspicions of the housekeeper were mentioned near the end of his direct evidence to defence lawyer G.H. Fitzgerald.

A crowded court watched Blackmore burst into tears as he described Randy Sargeant say to him, "Hi Dad," Nov. 27, the day the child was admitted to hospital with fatal injuries.

Pediatrician Dr. Pius Sigsworth, who was present when Randy was admitted to hospital with multiple bruises over his body said blood samples were taken immediately and medication given to try to combat shock. The bowel had been severed and the mesentery ruptured.

Blackmore was concerned about the child and worried and anxious at the hospital, Dr. Sigsworth said.

Cross examined by crown prosecutor Davis Thomas, the doctor agreed the child had the "battered child syndrome."

Dr. John F. Evans testified Blackmore had been admitted to a psychiatric ward from Stadacona Naval Base cells. Dr. Evans said Blackmore felt defensive and guilty about his domestic situation and had a passive-aggressive personality.

Blackmore was discharged from hospital Oct. 19.

Blackmore said he had been a bouncer in a bar when he first met Lorraine Sargeant, Randy's mother. She was living with relatives and in his opinion her children were being ill-treated.

The inaugural meeting of the Prince Edward Island Branch of the Canadian Physiotherapy Association was held last night.

The executive, Janet Rogers, president; Mrs. Joost Rogerson, vice-president; and Mrs. Lloyd MacLeod, secretary-treasurer were elected at an earlier meeting to organize the branch.

The CPA is an association of professional people; that is, all members are physiotherapists.

There are eight members in the P.E.I. Branch. Other members include: Judy Archer, Margaret Jardine, Eleanor Hyde, Kay Jackson, Dorothy Kellock. All provinces have branches in the CPA. This is the 24th branch.

Last night, besides the business of adopting their constitution, the branch members met with their medical advisory board. The board members are: Dr. Ross Parker, Dr. T.A. Laird, law, Dr. Clarence Coady all of Charlottetown; and Dr. George Lee of Summerside.

In their first meeting with the board they discussed the future of rehabilitation on the Island.

Donors' Clinic Over Quota

O'LEARY — The O'Leary Legion sponsored Red Cross blood donor clinic last evening exceeded their objective.

Over 150 persons donated blood at the clinic which was held at the O'Leary Legion.

Bruce MacNaught, chairman of the Legion blood donor committee, expressed his pleasure over the fine response from the community and thanked the Legion Auxiliary, nurses, the registrars, workers and the donors for their cooperation.

CAR TRADE FALLS — Sales of new cars in Sweden were 25 per cent lower in the first quarter of this year compared with 1963.

11441 Donors Attend Clinics

A total of 11441 donors attended the Prince County Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic during the past four days. This was a 90.5 per cent response to the objective of 1260.

Two hundred and eleven registered at the morning and afternoon sessions held at the Canadian Forces Base on Wednesday and 165 at the Tignish clinic in the evening.

Yesterday there were 56 donors at Alberton in the afternoon and 159 at O'Leary in the evening.

At Tignish, Alberton and O'Leary the clinics were sponsored by the local branches of the Royal Canadian Legion and with their ladies auxiliary providing refreshments for the donors and volunteers to assist the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor team.

Black Mink Are Sold For $5,000 Each

NEW TUSKET, N.S. (CP) — Twenty black male mink bred by two brothers on a farm near here have been sold to United States and Canadian breeders for a record $5,000 each.

Wallace Mullen said in a telephone interview Thursday the 20 mink—all that were available for sale—were advertised two weeks ago and all were immediately spoken for, although they have still to be picked up.

He added he believes the price of $5,000 is the highest ever paid for a mink.

Three of the high-priced animals will go to breeders in British Columbia and Ontario, while the remainder have been sold to breeders in Minnesota, Colorado, Wisconsin and Ohio in the U.S.

Mr. Mullen said he and his brother have been breeding mink since 1960, but only produced this new strain—"Homogenous"—last year. This is the first year they have been put up for sale.

CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER

Jean-Marc Hamel, 41, settles into his new office as Canada's new chief electoral officer. The bilingual career civil servant was named to the $21,000-a-year post Monday to succeed Nelson Castonguay, who resigned to concentrate on his work as representation commissioner. Mr. Hamel, a native of Lotbiniere, near Quebec City, was a senior special assistant in the Secretary of State Department. (CP Wirephoto)

Minister Resigns

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Anglican minister who caused a furor within his church by stating that God is dead, has resigned as chaplain of the University of British Columbia.

Rev. Alan Jackson said in an interview Wednesday no pressure was brought to bear by his ecclesiastical superiors and the resignation, effective in July, isn't the result of the controversy over his views.

But he added he believes there had been pressure on the superiors to ask for his resignation.

Mr. Jackson said he will devote a year of thought to the God-is-dead theology.

Mr. Jackson said in an interview printed in the university student newspaper Ubssey that most conceptions of God now are obsolete. For all practical purposes, God—was dead and Christians must live without Him.

New Guide Commissioner Is Planning New Approach

By DON McLEOD

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — A new approach to guiding which does not compromise the principles of the girl guide movement, is being made to meet the changing interests and increasing maturity of young girls, says Canada's new chief guide commissioner.

"Brownie lure today, at age 11, is for the birds," says Mrs. K. B. Clysdale of St. Mary's Ont., lively, 30-year veteran of guide work who was installed Thursday at the National Council's annual meeting here.

The trend is to more flexible policies, allowing girls more opportunity to advance on individual merit through the ranks of brownies, guides and rangers with less attention to the rigid rule of age.

Age grouping underwent its first revision in the Canadian history of girl guides last fall, Mrs. Clysdale said, because "the grouping" was wrong, chronologically. It might have been almost 40 or 50 years ago.

The new system allows a girl to move from brownies into guides at 11 years of age, instead of 14. A 14-year-old now could move to the rangers, a drop of several years in the age requirement.

NEW UNIT — As well, an entirely new unit was in the planning stage, to take advantage of the wide experience of young adults who had moved up through all the different divisions.

The trefoil, taking its name from the girl guide crest, would amount to an alumni of guiding.

RCMP Investigate Accident

GEORGETOWN — A 1960 Ford convertible proceeding towards Georgetown went out of control on the Burnt Point Road about a half-mile from here at 5:30 last evening and landed upside down in the left-hand ditch, facing the direction opposite which it had been travelling.

The driver was reported to be Gerald Martell, Georgetown, and the car had three passengers, all from Georgetown: Barry Boudreau, Carl MacLeod and Patrick O'Neill. RCMP of the Montague detachment investigated. An ambulance was called to take Boudreau, suffering facial injuries, to the hospital in Montague. Dr. John Bonnell was also summoned. The others in the car escaped with only a severe shaking up.

The car sustained very heavy damage.

Accused Testifies In Murder Trial

HALIFAX (CP) — The man accused of slaying three-year-old Randy Sargeant blamed his housekeeper, Elaine O'Brien, 19, Thursday for causing the injuries from which the child died Dec. 1.

Donald Herbert Blackmore, a stoker in the RCN, and one-time bouncer in a Halifax bar, said he gave his opinion to hospital doctors, Nov. 27.
